FINLAND INVITES WAR: RUSSIA

TVA FALLS BACK ON USE OF COAL TO MAKE POWER

Low River Slashes Output at Dams.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Florence, Ala., Nov. 2.—The 520 million dollar Tennessee Valley authority experiment in social planning based on water power has now fallen back on coal and steam to produce electricity.

Lack of rain has lowered water levels. The pools in the Tennessee river are low. Power houses at the five completed dams are unable to produce the necessary output of kilowatts. Nature, it seems, is not giving full coöperation to the TVA.

Steam plants recently acquired by the TVA from private interests are now running full speed. Early in the year these generating plants were expected to be shut down because of a surplus of TVA power from the dams, which brought protests from coal men and miners. But now most of them are running night and day to make up the deficiency at the hydroelectric plants on the river.

Dams' Capacities Curtailed.

Wilson dam, grandfather of TVA, gleams in the moonlight as a wall of alabaster, pride of the Muscle Shoals area. But today it is producing only about 50 per cent of its installed kilowatt capacity, engineers say. Wheeler, Pickwick, and Guntersville dams are reported operating at an estimated 85 per cent of capacity and Norris dam at 70 per cent.

In dry October TVA interrupted its prayers for rain and put the Sheffield steam plant into operation after years of disuse. This plant has been a white elephant ever since the world war. Now its three big red brick chimneys across the river from here are smoking day and night. It was put on the line Oct. 11, with about [illegible]0,000 kilowatt installation.

The Sheffield plant was built by the government during the war at a cost of $12,326,392, in connection with Nitrate Plant No. 2 at Muscle Shoals. The government did not operate the plant but leased it to the Alabama Power company. It was shut down for a time after the war as no government use for the power at the nitrate plant then existed.

Plant Leased Again.

Later the plant was leased again to the Alabama Power company, and the lease continued almost up to the time TVA was created and became heir to Muscle Shoals. The principal advantage to the Alabama company was in the switchboard control and a substation at the plant, which was not run at capacity, largely because of the high cost of transporting coal.

The TVA reconditioned the steam plant and gave it a test run some five years ago. Then it became idle while kilowatts were being cultivated in the river. When built, the Sheffield plant was the last word in up-to-date machinery. Now engineers regard it as obsolete.

Since it was built improved methods and machines get much more energy out of a ton of coal. Engineers in the area say the plant is far behind modern steam generating plants. This is natural, because it is 20 years or more old, and it can hardly be expected to produce kilowatts cheaply.

Low Stages Not Unusual.

Engineers say the low stages of the river at this season are not unusual. There were ample rains well into September, but October was dry. The jump of TVA into steam generating to get kilowatts which hypothetically were to come from the river, engineers say, illustrates what private utilities have been declaring for years—that hydroelectric power needs to be backed up with steam plants for a standby.

The development, it is asserted, puts TVA in a new position now—that of manufacturing electric current by steam plants, instead of as so-called by-product at dams, the cost of which is largely chalked up to navigation and flood control.

Competition Negligible.

Thru its purchase of the properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company, TVA on Aug. 15 became almost the sole producer and wholesaler of commercial power in Tennessee. The price was $78,600,000. Of this amount the authority gave a check for $44,728,300, while the share of the municipalities and coöperative associations was $32,371,700.

Memphis, under TVA auspices, took over the system of the Memphis

Soviet Paper Hits 'Threat' by Foreign Chief

MOSCOW, Nov. 3, Friday (AP).—Pravda, organ of the Communist party, declared today that Finland's Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko had "directly threatened" the soviet union and that his remarks of Wednesday night "cannot be appraised otherwise than as an appeal for war with the U. S. S. R."

Pravda said Erkko's position was "precisely like that of former Polish Foreign Minister Beck. It is known that he too made provocative speeches before the Polish-German war, and the result was that he provoked war with Germany."

Final Discussions Today.

The article dealing with negotiations for concessions which Russia has asked of her little Baltic neighbor came on the day a Finnish delegation was expected to start its final discussions at the Kremlin.

Foreign circles had interpreted Erkko's speech Wednesday night as conciliatory in tone and foresaw an early settlement of the Russian requests, but the Pravda article used the strongest language yet employed publicly in the four-week negotiations.

Cites Yielding of Other States.

Citing the fact that Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania already had signed mutual assistance pacts with Russia, Pravda said:

"Attempts to deny the mutual advantages of these agreements for all their signatories are made only by their common enemies interested in fomenting war not only in western but in eastern Europe as well, particularly on the Balkan coast."

Pravda declared Russia had met Finland halfway on all important questions, mentioning that Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov Tuesday told the supreme soviet that Russia had not insisted on a mutual assistance pact because Finland believed such a pact was incompatible with her position of absolute neutrality.

FLYER RESCUES STRANDED BABY AND HER MOTHER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 2 (AP).—An airplane pilot rescued Mrs. Christian Beckman and her 18 day old baby today after they had been stranded in the wilderness for four days. Word received here said the rescue was made by Pilot Nat Browne, who flew the mother and child to McGrath. The two were passengers on a plane forced down on a wilderness lake last Monday.

Pilot Kenneth Neese, who arrived tonight from McGrath after assisting in rescue operations by dropping food and clothing to the victims, said neither the mother nor infant appeared to have suffered any ill effects.

"There was no tent, no food, a heavy snowfall and only one sleeping bag for three adults and a child," Neese quoted the woman.

The other two adults were Pilot Jimmy Dodson of Fairbanks, whose plane was forced down in a snowstorm, and another passenger, Ole Blendheim. The sleeping bag went to the mother and baby.

UTILITIES SHUT OFF HANDBOOKS' WIRE SERVICE

Act After Warning of Prosecution.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company and its parent, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, announced last evening that they would cut off all service next week to Moses L. Annenberg's horse racing information concerns. Illinois Bell's discontinuation is scheduled for noon Monday and that of A. T. & T. for Thursday.

Both companies notified William J. Campbell, United States attorney, and State's Attorney Courtney of their intentions. The two prosecutors, acting jointly, had sent the utilities a warning on Wednesday that they would face prosecution in federal and state courts unless they deprived the Annenberg corporations of telephone service. The Western Union Telegraph company was given the same warning, but had not acted late last night.

Murphy Approves Demands.

"Attorney General Frank Murphy knows what I'm doing," said Campbell yesterday.

This reference to Murphy recalled the long drive that the attorney general and government agencies conducted against Annenberg, whose Philadelphia Inquirer carried on a successful fight against the New Deal and its allies in Pennsylvania in the last gubernatorial election. As a result of this drive 10 indictments have been returned in the federal District court against Annenberg and 19 business associates. These charge evasion of income tax, conspiracy to bribe a government witness, operating a lottery, and carrying mutuel prices from the race tracks in interstate commerce. Annenberg personally was named in seven of the indictments.

Gambling Fraternity Speculates.

Bookmakers and horse race betters the city over were speculating last night on what the action of the telephone companies if carried out as announced would mean to the gambling business. In Chicago alone, it is estimated, 900 betting establishments have been receiving their running accounts of races and exact figures on track pay-offs through the Annenberg concerns—Nationwide News Service and Illinois Nationwide News Service.

Over the country thousands of bookies would be affected by the cutting off of the wire services. It has been alleged that Annenberg furnishes exclusive racing news to bookmakers in 350 cities. It is held that his present setup could not survive without telephones and telegraph messages.

[A discussion of the severance of Moses L. Annenberg's wire service on horse racing information and how it will affect Chicago bookies and their patrons appears on page 27.]

Annenberg's Plans Uncertain.

What action Annenberg will take to combat the new campaign against him was not certain last night. His attorneys were conferring, but they would not say whether an injunction would be sought to hold the utilities to their contracts. They promised a statement today.

Nationwide News Service was inaugurated in November, 1934, and speedily became the greatest disseminator of race information. It has been a tremendous financial success. Estimates place its payments for telephone service at from $500,000 to $1,500,000 a year. It contracted with the telephone companies for service to all its customers, paid the utility bills, and collected its own revenue from the handbooks and other customers. The Associated Press and many newspapers are among its patrons.

Campbell began laying his plans to force the communications companies to discontinue their service to the Annenberg concerns some time ago. Last Saturday he called in representatives of the two telephone concerns and of Western Union and told them of the government's decision to continue the prosecution of Annenberg. He asked them to define their position.

Campbell was informed that under the law the companies are compelled to grant service to all persons and corporations who pay their bills. Later the federal prosecutor got in touch with State's Attorney Courtney and they agreed on a joint pro-

Recapture 6th in St. Charles Gang's Escape

The sixth of the 13 young incorrigibles who overpowered a guard and fled from the St. Charles School for Boys on Wednesday evening was seized in Aurora last night after he burglarized a home. Five other fugitives were captured during the day and two of these confessed burglaries.

The latest captive is Leonard Hudzinski, 17 years old, of Chicago. He was arrested by Lieut. John Strever of the Aurora police after he was recognized on the street by Mrs. Neil Marshall, an employé at the boys' school. Hudzinski, who was sentenced to the St. Charles school on Oct. 22, 1937, admitted the burglary.

He had discarded the dark gray mackinaw and knitted black cap in which he had fled and was wearing a jacket and overcoat when captured. These garments, he said, he had obtained at dusk in the home of Charles Lembke, 713 Downer place, Aurora. Lembke identified the stolen clothing.

Five Others Arrested.

The other inmates arrested yesterday are:

John Schaney, 20 years old, of Freeport, Ill., who is described as the ringleader of the escape; Richard Glissman, 17, of Elgin; Edward Burtsch, 18, of Waterman; Russell Crump, 19, colored, 4808 Vincennes avenue, Chicago, and Alfred Jenkins, 18, colored, 4625 Federal street, Chicago.

The two who confessed burglary are Glissman and Burtsch. They were arrested by Constable F. E. Wood of Big Rock, Ill. He saw the two standing on a side road 5 miles west of Sugar Grove. In their pockets he discovered several new wool socks, handkerchiefs, and packages of cigarets, obviously the loot of a burglary or robbery.

Sheriff Led to Cache.

Taken to the office of Sheriff Marcus W. Damisch at Geneva, they quickly admitted the burglary. Then they led the sheriff to a concrete viaduct under the Burlington railroad tracks just outside Sugar Grove, where other merchandise taken from W. E. Keck's general store in Sugar Grove had been secreted.

Later in the day State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county arraigned the youths before Justice of the Peace W. A. Keiser at Geneva. When they pleaded guilty to charges of larceny and burglary they were

Britain Voices Threat of New Curb on India

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The marquess of Zetland, secretary of state for India, today threatened to proclaim a breakdown of popular government and take over administration of Indian provinces. The threat was made during debate in the house of lords in connection with the resignation of four provincial Indian governments.

The Indian ministries resigned in protest against the British government's decision to wait until the present war in Europe is over before taking up the question of dominion status for India. The resignation of a fifth provincial government is expected soon, Lord Zetland said.

Lord Zetland repudiated suggestions of British insincerity regarding dominion status for India. He declared that racial and communal differences between the Moslems and Hindus must be resolved to give protection to the minorities.

Vouches for Good Faith.

A meeting of Hindu and Moslem leaders was called by the marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, for the purpose of conciliating these differences, Lord Zetland said. The viceroy's proposal for a consultative committee, Lord Zetland declared, was made in good faith and had three purposes:

1. To enable the governor general to communicate confidential information to political leaders. 2. To enable the free exchange of ideas and opinions. 3. To develop thru actual experience the spirit of coöperation necessary to complete self-government.

Lord Zetland said he regretted the plan was not received in India in the spirit in which it was offered.

Viscount Samuel, in opening discussion of the Indian problem, said Indians had raised the question of whether dominion status was adequate. He added that that was the chief barrier to an understanding with England.

Right of Self-Determination.

Viscount Samuel said Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian leader, had explained that independence did not mean separation from the empire, but the right of the people themselves to determine India's future.

"Many of us think that if they were conceded that right they would unquestionably continue membership in the British commonwealth on the same footing as the present dominions," Viscount Samuel said.

Germans Face Fight to Keep American Ship

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 3, Friday (AP).—Several British warships were observed off the Norwegian coast today, apparently watching the progress of the captive United States freighter City of Flint, and the danger was said to exist they might attempt to seize her.

The City of Flint passed the Bergen naval district at 9:30 a. m. [2:30 a. m. central standard time] today, accompanied by the Norwegian mine layer Olav Tryggvason and two Norwegian destroyers.

Nears Turn Into Open Sea.

Authoritative sources said a member of the City of Flint's American crew was sick and under treatment by a physician from the Olav Tryggvason. The seaman was not identified.

Observers here said it was possible British warships would attempt to take the City of Flint from her German captors a few hours after she leaves Haugesund, seventy-five miles south of here, when she cuts into the open sea across the entrance to Bukken fjord.

May Have to Dodge Reef.

The freighter was expected to reach Haugesund at about 4 p. m. [9 a. m., central standard time], and belief was expressed that the sick seaman might be sent ashore there for further treatment.

The possibility also was considered that the City of Flint might have to leave the three-mile limit of Norwegian territorial waters south of Stavanger, farther down the coast from Haugesund and across the wide mouth of Bukken fjord, to avoid Jaederens reef.

Within the Law, Nazis Say.

BERLIN, Nov. 2 (AP).—Authorized German sources said today the American freighter City of Flint in charge of a Nazi prize crew, was proceeding toward Germany "strictly in accordance with international law covering prizes."

Nazi sources said a prize ship may travel in neutral waters provided it has not the character of a warship, enters no neutral harbor except in distress, and keeps moving steadily. Norway, these sources said, apparently took the same view, hence was not objecting to the vessel's movement along her coast.

Call Off Search for Ship.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The British freighter Coulmore, at first believed the victim of a submarine attack, was reported safe today. Authorities called off the search for it. The alleged attack occurred yesterday morning 680 miles east of New York.

Coast guard headquarters was advised by the cutter Bibb early today that a Canadian radio station at Camperdown had been informed the Coulmore was safe.

RULES TWO THIRD TERM BOOSTERS ARE WITHIN LAW

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The justice department's view is that Norman H. Littell, assistant to the attorney general, and Marshall E. Dimmock, second assistant secretary of labor, do not come under the Hatch act.

Attorney General Frank Murphy was asked about a statement by John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., that the two officials were secretly planning a conference of western progressives to launch a third-term move for President Roosevelt.

Murphy said, "Informally I don't believe they are covered by the Hatch act." The act forbids political activity by most federal workers.

REPEALERS WIN IN 3 TESTS ON NEUTRALITY ACT

Bill in Conference; Final Vote Today.

Vote Pleases London

LONDON, Nov. 3, Friday, (AP).—London morning newspapers rated as a No. 1 news story under large headlines the vote of the United States house of representatives for repeal of the arms embargo.

"The United States Does It," "United States Finally Approves Arms Ban Repeal," "Roosevelt Wins Fight to Lift Arms Ban," were some of the headlines.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

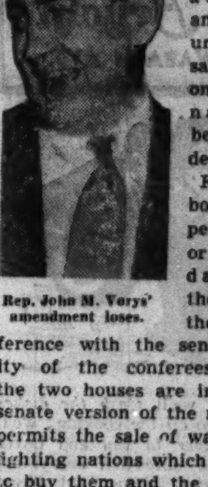
Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—The Roosevelt administration's neutrality repeal bill was approved in its entirety by the house today. Two attempts to amend the measure to ban the sale of war weapons to belligerent nations were beaten down by decisive margins.



Rep. John M. Vorys' amendment loses.

Final passage by both houses is expected tomorrow or Saturday. Today's action by the house sent the bill to a conference with the senate. A majority of the conferees representing the two houses are in favor of the senate version of the measure which permits the sale of war materials to fighting nations which have the cash to buy them and the ships to carry them away. A favorable conference report on the senate bill is expected without delay.

Preparing to Adjourn.

Congress then will adjourn the special session sine die despite a move by Republicans to keep it in session. This was admitted by leaders of both parties.

Three record roll call votes were taken by the house. In each the Democratic majority, aided by a small group of Republicans, rolled up majorities ranging from 32 to 65 votes.

An amendment by Representative John M. Vorys [R., O.], which would have placed a ban on the sale of all war implements except airplanes, furnished the decisive test. It was defeated, 244 to 179. Twenty-two Republicans voted with 220 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor, and one American Labor member, to roll up this decisive majority of 65 votes.

Administration leaders had been confident of a 20 vote margin and had not counted upon Republican assistance.

More Drastic Embargo Loses.

Thirty-one Democrats differed with the administration on this embargo issue and joined with 146 Republicans and 2 Progressives in favor of preventing sales of lethal weapons, including poison gas and flame throwers, to belligerent countries.

A more drastic embargo, on the sale of arms to warring nations, including airplanes, was also defeated, 243 to 181. This amendment was sponsored by Representative James A. Shanley [D., Conn.].

By a smaller margin, the administration knocked down an amendment offered by Representative Jesse P. Wolcott [R., Mich.], making it unlawful for the federal reserve banks, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and other agencies to make loans or extend credits to nations at war. The administration spokesmen contended that the senate bill prevents such action by stating that no person may make such loans. The vote against the Wolcott proviso was 228 to 196.

Conferees Appointed.

After the votes had been announced, Speaker William B. Bankhead appointed Representatives Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], Luther A. Johnson [D., Tex.], John Kee [D., W. Va.], Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], and Charles A.

MASS EXECUTION OF POLES HINTED BY NAZI LEADER

Denies Report 17,000 Were Killed by Nazis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—A spokesman of Adolf Hitler's government today intimated mass executions of Poles occurred in Poland following Germany's conquest.

"We don't know whether the figure of 17,000 which has been circulated abroad is correct," he said. "I do not believe the figure is as high as that, but it would be a scandal if the Poles who participated in the murder of hundreds of Germans living in Bromberg [Bydgoszcz] and other places in Poland had not been executed."

The Germans are training members of the German minority in Poland to become the future police force of the conquered territory. Hitler Guards, the GSP [secret police], and German volunteers living in Poland ruled after the Nazi armies swept thru Poland.

Nazis Get Army Insignia.

A special decree issued by Hitler allows Nazi district leaders and their deputies to wear gold embroidered insignia of the army on their party caps because they are acting as defense commissars.

In order to strengthen the position of these party functionaries in the eyes of the army, the Fuehrer plans to appoint them major generals in the army. They will be entitled to wear the uniform of a general while "attending to their military duties" as defense commissars.

Adolf Huehnlein, chief of all automobile associations, and Capt. Hans von Tschammer und Osten, national leader of sports, will become generals on a similar basis.

Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenburg, German ambassador to Moscow, arrived in Berlin this afternoon and conferred with Hitler tonight.

Russia Places More Orders.

BERLIN, Nov. 2 (AP).—A steadily increasing number of Russian trade experts is engaged in placing orders in Germany to further Russian-German economic coöperation under their trade treaty.

The Russian embassy has been forced to establish separate headquarters to handle the exchange of business and more experts were expected. Many of them will travel about Germany visiting factories to pick out what machinery they need.

Little money was involved in the negotiations because the trade pact was essentially one of barter arrangements. Germany expects to exchange machinery and other manufactured goods for raw materials. German trade experts are in Russia placing orders for wheat, lumber, and ores.

RUMANIANS HOLD 40 SHIPWRECKED JEWISH REFUGEES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 2.—Forty Polish Jews tonight were castaway mariners as well as refugees. They were held by Rumanian authorities after their desperate attempt to reach Palestine had ended in shipwreck late last night at Carmensylva, on the Rumanian Black sea coast. The refugees had hired the boat for $1,400 to smuggle them into Palestine since they did not possess the necessary papers.

From the Rumanian port of Constanta the pilgrims set out supposedly for the little caviar fishing village of Valkov. In the night they ran high and dry on the coast near Carmensylva.

ITALIANS, GREEKS AGREE TO ENTER NEW AMITY PACT

Duce Moves to Tighten Hold in Balkans.

ROME, Nov. 3 [Friday] (AP).—An exchange of Greek-Italian notes expressing a desire to give their friendly relations a "more concrete form" was published today.

Coupled with a reliable report that Italy also will sign a new Italian-Bulgarian treaty shortly, the Greek-Italian exchange lent emphasis to recent statements of informed Fascists that Rome has no intention of yielding her position in the Balkans to any power.

The notes exchanged by the Greek and Italian governments were dated Sept. 30. They expressed the hope a new agreement shortly would replace the treaty of friendship and conciliation that was signed in 1928.

Praises "Spontaneous Gesture."

The Greek note, signed by Premier John Metaxas, expressed appreciation of Italy's "spontaneous gesture" in withdrawing troops from Greece's Albanian border on Sept. 20. He said Greece was reciprocating the action and that Premier Mussolini's "assurances" of Sept. 12 had "created an atmosphere of cordiality."

Both governments, in the notes which were exchanged at Athens, expressed a hope that "the evolution of the international situation will furnish the two governments in the near future an occasion for giving their relations a more concrete form."

Both agreed to base a policy of friendship and collaboration on the 1928 treaty until a new agreement is concluded. Italy considers her interests in the Balkans are not only economic but also political and strategic since she occupied Albania last April. Lately the Fascist press has dwelled on the possibility of a southeastern bloc under Italian leadership.

Acts as Others War.

An Italian agreement with Bulgaria [where Russian influence is reported to be growing] would round out Italy's efforts to solidify her leadership in the Balkans while other principal European powers are at war.

Italy has a treaty of commerce and friendship with Jugo-Slavia. A similar agreement was reached with Rumania last spring. There were reports that a new agreement also was being studied with Egypt. Presumably it would be in the nature of an agreement to advance friendship and trade in that section of the eastern Mediterranean.

CROAT VIOLENCE FLARES; CLASHES LEAVE 20 DEAD

Terrorists Burn Buildings; Hundreds Flee Homes.

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 2 (AP).—The newly formed autonomous state of Croatia is striving to organize a government on efficient and practical lines, but is encountering serious difficulties. Chief among her troubles is violence springing from accumulated bitterness of 20 years of Serbian domination.

Since autonomy was granted to the Croats last August there have been twenty political assassinations, buildings have been burned, many persons have been beaten, and hundreds have fled.

The Croat leader, Dr. Vladko Machek, has appealed to his countrymen against violence, saying such acts only injure Croatia's chances of success.

Won by Hitler Threat.

It was mainly thru the European tension this year that Croatia won autonomy. The Serb dominated government of Jugo-Slavia yielded when the Croats threatened to look to Adolf Hitler for deliverance.

The new state consists of Croatia proper, Dalmatia and parts of Bosnia—more than one-third of Jugo-Slavia in population and area, that is, somewhat more than 5,000,000 persons and 30,000 square miles.

Croatia has full autonomy in all governmental branches except national defense, foreign affairs and communications. These are in the hands of the Belgrade government.

Almost all Serbs who held public jobs in Croatia have been replaced by Croats. The new government also has thrown out many Croats accused of "playing the Serb game."

Flee to Belgrade.

It is against these Croats rather than against the Serbs that the violence has been directed. Some 200 of them have fled to Belgrade.

The Croat government is seeking to smash the Sokol Youth organization. The Sokol movement originated with the Czechs and is somewhat pan-Slavic in character. One Sokol headquarters has been burned by a mob.

The Croats are replacing the Sokol with their own youth organization, the Hrvatska Junak, or the Croatian Heroes. They charge that Sokol was a rallying place for pro-Serb elements.

Jugo-Slavia's partial mobilization has caused some unrest among Croat peasants. During the fight for autonomy Croat leaders promised that Croats would be exempt from military service. Now more peasants than ever are under arms and many horses have been requisitioned. Some cases of mutiny among peasant soldiers have been reported.

FASCIST PAPERS DENY CABINET'S SHIFT SPLIT AXIS

ROME, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Fascist press today reaffirmed the Italian-German military alliance signed last May and declared it remained without change.

Newspapers revived mention of the alliance, missing from their columns since the outbreak of the European war, in comment on Tuesday's Italian cabinet shakeup.

Il Messaggero said it was "foolish" wishful thinking to look for any connection between the reorganization and relations between the axis powers and added that "nothing is changed concerning the alliance between Italy and Germany." The authoritative Fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia yesterday that the shakeup represented no deviation in Italian policy.

TWO HUNGARIAN PAPERS WRECKED IN SLOVAK RIOTS

Mob Demolishes Shops; Calls for Return of Land.

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, Nov. 2 (AP).—Thousands of Slovaks rioted here tonight, sacking two Hungarian newspaper offices, several Hungarian shops, and the headquarters of the Hungarian minority party.

The disorders took place after a massmeeting which was called to protest Hungary's acquisition of a slice of Slovak territory a year ago as a result of the Munich settlement.

[German and Italian mediators, meeting in Vienna on Nov. 2, 1938, a month after the Munich agreement, awarded Hungary 4,875 square miles of territory with 860,000 inhabitants in the Slovak area of what was the Czecho-Slovak republic after it already had lost the Sudetenland to Germany and the Teschen region to Poland.]

Police Fold Their Arms.

Police looked on with folded arms as the rioters, shouting anti-Hungarian slogans, surged thru the streets of this capital of Slovakia, which is nominally an autonomous republic, but under German military protection.

"Down with Hungary—We got revision from Poland, now it's Hungary's turn to give back what she took," the demonstrators shouted.

The rioting started at 9 p. m., and continued until shortly before midnight. The crowds swarmed thru the Hungarian quarter in which one-third of Bratislava's 125,000 inhabitants live. Shops and offices were smashed and signs in the Hungarian language were torn down.

Czechs Threaten Strike.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 2.—It was learned from reliable sources here today that a deputation of Czech workers called on the German protectorate office in Prague threatening a general strike unless the persons arrested after last week-end's Czecho-Slovak Independence day celebration were released within three days.

There was wholesale absence from work in factories on Independence day despite notices warning the population that such actions would be considered sabotage which is punishable under German military law. The absences affected concerns engaged in war production.

Lithuanians Blame Prisoners.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Nov. 2 (AP).—Lithuanian authorities today blamed 2,000 recently released prisoners for rioting which broke out in Vilna yesterday when crowds outside bakeries learned that bread prices had been tripled. Many shops were looted before police restored order. Lithuania regained Vilna on Oct. 27. Russia ceded the Vilna region after taking it in partitioning Poland.

CIO ORGANIZER SENTENCED FOR MASS PICKETING

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2 (AP).—Tracy M. Doll, an organizer for the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, was sentenced today by Circuit Judge Arthur Webster to serve 30 days in jail for contempt of court.

Doll was convicted of violating a temporary restraining order issued Sept. 5 by Judge Webster to prohibit mass picketing at the plant of Frederick Stearns & Co., drug manufacturers and wholesalers.

Judge Webster, in pronouncing sentence, said "the man who invokes the mob does not and cannot believe in our form of government."

THUGGERY LAID TO GERMANY BY HERBERT HOOVER

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Herbert Hoover asserted tonight that cunning organization and organized thuggery are the foundations of the spirit and method of the groups who now control both Russia and Germany.

In a speech at a fund raising dinner of the Y. M. C. A. the former President declared "this same gangster spirit expresses itself in the political machines which control some of our municipal governments, plundering their taxpayers, and controling elections by corruption and intimidation by gunmen.

"The spirit and organization of Al Capone differ not at all from the spirit of Pendergast. [Tom Pendergast, the former Kansas City political boss, now is in federal prison for income tax violations.]

"And the spirit and method of both of them do not differ from the groups who now control both Russia and Germany."

Give Up Your Surplus, Spain to Wheat Growers

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Spanish National Wheat Service today ordered growers to surrender all their crops above 300 kilograms [661.39 pounds] to alleviate Spain's food shortage. The growers, given 10 days to comply, will be paid officially fixed prices.

What Is Wrong with Her Washing Machine? Nuttin'

CHARGES CANADA WASN'T EQUIPPED TO JOIN IN WAR

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 2 [Special].—The Canadian government was charged today by Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative party leader, with a "very regrettable lack of military preparedness" for the European war, shown by an alleged lack of clothing and shoes for Canada's army and of defense equipment generally.

The government, Dr. Manion said, had neither consulted the opposition parties about the conduct of the war, nor acquainted them with its progress. The government also had allowed politics to override purely economic considerations in awarding defense contracts, Dr. Manion charged.

In a reply tonight Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King asked Dr. Manion to give details of any instances where appointments or contracts had been subject to political patronage, and promised full investigation of them.

HOLLAND CLOSES SIEGE AREAS TO FOREIGN OFFICERS

THE HAGUE, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Netherlands high command, acting under a new martial law decree, tonight forbade any member of a foreign military force to enter any one of the hundreds of areas now under a precautionary state of siege.

Exceptions were made only where special permission was granted or where foreign military men were traveling on trains or waiting in railway stations. It was believed by observers the order was a precaution against espionage. It was known that some members of foreign reserve military forces working in the Netherlands before the war did not return home despite the mobilization in their countries.

Approximately 500 small towns and villages, situated for the most part along the German frontier, the northern and western seacoast, and regions which would be inundated in the event of an invasion were affected by the martial law order.

SOUTH ENGLAND GETS A HEADACHE OVER WAR'S COST

London Burocrats Blamed for Extravagance.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HASTINGS, England, Nov. 2.—England's southeast corner—the country of the Cinque Ports—has adjusted itself to its war harness quietly. But one would hardly call it war harness. The martial transformations, aside from the blackout and appearance of uniforms, are scarcely noticed. The muddle, characteristic of putting London into war gear, appears to be missing in these southern counties.

[The Cinque Ports are Dover, Sandwich, Hythe and Romney in Kent, and Rye, Winchelsea and Hastings in Sussex. Their number originally was five, as the name implies. Winchelsea and Rye and other subordinate members were added later. The original Cinque Ports were created by William the Conqueror. The others were added before the reign of Henry III. They furnished warships for the king's use when demanded, in return for which they received certain favors.]

From the coast towns people watch the glowering gray seas of the English channel. They are looking toward France. Sometimes they may see the flash of a gun. Out there mines are strewn and destroyers are chasing submarines.

Finds Travel Is Difficult.

Travel is difficult in England. Trains to the south coast and everywhere are slower and less frequent. Some persons complain that travel is set back to where it was 50 years ago.

But a train and bus eventually will get one around. It takes a couple of hours to get to Eastbourne thru Lewes. Then the train swings east along the coast thru Pevensey, where William the Conqueror landed, to Hastings, where he established his commissariat.

In Eastbourne no sandbags are in sight. "After all this is an evacuation area and what good would it do to bomb us," said a townsman.

Food shops are better stocked in this region. One rattles on to Hastings. Sandbags and war trappings are missing. It seems they put up sandbags in the early days of the war and removed them when there were no air raids.

11,000 Children in Area.

Eleven thousand children are scattered about Hastings. They attend school in alternate shifts with the local children. Thus the native idiom of Sussex avoids confusion with that of Battersea park.

Local transportation—trolley buses, taxis and private cars—is normal. Municipal authorities are trying to keep the holiday industry going as usual. They are advertising special programs for the winter. For the first two years in the world war the towns had a bad slump. But no one believes this war is going to last long. Few people carry gas masks as compared with London.

For the most part they obey signs posted at public places. They refrain from talking about the war in Hastings and Eastbourne and other places. But in the pubs they do scold the burocrats and complain that Mr. Pool [the popular personification of the practice of pooling everything in wartime] and Mr. Burocrat are putting the small man's business on the blink.

Blame London Burocrats.

"It ain't the war, it's them London burocrats that are ruining us," said a traveling salesman who could not get enough gas for his car to visit all of his customers.

Everything is concentrated on Adolf Hitler. He is the bugbear of British firesides. In a hotel lobby one hears an old woman assert: "These German atrocities are unspeakable. I really believe the devil is a gentleman compared with that Hitler."

The Britons in this region complain about the expense of air raid precautions. They declare some of the wealthy people have air raid warden jobs and use the pay they receive as pin money. The Hastings town council is going into that matter next week.

Every one is on the lookout for spies. When a guest registers at a hotel he must fill out two long questionnaires. Formerly one merely had to sign the register.

Prices Remain the Same.

In the south coast towns prices are unchanged—more so than in London. There is less muddling here than in London, inhabitants explain.

On the whole a visitor in Hastings can hardly tell that the war is on. One gains the impression that the conflict is a big city pastime.

The Queen's hotel in Hastings is open as usual and has the usual wealthy guests. Persons dress for dinner and there is a 15 piece orchestra. Many London business firms have evacuated as far as Sussex and the fringe of Kent. They moved their records and most of their office force, leaving a skeleton staff in the metropolis.

Movie theaters are quite filled each night. Fewer American pictures are shown. Moviegoers look at newsreels depicting war scenes without great signs of enthusiasm, but they do stand more punctiliously rigid at the end when the national anthem is played and do not break away before it is ended.

Politicians Boost Morale.

The blackout is taken seriously, but not so seriously as in London. Last week 13 persons were arrested and fined for having slits of light showing from windows. A blackout offense costs 10 shillings [about $2].

Politicians from London come to south England from time to time to boost the morale. Vernon Bartlett, member of parliament, told Hastings last week the war would be won by words, that is, by the ability of the British or Germans to convince people in neutral countries that what they were fighting for is something very fine.

From Hastings a bus takes one along the coast thru ancient Rye and thence to Hythe and Folkstone. Turning north to Canterbury at the forefront of the east coast a traveler returns to London along the old route thru Chatham, which is classed as a danger area. Bombs may fall there.

Canterbury's headache is the ARP [air raid precaution] extravagance and indignation over the way the interior of the cathedral was filled with dirt and sandbags.

Call Canterbury Safe.

Canterbury is a town of 25,000 population and is reputed to be the safest place in England.

"The Germans are not likely to bomb our cathedral and besides George Bernard Shaw has threatened to come down here to stay during the war," a resident said facetiously.

But residents declare the town council is spending 600 pounds [about $2,400] a week or 31,200 pounds [$124,800] a year on air raid precautions. Taxpayers stare goggle eyed at the bill. Canterbury has a mayoress, Mrs. Catherine Williamson. The city has 47 air raid wardens, 49 auxiliary firemen and 25 ambulance drivers.

"It ain't right and it ain't needed," persons say in the pubs as they grouse about the hush-hush tactics of the emergency committee and roar about the crypt of the cathedral being converted into an air raid shelter.

They also complain that the son of an alderman has a five pound [$20] a week job as an auxiliary fireman.

Business as Usual

2 NAZI BOMBERS DOWNED IN RAID ON BRITISH LINES

Third Plane in Scouting Patrol Damaged.

PARIS, Nov. 2 (AP).—Two German Heinkel bombers spun out of the sky in northern France today, caught by allied antiaircraft shells and machine gun bullets from British fighter planes.

A third bomber on the intercepted German scouting raid over British lines headed back for German territory, trailing smoke.

[A dispatch from Lille, France, said a German pilot was killed, an officer aboard the plane wounded, and two other occupants unharmed when two British pursuit planes downed a German bomber. The German aviators were captured. Immediate reports did not say whether this was the same air fight.]

Youths Lead Nazi Assaults.

Young Nazi assault troops, similar to shock forces which led world war German attacks, have entered action anew on the western front, military dispatches disclosed today.

German long range guns continued a spasmodic fire on towns and villages behind French lines today.

French advices said German patrols were scouting all along the front, particularly around Ohrenthal, where the French frontier forms a salient into Germany between the Moselle and Rhine rivers.

French Patrols Active.

The French high command's night communique said: "Our patrols have been active during the day between the Blies [river] and the Rhine."

The morning communique had reported: "Night generally quiet."

[The German high command's communique today said: "In the west, only at isolated points, minor artillery fire."]

Farther east, where the front joins the Rhine, German patrols also had penetrated the forbidding terrain of the Vosges mountains which had been undisturbed, these advices said.

German artillery gave the town of Forbach, two miles inside the French border facing Saarbruecken, a brief violent shelling yesterday.

At least 50 shells were hurled on French positions on the west bank of the Blies river, southeast of Saarbruecken. French dispatches said the Germans were using 105 and 155 millimeter [4.13 to 5.9 inch] guns, but failed to cause "important damage."

Boys, 18 Years Old, Seized.

The French emphasized reports that German prisoners taken in patrol actions disclosed the presence of assault troops on the German side. Several prisoners were reported to have been 18 and 19 year old youths trained for dangerous action.

Despite the artillery activity, military commentators predicted a winter long "waiting war." They expressed the belief that Adolf Hitler had decided, on advice of his general staff, to postpone any general offensive until spring. They theorized recent German feeler attacks had been staged to demonstrate to him the impracticability of a winter campaign.

SEEK RECRUITS TO FILL ARMY MEDICAL JOBS

Recruits are now being accepted for enlistment in the medical department of the army's 6th corps area, Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford said yesterday. The medical department offers the recruit training in minor surgery, first aid, sanitation and hygiene, together with physical training and the new style army drill. Later the enlisted men may be given specialized training in hospital procedure and possible assignments to the service schools featuring special training in X-ray and laboratory technique, Gen. Ford said.

ENGLAND SCOFFS AT RED ATTACK ON ITS WAR AIMS

Molotov's Words Called "Flight of Fancy."

Lord Samuel.

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP).—The speech of Premier and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov on Russia's foreign policy was described in parliament tonight as having shut off soviet military aid to Germany.

This was the interpretation placed upon the soviet official's address of last Tuesday by Lord Samuel, a Liberal, after Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said in the house of commons that he imagined it "occasioned some disappointment" in Berlin.

Lord Samuel, former undersecretary for home affairs, told the house of lords that Molotov's words "clearly and definitely showed that Germany in this war was now isolated militarily."

[Molotov spoke at length of friendly Russian-German relations, but made no mention of any aid other than economic and political for the Nazis.]

Recalls Molotov's Words.

Chamberlain dismissed as "a flight of fancy" Molotov's characterization of British and French aims as an ideological war against Germany.

The prime minister recalled that Molotov on May 31 declared the soviet union stood for "peace and prevention of aggression." Chamberlain added that this was "also the position of his majesty's government."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, immediately cheered the government's decision to "pursue a patient policy of negotiation" despite the "reckless inconsistencies of the Russian criticism."

He urged that during the soviet-British talks now in progress in London Britain intensify her efforts for wider trade between the two countries.

Touches on War at Sea.

Chamberlain's declaration that the empires have stated their war aims "in plain terms" indicated there would be no immediate enlargement on previous assertions that Britain's purpose is to "smash Hitlerism" and "end the fear of aggression."

Touching briefly on the war at sea, Chamberlain said "nothing has occurred to shake our confidence in our ability to overcome the submarine menace" despite losses to British shipping.

"We have continued to take a toll of enemy submarines,' he added.

As to the war in general, the prime minister said stormy weather had slowed operations considerably.

Halifax Addresses Lords.

Speaking in the house of lords, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax said: "The time may well come when it will be possible and right to define in greater detail the terms which would be held to be a fulfilment of the purposes for which we took up arms.

"The primary aim of being engaged in war is to win it and the first purpose we must have is to defeat those who by their repeated violation of European order and threats to freedom have obliged us to take up arms."

Britain's prize court, in its first session of the war, ordered that the 7,583 ton German freighter Pomona, seized in a British port at the outbreak of hostilities, be handed over to the British government.

FLEEING NAZIS DRIFT BACK TO BRITAIN AFTER 6 DAYS IN OPEN BOAT

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Three exhausted German seamen who attempted to escape from internment drifted into the Firth of Forth today after six and a half days at sea in an open lifeboat.

Helpless from cold and hunger, and unable to row, they were carried by the tide and currents into the Firth. There they were handed over to military authorities.

They were members of the crew of a ship being held for contraband examination. They escaped one night last week with only the normal food and other stores kept in the lifeboat.

I Saw Quality at Fannie May!

★ Recently Mr. R. R. McKNIGHT, of the Esco Engineering Laboratories, visited the Fannie May Kitchens—and this is what he says . . .

"I am a research engineer, and the minute I saw in the Fannie May Kitchens a flavoring that I knew cost five times as much as ordinary, I said to myself—'These folks make a quality product.' Later in my visit, I tasted the candy into which the flavoring was blended, and my first judgment was right—Fannie May Candy is certainly fine quality."

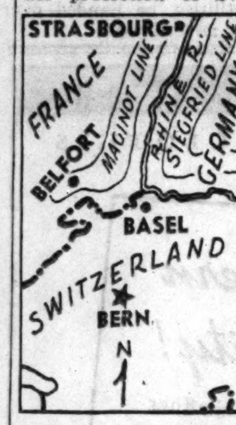
FINDS WAR FOES ALMOST SIDE BY SIDE—IN BASEL

Swiss Depots Bring Them Few Minutes Apart.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Map shows Basel and territory near three nations' junction.

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 2.—Under protection of Swiss neutrality, French and German railway men continue to work in Basel in stations only a few minutes apart.

In this frontier town where three nations meet, France and Germany are permitted to operate terminals staffed by their own nationals despite the fact they are wholely on Swiss territory.

The German station looks like a summer resort hotel in the dead of winter. Today one lone taxi stood outside in the great concrete platz where scores awaited fares in the days before the war. In the huge waiting room two porters dozed on a bench. Only one ticket window out of thirteen was open. The newsstand attendant read a magazine.

Train Section Guarded.

This part of the station is open to all, but to get to the section where German trains are boarded it was necessary to pass Swiss and German customs guards. This required the presentation of a passport to a Swiss guard and a detailed explanation of the purpose of the visit. Thirty feet beyond the Swiss were German guards. The explanation that it was desired to buy German newspapers in the German part of the station satisfied them but, just to make certain everything was on the level, they retained the passport as a hostage to be picked up on the way out.

Three or four German trains pass thru the station daily, crossing Basel which sticks like a blunt finger into the reich. German passengers from Lake Constance en route to Freiburg pass thru the station in sealed cars without the necessity of showing passports at the Swiss frontier. This station also is a freight terminal. Germans have jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to railroading.

Scene at French Station.

Much the same situation exists at the French station where four or five trains now arrive daily with British, Dutch and Belgian merchandise which comes across France under bond from Dutch and Belgian ports.

French railway passengers are discharged in a wing of the Swiss station where French and Swiss customs houses also are situated. It was reported today that France had permitted winter sports enthusiasts to pass from Holland and Belgium thru France in sealed cars to Switzerland this winter.

The French freight station is nearer the border than the passenger station and received the first train since the war began, last Friday. Since then they have been arriving more or less regularly.

The Swiss, however, are taking no chances. Outside both the French and German stations are sandbag machine gun emplacements and barbed wire barricades.

Army Plane Falls Into Sea During a Fog; Pilot Killed

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Nov. 2 (AP).—Lieut. Mell M. Stephenson of the American army air corps, a native of Athens, Ga., was killed yesterday when his pursuit plane fell into the fog-shrouded sea a mile and a half off the shore town of Chame. Stephenson, 28 years old and married, was leading a squadron of nine planes at the time. Another plane also went down, but the pilot escaped by parachute and was picked up by an amphibian. Stephenson's body was not recovered immediately.

EXPECT RUMANIA WILL JOIN TURKS, SOVIET IN TALKS

Would Seek Settlement of Bessarabia Claims.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 2 (AP).—Resumption of diplomatic discussions between Turkey and soviet Russia with Rumania joining in was reliably reported today to have been agreed upon by the three powers.

It was expected that Turkey, generally credited with taking the initiative in the matter, would seek to bring an agreement between Russia and Rumania over Russia's claims to Bessarabia, which she held before the world war settlement.

Hopeful of Deal with Finns.

MOSCOW, Nov. 2 (AP).—Reopening of Finnish-Russian negotiations on further extension of Russian power to the west was delayed tonight while the newly arrived Finnish delegation watched the supreme soviet unanimously approve the admission of western White Russia, formerly a part of Poland, to the soviet union.

Only last night the Western Ukraine, the other section of Poland occupied by Russia after the republic was dismembered by Russia and Germany, was admitted to the union by unanimous vote in parliament.

Most foreign observers agreed the attendance of the Finns at the joint session of parliament augured well for the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the Finnish-Russian crisis.

Finland's five man delegation, headed by Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, arrived this morning for the third in the series of talks precipitated by the westward drive of Russian influence.

Enter Decisive Phase.

The negotiations were seen as entering a decisive phase after the public outline on Tuesday of Russia's aims by Premier Foreign Commissar Vychaeslav Molotov.

He said Russia wanted a strip of Finland northwest of Leningrad, a naval base on the Finnish mainland at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, certain islands in the gulf, a part of the Finnish arctic coast and demilitarization of the Finnish frontier.

Finland was offered in return a portion of soviet Karelia twice the area of the territory Russia wanted from Finland and withdrawal of Russian opposition to the fortification of the strategic Aaland Islands, between Finland and Sweden, if carried out by Finland alone.

Antiair raid blackouts meanwhile continued to be held in various sections of Moscow on alternate nights.

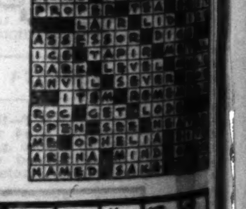
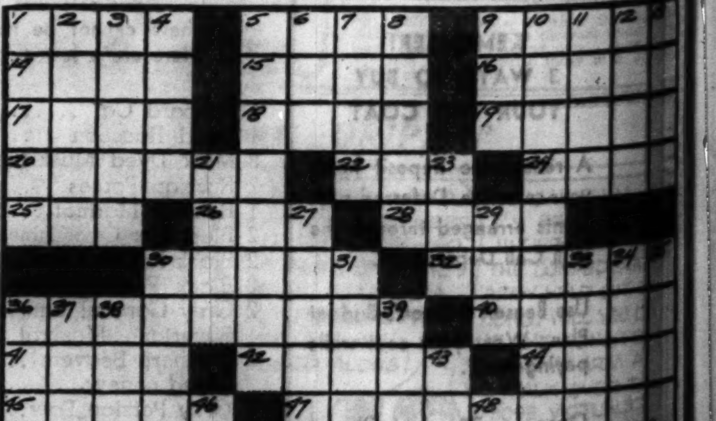
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





POSSIBLE BASES FOR PEACE PLAN ARE ANALYZED

Prof. Wright Tells Likely Border Revisions.

Reports that neutral countries plan a campaign to reëstablish the peace of Europe provoked speculation yesterday as to what basis the warring nations would consider to end the conflict.

Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago, said that a peace plan probably would represent a compromise between the demands of Britain and France for complete restoration of Czecho-Slovakia and Poland and the desire of Germany and Russia to keep their gains.

Lists Possible Terms.

Among the possible bases for a peace formula, he said, might be the following:

1. Restoration of Czecho-Slovakia to the boundaries that existed just after the Munich pact, including the provinces of Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia, and the Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia]. Since England and France agreed at Munich thirteen months ago to give Germany the Sudetenland, Germany doubtless would insist on keeping that area. Hitler's armies occupied Bohemia and Moravia last March, and Hungary seized the Carpatho-Ukraine. Slovakia at that time was established as a Nazi protectorate, and Germany assumed military control there last August.

2. Russia would be allowed to retain the eastern Polish area which she now controls. This territory was part of Russia after the Versailles treaty in 1919 but was seized by Poland in the next few years.

3. Germany would be permitted to retain the conquered land in western Poland, which brings her territory approximately to its 1914 border.

4. The remaining area in central Poland would be established as a so-called buffer Polish state.

German Pledge Necessary.

Prof. Wright said he believes that a necessary preliminary to any peace conference would be an assurance to the British and French leaders that the German government would stand by any resulting agreement.

"The British have declared that they will not rely on any promises made by Hitler," Prof. Wright said. "They remember his Munich pledge that the Sudetenland was the limit of his territorial demands in Europe, and his subsequent betrayal of that pledge thru his seizure of other Czech provinces and his aggression against Poland. Of course, the British and French would have to be in a good military position before they could make demands at a peace conference."

First Snowfall

Woman's umbrella catching flakes of snow yesterday.

Chicago's first snowfall came early yesterday. Flakes swirled down for about an hour and laid a covering .4 inch deep on the city. Bright sunshine then drove the mercury past the 40 mark and the snow melted. Forecaster C. A. Donnel said there might be an additional fall early today. He forecast temperatures below freezing. Tomorrow is expected to be warmer.

WOMAN'S DEATH SHOWS ESTATE SHORT $49,058

Hunt Funds of Automobile Accident Victim.

On a rainy night last February John Gordon Law and his wife, Maude, riding in their automobile in North avenue near St. Charles, ran into a bus. Mrs. Law was killed instantly. Her husband died a few hours later.

The two lived at 710 Shady avenue, Geneva. Neighbors knew them as a modest couple, without children, who raised pedigreed Irish and English setters.

Several days after the accident, however, employés of the Benjamin J. Rosenthal estate at 36 South State street learned that Mrs. Law was the estate secretary. She had used the name Miss Maude Mathews.

Paid $10,000 a Year.

Mrs. Law, who was 55 years old, had been in the employ of Rosenthal, former chairman of the Chicago Mail Order company, for 30 years. When he died in May, 1936, leaving an estate of $4,000,000, Mrs. Law became estate secretary at a salary of $10,000 a year.

Yesterday records in the Kane county Probate court at Geneva indicated that during the last three years a total of $49,058 in funds from the estate and companies under its control was not accounted for. A claim for that amount has been filed against Mrs. Law's estate by the Rosenthal estate and heirs of the mail order executive.

Attorney Howard E. Smith and Public Administrator Martin J. O'Brien for the Law estate said they were unable to explain what happened to the money. The estate of Mrs. Law and her husband amounts to about $22,000. She left all her property to her husband in a will. The couple's estate includes their home valued at $15,000, a $300 bank account, and 36 dogs, besides household furniture and an automobile.

$9,000 Sent to Sister.

At a court hearing earlier in the week auditors for the Rosenthal estate were able to trace the expenditure of only a small amount of the shortage. They said they found records to show that Mrs. Law sent more than $9,000 to a sister in Hollywood, Cal., during the last three years.

Mrs. Law spent large sums for clothes. A bill for one month at a State street store totaled $1,500, the attorneys said. In tracing the shortage, they said, they learned she had turned over $14,000 in Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds to a bank to be sold. The money was deposited in her bank account, but had been withdrawn before she died.

The couple had few acquaintances in Geneva. None could be found who ever saw them at a race track or gambling establishment. Mr. Law did not work and devoted his time to caring for the dogs. Attorneys have asked until Dec. 5 to examine the audit and records further.

PUSHES MANTENO TYPHOID INQUIRY TO SPRINGFIELD

State's Attorney Seeks to Place Blame.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 2.—State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee county today continued his investigation into the Manteno State hospital typhoid epidemic by interviewing A. L. Bowen, head of the state public welfare department, and Dr. A. C. Baxter, head of the state health department.

Shapiro obtained from Dr. Baxter additional records of correspondence between the two departments relative to the Manteno water supply. These, Shapiro said, contained repeated warnings that the water was contaminated and recommendations that something be done by the welfare department to correct the condition.

Public to Get Truth.

"Now that I have complete copies of the correspondence, as well as statements from state officials, hospital officials, and several employés," Shapiro said, "I shall weigh the evidence carefully and determine whether any further legal action should be taken. I may make an announcement on this tomorrow. One thing is certain, whatever I decide the public is entitled to a full, fair, and open account of the findings and this they shall have."

Shapiro arrived in Springfield for a morning appointment with Bowen, but was forced to wait until late afternoon because Bowen chose the morning to talk to a sheriffs' convention.

Shapiro finally found Bowen at luncheon and offered to talk with him and with Dr. Baxter at the same time. This offer was refused, and Shapiro went to Bowen's office after completing his business with the health department chief. He said he had given Bowen a chance to present his reasons for failure to act on the health department warnings, but did not amplify on the statements made by Bowen.

Negligence Is Charged.

Shapiro decided on an investigation of the epidemic after charges that negligence was a factor in the scourge which has cost 52 lives to date. Shortly after announcing his intention he received a telegram from Gov. Henry Horner promising full coöperation and mentioning the possibility of grand jury action if that seemed justified. Since then the state's attorney has devoted many days to interviews and the study of reports.

UTILITIES AGREE TO SHUT DOWN BOOKIE SERVICE

Act on Orders of Federal and State Attorneys.

gram to use both federal and local powers to force the companies to drop Annenberg as a paying client.

On Wednesday they formulated the letters of warning to the utilities. In general, the letters to each company were the same. Each was signed by both prosecutors.

They began by reciting that Annenberg and the two corporations had been indicted in August by the federal grand jury for violation of anti-lottery laws. They related that the utilities might be involved in the prosecution if they continued their service to those indicted.

The letters announced that the prosecutors had facts showing that a large number of bookmakers in northern Illinois were dependent for information on the Annenberg interests.

Bookmaking Tieup Related.

"Wire service," the two prosecutors declared, "invariably is obtained by bookmakers from the Annenberg corporations, which in turn are enabled to provide such service by virtue of contracts with your company."

This wire service, they asserted, was "an integral part of bookmaking—without it the establishment could not operate." Furnishing such wire service, the prosecutors held, was in violation of both federal and state law. Then came the warning.

Furnishing more wire service to Annenberg, they declared, "will be upon the peril of [the telephone and telegraph companies] being held to properly account for knowingly aiding, abetting, and conspiring in the violation of the federal and state laws."

Threat Is Disclosed.

This was the threat. Courtney and Campbell made it public yesterday morning. They called newspaper men into the Campbell office in the United States courthouse. They outlined the hold which, they said, the law gave them against the communications companies. They handed out copies of the letters. They said that the companies' contracts with Annenberg contained clauses authorizing discontinuance of service if the race information concerns were charged with violating the laws.

"Unquestionably the operations of these service enterprises are unlawful," was a quotation from the letters of warning. "You are, therefore, respectfully requested to immediately terminate such service."

Campbell was asked what "immediately" meant.

"We will give the companies time to read the letters and answer," he replied. "We expect to hear from them by the end of the week. A new grand jury term begins Monday. If they fail to obey, grand jury action is the only recourse."

Campbell seemed to be in a jovial mood. Courtney, the newcomer in the Annenberg prosecution, sat beside him. It is believed his ability to go before the county grand jury for indictments was a potent argument considered by the telephone company officials.

"Does this mean joint action by you two from now on?" a reporter asked.

"It means joint action against Annenberg and any other wire service," said Courtney.

Campbell also said that all such cases would be handled jointly. He added that he expected that the wire ban against the Annenberg services would be made effective on a national scale. Courtney said that he and Campbell were "going to break up the syndicate."

"That's a good statement," said Campbell.

Illinois Bell's Reply Quoted.

The reply of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, signed by A. H. Mellinger, president, was addressed jointly to the prosecutors. It read:

"Your joint letter dated Nov. 1, 1939, addressed to me as president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, in which you state that you have evidence in your possession that telephone service furnished by this company to Moses L. Annenberg, Nationwide News Service, Inc., and Illinois Nationwide News Service, Inc., is being used in violation of federal and state law, is received.

"In conformity with the notification and request contained in your letter we are this day giving notice to Moses L. Annenberg, Nationwide News Service, Inc., and Illinois Nationwide News Service, Inc., that on Monday, Nov. 6, 1939, at 12 o'clock noon, the Illinois Bell Telephone company will discontinue furnishing telephone service to them under their respective contracts.

Disown Policing Powers.

"Your letter also refers to 'any other related or affiliated corporation, or any other corporation, individual, or enterprise which is now engaged, or hereafter may be engaged, in similar activity.' As explained at our conference on Saturday, Oct. 28, 1939, with Mr. William J. Campbell, United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois, and his associates, we must look to law enforcing agencies to advise us of evidence of violation of federal and state law to be used as a basis for denying telephone service, for we cannot undertake to act as a policing agency, or to censor telephone service, which, under federal and state law, we have no right to do.

"If at any time evidence comes to the attention of either of you that telephone service is being used by such other corporations or individuals for illegal purposes in respect to bookmaking and gambling, we will undertake to comply with requests you may make in relation to the denial or withholding of telephone service to such corporations or individuals, in conformity with our present practice.

"Unless we are advised by you to the contrary, we will assume that this program will meet the requirements of your letter."

A. T. & T. Reply Less Formal.

The A. T. & T. announcement was made in less formal terms. Officials merely said they would comply with the prosecutors' wishes.

Annenberg is one of the wealthiest citizens of the United States, it is believed. He paid $6,000,000 for the Philadelphia Inquirer. He owns the Daily Racing Form and numerous magazines, as well as the race information services. He has maintained that he did not evade income taxes—the government claims he owes more than $5,000,000, including penalties and interest—and is willing to go to court on the issue that he has violated the federal anti-lottery laws.

He incurred the enmity of the New Deal when he supported a Republican ticket in Pennsylvania in 1938 and was largely instrumental in deposing Gov. George H. Earle, Democrat. Inquirer stories of graft involving Earle and Senator Joseph F. Guffey caused indictments to be returned charging him with criminal libel. These were nol prossed after the election.

At Conspiracy Trial

MRS. BEATRICE BUCHALTER.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—A government witness in the trial of two allied textile corporations and five individuals accused of conspiring to harbor Louis Buchalter, better known as Lepke, and Jacob [Gurrah] Shapiro testified today that he had seen them both in the 5th avenue offices of one of the concerns while they were federal fugitives.

With this testimony and that of Philip Kasakove, one of the defendants, that both corporations were owned wholly by Lepke and Shapiro, or their wives, the prosecution rested its case late in the day.

Joseph Miller, a clothing manufacturer, shot three times last March in an attempted street assassination, not only swore that he had seen Lepke and Shapiro in the offices of the Raleigh Manufacturers, Inc., but said that Shapiro's brother, Carl, another defendant in the present trial, was with them.

Lepke's wife, Beatrice, who uses the name Buchalter, also was a minor government witness.

$5,000 EQUIPMENT BURNS.

Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—Machinery and tools valued at more than $5,000, owned by the Shappert Engineering company of Belvidere, were destroyed by fire yesterday where the company is building a bridge over Rock river. The blaze resulted from explosion of a drum of gasoline in a tool shed when an employé lit a cigaret.

JURY THAT FREED BOOKIES THINKS LAWS ARE UNFAIR

Explain Quick Acquittals in 'Open and Shut' Case.

Members of a Municipal court jury which on Wednesday found four defendants not guilty in the state's case against handbook operators, yesterday explained their action. They said they believed the present gambling laws discriminatory, and suggested that handbooks should be legalized.

Albert Lauritzen, 3245 North Major avenue, foreman of the jury, spoke for himself and most of his associates.

"We felt that the gambling law as it now stands is discriminatory against all except the wealthy," he explained.

Believes Law Is Wrong.

"People with money can go out to the track, even if they must travel long distances and take off much time from work. The poor people can't afford this. Nevertheless a poor man likes to get a thrill now and then by betting 25 to 50 cents on the horses. He can do it in a handbook.

"While we were deliberating we could see the grandstand at Sportsman's Park from the windows of the Criminal courts building. There you can bet on the horses and it's all right. Across the street, if you placed a bet, it would be illegal. We think that is wrong."

The gambling case Wednesday involved Benny Carrichet, Leonard Bass, James Hughes, and Earl Duconge, all colored, who were arrested Oct. 6 for operating an alleged handbook at 313½ East 55th street. Policeman Edward J. Kelly testified that he had placed a 50 cent bet, for which he had a receipt. He had also seized handbook wall charts.

Deliberate 15 Minutes.

The state considered the action an open and shut case. Yet the jury deliberated only fifteen minutes before returning a not guilty verdict.

The four women members of the jury listened as Lauritzen spoke, but declined to be quoted. They are Mrs. Belle Tischler, 2920 North Troy street; Mrs. Helen Heil, 836 W. 52d street; Mrs. Rose Arraguyn, 3134 Princeton avenue, and Mrs. Bernice Grund, 5623 North Karlov avenue.

Myron Lewis, assistant state's attorney, who prosecuted the case, said: "I'll keep trying until I get a conviction." Gambling cases scheduled to come up yesterday before Judge Joseph J. Drucker in jury court were continued to Nov. 14.

A Police Squad's Bomb Mystery Fizzles Out

Sergt. John Coughlin and his Fillmore street police squad handled with care the box they found in the 5500 block of Van Buren street yesterday. A burned fuse protruded from it. They soaked it in water for half an hour, then opened it. Inside they found a firecracker.

To Make Some Money

Everybody understands that railroads exist to provide transportation for the benefit of patrons, employment for the benefit of workers, purchasing power for the benefit of farmers, merchants and manufacturers, taxes for the benefit of governmental employes.

Amid this welter of confusing claims, let us never forget there is another benefit that lies at the foundation of all—the benefit which is conferred upon the railway owner as the result of being permitted to make some money.

Far, far too many railway owners are making no money today; some of them are lucky to keep their property out of the hands of the sheriff. Yet the investment represented in railway ownership is the one thing that provided the plant and stimulated the enterprise upon which all railway progress has been based.

Under private ownership the future of the railroads depends most closely upon adequate earnings—earnings that will maintain their credit and attract new capital for the further improvements that traffic will demand.

HUNT FOR POWER BEHIND SCENES IN U. S. RED CIRCLES

Communists Rule Nation's Shipping, Dies Is Told.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—Aroused by testimony that soviet Russia was virtually in control of American sea shipping thru communist rule of the National Maritime union, the Dies committee decided today to press a hunt for an alleged soviet secret police agent who was described as "a power behind the scenes."

William McCuistion, suspended member of the National Maritime union, said that this man is George Mink and that he could give orders to Earl Browder, the general secretary of the communist party in the United States. Mink, he added, has been particularly active on the west coast.

Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] disclosed the committee has been endeavoring to subpena Mink, and directed Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, to ask the justice department to aid.

Red Control of Union Told.

From McCuiston and Frederick C. Phillips of New York, also a seaman, the committee received testimony that communists have control of the National Maritime union, altho they said relatively few of the members are communists.

Phillips told the committee 80 per cent of the union's leadership is communist and "the other 20 per cent are afraid to open their mouths."

"Then you might say," Dies suggested, "that Russia has more control over the situation than the United States?"

"You might," was the reply.

"It seems to me that the soviet union is virtually in control of the situation here so far as our ships are concerned," Dies said.

"At the present time I believe so," Phillips answered.

Suggests Soviet Motive.

Phillips, who said he was a volunteer in the air corps during the world war and a member of the American Legion at Dover, Del., expressed the opinion that the communist party in Russia is trying to control the marine industry in the United States because it is a "paralyzing industry."

It was explained this term was used in reference to an industry where a stoppage of work would have wide economic repercussions.

Asked by Dies whether a great deal of damage could be inflicted thru the industry in event of war between the two countries, the witness said ships could be sabotaged to such an extent that the navy would be powerless.

Witnesses Tell of Threats.

McCuistion and Phillips both told the committee they had been threatened because of their opposition to communists in the maritime union.

At Dies' suggestion, Phillips went to the justice department and told his story to Henry Schweinhaut, head of the department's civil liberties division. Schweinhaut said Phillips said he had been boycotted by the maritime union because he attempted to rid the union of communists, and since then had been unable to get a job. Phillips' statement, Schweinhaut added, would be studied.

LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE CALLED IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 3, Friday [Special].—The International Longshoremen's association in the port of New York went on strike at midnight against nine steamship lines in the coastwise trade. The strike almost immediately will affect 70 ships and about 8,500 men.

More than 10,000 men will be affected by the strike if it continues more than a few days,

Longshoremen leaders called the strike yesterday afternoon after the membership had declined to accept a proposal from the operators to extend the expired contract for 90 days. The men had asked for a wage increase of ten cents an hour and a 40 hour week, compared to the present hourly pay of 95 cents over a 44 hour week.

Chosen as Miss Aviation; Learns to Fly in 7 Days

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—If the world could be made in six days Miss Ruth Shelly figured it wouldnt' take her much longer than that to learn to fly an airplane—and it didn't. The beauty didn't know how to fly when she was chosen "Miss Aviation" for the All-American air maneuvers at Miami, Fla., next January. She set about learning and seven days later was living up to her new title.

WOMEN RALLIED TO SUPPORT DIES' FIGHT ON 'ISMS'

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst.

Support of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was urged yesterday by Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Whitehurst addressed the northern regional institute of the Illinois federation at the Hotel Sherman.

"The women of this country can do three things," she said. "First, sell democracy, tell of the benefits derived in our country, support Dies.

"Second, re-create faith in religion. Democracy is doomed if we cannot retain religious training among our people. And third, obviate some of the weaknesses in a democracy, so that it will function to the satisfaction of the greatest number of our citizens."

Bank Aid Plunges to Death Where 2 Died Day Before

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—Otto Alden, 48 years old, an assistant secretary of the Bank of New York, plunged to his death today from a room which he had taken a short time before at the Hotel New Yorker. His body landed at almost the same spot as those of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Walker, who carried out a suicide pact yesterday by leaping from a room in the hotel. Bank officials said that Mr. Alden worked in the personal trust department,

The strikers held possession of two of the company's plants in North Chicago from Feb. 17 to Feb. 26, 1937. Adelman, a Milwaukee leader of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, is the last of 39 men to complete sentences resulting from the strike.

THE LURE AND LORE OF LINEN (2)

By CALEB

ENGLAND'S ten-days-Queen, Lady Jane Grey, went to the scaffold in 1553, following Edward VI's death, wearing over her eyes "a fair handkerchief" given her by a kindly executioner. Equally fateful was the handkerchief which fluttered from the fingers of Anne Boleyn, to drop at the feet of Henry Norris just as he arrived from tournament. Wiping his heated face with it, he gallantly returned it on his lance-point—but the act so enraged Henry VIII that queen and lover lost their lives.

A handkerchief plays its romantic part between Orlando and Rosalind, in As You Like It—and its role of bitter tragedy in Othello, when the Egyptian charmer gives Desdemona his magic square of cloth "spotted with strawberries." Courtiers of Elizabethan days carried it as an indispensable accessory — for dusting shoe buckles, brushing grains of snuff from cloak and ruffles, and concealing each snuff-born sneeze. There was even a distinct etiquette for sporting it in the crook of one's free arm, when bowing and doffing a gay-plumed hat . . .

That Fashion forever swings in cycles, the Chinese paper handkerchief of centuries ago bears witness. So can be traced a style-vogue of 1939 to the England of 1604—and its flair for handkerchiefs wrought with names, flowers and mottoes. As to handkerchief prices of Lang Syne, these were not so much out of line with modern values as might be supposed. Sixty-five years ago, a Czarina of Russia paid $2,500 for a single cambric creation, marvelously embroidered, that took sixty years to make; but around 1720, prices to ordinary buyers ranged from thirty cents to two dollars and a half, in modern currency.

Time was when the feminine elite—according to Dr. Vizetelly, managing editor of Funk & Wagnalls Dictionary—matched each toilette with its appropriate handkerchief: one for morning, another for noon, a third for evening, a fourth for the promenade, a fifth for theater or opera, a sixth for court, a seventh for the boudoir, and an eighth "for visits of charity." An original-minded modiste of fifty years ago also set an admired vogue by contriving a lureful evening gown of thirty-nine blue and white silk handkerchiefs. Dress trimmings at neck and sleeves was another frequent handkerchief use.

A special handkerchief commemorated Sir Thomas Lipton's first Shamrock challenger for the American Cup. Queen Victoria's first visit to Ireland evoked a similar memorial, one hundred of which were presented to distinguished visitors; and countless historic events have thus been perpetuated. . . . In transferring our attention to the modern-day handkerchief, we shall find the subject equally interesting, and even more immediate and practical.

TVA FALLS BACK ON USE OF COAL TO MAKE POWER

Low River Levels Slash Output at Dams.

Power and Light company in June for $17,360,000, TVA contributing $2,110,000.

Except for the upper east Tennessee, where a few private utilities operate, TVA acquired the state as a power market without competition.

The rated generating capacity of the former Tennessee Electric Power company system is about 245,000 kilowatts. The TVA has 470,200 kilowatts of capacity installed in its five completed dams, Wilson, Wheeler, Norris, Pickwick, and Guntersville. The total is 715,200 kilowatts.

The transactions ran the number of ultimate consumers using TVA power up to 324,000, of which about 270,000 are residential. Memphis brought in 54,000 customers; the Tennessee Electric properties added 145,000; before that TVA had 125,000.

Four Steam Plants Added.

Four steam plants were brought into the TVA system in addition to the old Sheffield plant. They are Nashville, 48,000 kilowatts; Hales Bar, 40,000; Parksville, 13,000, and Memphis, 57,000. Including the Sheffield plant, it brought the total installed capacity of steam plants controled by TVA up to 218,000 kilowatts.

Early in the year, while negotiations were under way, it was rumored that the steam plants would be closed. Blocks of TVA power had been "held in reserve" to take care of cities coming into the TVA system, such as Nashville. Coal miners and operators said it would mean a loss to the coal market of more than 300,000 tons a year used at the plants.

While the bituminous coal commission was striving as one government branch to aid the mining industry, TVA was pictured as buying up steam plants to put them out of business by reducing coal consumption.

Now nature and a dry season have brought the steam plants into operation.

Coal Purchases Shown.

In October TVA bought 57,000 tons of coal for the Hales Bar and Sheffield plants, and both are running at capacity. So is the small steam plant at Parksville. For Nashville alone, 60,000 tons of coal were ordered.

In Nashville the steam plant is carrying the biggest load it ever carried, according to engineers. Part of its current comes from TVA. Out of 64,000 kilowatts used in Nashville Saturday, 38,000 came from the steam plant, the rest from other sources.

The steam plants also are running Sundays, when the demand is light. This, it is conjectured, is to save at the power dams. Meanwhile some of the large consumers who contracted for blocks of secondary power—power which is not there all the year around 24 hours a day—have had their supplies of current reduced.

2 QUART MILK BOTTLE O. K.'D FOR SUBURBS

The board of health yesterday gave the Borden-Wieland Dairy company permission to bottle milk in two-quart glass containers at its plants in Chicago. Milk so handled is to be sold in suburbs. H. N. Reser, vice president of the company, said there were no immediate plans to make two-quart sales in Chicago.

Representatives of several unions appeared before the board to oppose the proposal that Chicago milk companies be allowed to use paper containers. Fred Dahms of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union said he feared paper containers would cut down employment on wagons. Joseph D. Keenan of the American Federation of Labor said he believed paper would be more costly to the consumer.

Frank Gillespie of the Inside Dairy Workers' union indicated he would not oppose paper if fabricating of the containers is done by members of his union in the plants.

WHOLESALE RATE CHANGES WILL BE TAKEN UP BY TVA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 [Special].—Changes in electric service contracts between the Tennessee Valley authority and wholesalers will be negotiated soon, it was announced today. The changes were expected to reduce charges to consumers of TVA power if wholesalers scaled their charges.

TVA Director David Lilienthal said at a press conference the TVA wholesale customer in Alcorn county, Miss., would make the first reduction in rates for service delivered. The wholesaler, he said, has been earning 23.6 per cent on its investment less depreciation. This, he said, is excessive compared with a rate of 6 per cent by private industries.

GOVERNOR O. K.'S PLEA FOR MORE LAKE DIVERSION

Gov. Henry Horner yesterday authorized Attorney General John E. Cassidy to petition the United States Supreme court for an increase in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan to the sanitary district canal.

The flow was reduced to 1,500 cubic feet per second last Jan. 1, by order of the Supreme court. As a result, Joliet and Lockport have complained repeatedly that the sluggish current is not sufficient to float the sewage.

Mayor George T. Jones of Joliet recently lodged a complaint with the war department of the insanitary conditions prevailing as the result of the situation. He was notified only the Supreme court could modify its order.

FOUR CONVICTED OF CONTEMPT IN 24TH WARD VOTE

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki found four 24th ward election officials guilty of contempt yesterday as a result of irregularities in the 5th precinct balloting in the primary of April, 1938. Judge Jarecki sentenced three of them to a year in jail. Those sentenced to jail are Oscar Tucker of 3626 Grenshaw street, Republican judge; Nicholas De Fabio of 3638 Grenshaw street, Republican judge, and Hyman Feigenberg of 1138 Independence boulevard, Democratic clerk. Mrs. Edith Goldfarb of 3632 Grenshaw street, Republican clerk, was fined $500. Myron Faier, 1123 Independence boulevard, Democratic judge, was found not guilty.

VOTE STEALING SPREE RELATED TO GRAND JURY

Ballots Cast by Officials, Says Poll Judge.

A story of how a group of election officials and party workers cast more than 100 ballots themselves in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward during the judicial election last June was told to the grand jury yesterday by Harry L. Beck, 2632 Lowe avenue. Beck served as a Republican judge in the same precinct.

The men who engineered the illegal voting, Beck said, were Sam Orlando, 2600 Wallace street, Democratic precinct captain, and his assistant, Joseph Vinci. When this pair discovered that the voters in the precinct were not enough interested to come to the polling place, Beck said, they decided to enliven the election.

Get Signatures of Voters.

After passing around a bottle, he said, they seized more than 100 applications for ballots from the judges' tables and scurried around the precinct getting the signatures of registered voters. They then turned in these signed applications and voted the ballots as they wished in the polling place at 2706 Lowe avenue, Beck said.

When the ballots were counted, he told the grand jury, it was discovered that Orlando and his cohorts had voted more ballots than they had applications. This was remedied, Beck said, by filling out enough applications to balance the number of votes.

The Republican judge protested, Beck said, that they had too few votes to make a showing. Orlando then erased crosses from a few Democratic ballots and transferred them to the Republican candidates, according to Beck.

Gets $10 for His Help.

Not only did Orlando vote ballots illegally, Beck said, but he also held out the ballots after each proper voter had marked them so that he could see whether his constituents were voting as he had instructed them. Beck said he was given $10 by Orlando for his help.

As a result of Beck's disclosures yesterday and earlier to Assistant State's Attorney Thomas A. Bugan, the entire precinct election board of the Stockyards ward, with the exception of Vinci who has disappeared, is now under arrest.

Those held in addition to Beck and Orlando are: Gladys Spizzirri, 2725 South Union avenue, Democratic judge; Ann Turrini, 637 West 26th street, Democratic judge; Joseph Leonardis, 2631 South Lowe avenue, Democratic clerk, and Edward J. Schader, 2707 South Union avenue, Republican clerk.

TELLS HOW SHE USED $1,000 TO MAKE $250,000

Accused Swindler Defends Deals.

Mrs. Katherine Morris, 60 years old, a real estate operator, yesterday told Judge John Sbarbaro in the Criminal court how she ran $1,000 into a business that grossed more than $250,000 in one year. She and four other members of her family are on trial before Judge Sbarbaro without a jury on charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud the public.

Mrs. Katherine Morris

Early in the day 40 state witnesses described how they lost savings to Mrs. Morris' company, the First State Mortgage company, 10 North Clark street. They said they put up money to purchase property in litigation, but failed to get the deposits back as promised when the company was unable to deliver title to the property.

Blames State's Raid for Losses.

Mrs. Morris freely admitted this was true, but she blamed the state's attorney's office for her troubles.

"I could have paid back all deposits if the state's attorney hadn't raided my company," she said.

Mrs. Morris then explained that she started the company with about $1,000. She said the public was interested in property to be sold for taxes or other arrearages and that she determined to deal in that kind of property.

She accepted deposits on promises to deliver certain properties. When she was unable to deliver, she could pay back by using funds provided by new deposits on still other property, she told the court.

Banked $211,000 in Year.

"Why, we banked $211,000 the first year," she testified. "This was about 80 per cent of the money taken in. We lost about $10,000 the first year by opening new offices." She did not explain what became of the money which was not banked.

After Mrs. Morris testified, her daughter, Mrs. Esther Arnold, 32, took the stand. She said merely that she had aided in some of the company's transactions on instructions from her mother. The others under indictment, in addition to the daughter and mother, are Jay Arnold, husband of Esther; Louis Morris, husband of Mrs. Morris, and their son, Milton. They are charged with conspiracy to defraud 60 victims of about $80,000.

The defense is expected to conclude its testimony today.

ROBBERS TAKE CAR, TOO.

Two men who robbed Joseph Bruno of $55 in his grocery at 656 North Homan avenue last night, demanded the keys to his car. When he complied they went out and drove away in it.

'GUILELESS OLD MAN' UNMASKED AS THIEF, KILLER

Seized as He Quits Ship with Woman Dupe.

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—Joseph Huebscher appeared to be just a guileless old man who had encountered some minor trouble over a passport when he was arrested last night upon his arrival from Europe on the liner Washington.

Joseph Huebscher arriving in New York.

Today he was revealed with a background rivaling that of a character in a crime noval. His career even included a love interest, for he was described as a Lothario whose charms at 69 still were able to win the heart—and savings—of lonely women.

[Huebscher told New York authorities, he once worked for Lincoln park and gave a Chicago address. Park authorities could find no record of him for 20 years back and the address was of a hotel used by transients of meager means.]

They Delve Into His Past.

Huebscher had a pistol and $36,000 in securities when he was seized. Despite his protests that he was a greatly misunderstood man who never did much of anything wrong, investigators delved into his past and pieced together the following story.

In 1905 he was sent to Sing Sing prison to serve a term of 20 years to life for the slaying of Gottlieb Scherer in Forest Park, Queens. He was transferred to two other prisons in 18 years and paroled in 1923.

His first wife, a nurse, died in Brooklyn in 1937. As a result of her death, Huebscher said he received $15,000—he didn't say whether it was a legacy or insurance. In 1938 he married Renee Peterson in New York.

Bride Fears Poisoning.

Last February the newlyweds boarded the liner Deutschland for Europe. During the trip the bride complained to the ship's master that her husband was trying to poison her.

The captain reported the incident to authorities when the Deutschland reached Europe. Huebscher left his new wife in Antwerp, where she complained to the American consul.

The aged swain went on to his native Switzerland. There he advertized in the Lonely Hearts column of a newspaper, representing himself as a man of wealth and culture. His advertisment brought to him Margaret Lef, a domestic in her 50s, who returned with him.

Miss Lef was astounded when detectives arrested her elderly friend. She said she had given him her savings of $800, deeds to $7,000 worth of property, and had planned to give him $3,000 more which she had in a New York bank. He had talked so glowingly of buying a bungalow for them in California that she believed he must be a good man.

Warns That War Boom Won't Reduce Unemployment Much

Altho many big industries are reported operating at increased capacity and business in general is said to be on the upswing, a high Washington official told a gathering of city executives yesterday not to expect a large reduction in unemployment.

The official was Col. Francis C. Harrington, national administrator of the Work Projects administration. His organization has spent nearly 8 billion dollars in the last 4½ years.

Col. Harrington spoke before the American Municipal association at the Blackstone hotel.

He admitted that private industry has increased employment by more than 500,000 during the last two months. But, he added, there was no net gain on unemployment for the reason that the WPA had to drop hundreds of thousands of men under a law that made dismissal compulsory after 18 months on WPA jobs.

The WPA chief said that too much is expected in the matter of employment because of war boom business. There are business losses as well as gains because of war orders, he warned.

Col. Henry M. Waite, chairman of the public works committee of the national resources planning board, also encouraged long range city planning. Harold D. Smith, director of the federal budget, in discussing the future for municipal leagues, urged establishment of a central research service. Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Tex., said that mayors are being pushed around by all kinds of pressure groups—racial, business, commercial, labor, and others.

AMERICA FUSES RACIAL STRAINS INTO GOOD STOCK

Forms Great Laboratory of Human Types.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

America today forms the greatest laboratory in history, not only in its experiment in human liberty and government by and for the people, but in its unique fusion of racial and cultural strains.

What the problem is, broadly is shown in the racial composition of the population. In 1930, according to the Annals of the American Academy, the population of 122,775,046 was divided as follows:

White	108,864,207
Negro	11,891,143
Mexican	1,422,533
Indian	332,397
Chinese	74,954
Japanese	138,834
Filipino	45,208
Others	5,770

Of the white population at this period, which has shown little relative change before 1920 and probably little since, 14,204,147 were foreign born.

There has been little scientific study of further racial divisions, a breakdown of the whites, for instance, into Nordic, Mediterranean, Celtic, Baltic, Alpine, and Dinaric types, with their intermediates.

Study of Racial Strains.

Whatever approximation of this is possible is found in the national origins researches of the United States government made in 1920 in view of the new immigration quota law, and in various other studies along this line.

In the 1920-'30 period 45 per cent of the white stock of the United States was from Great Britain and North Ireland, 17 per cent from Germany, 11 per cent from the Irish Free State. This gives an idea of the dominant racial strains.

The makeup of American stock is given as follows:

English	37 per cent
Scotch	8 per cent
Irish	11 per cent
German	17 per cent
Other	27 per cent

[Italy, Poland, France, each 4 per cent; Russia, Czecho-Slovakia, Netherlands, Sweden, each 2 per cent; Norway, 1.5 per cent; no other country up to 1 per cent.]

In 1850 more than 90 per cent of the foreign born were from northwestern Europe. In 1930 this percentage had gone down to 38 per cent.

A study of the origins of the white populations in 1920 by Clinton S. Burr gives the following:

Northwest Europe	80,984,319
Eastern Europe	4,978,178
Southern Europe	3,993,894
Semite	3,391,498

The story of the immigration to this country is one of the greatest dramas in human history.

It began with the discovery of the new world and the struggle of European kings for colonial riches. Spain, France, and England and the Dutch entered the race. About the time of the American revolution it was still a question as to whether France, Spain, or England would control the interior. Southern Illinois was called the garden of New France. The colony of Georgia was set up as a buffer against Spain in the south. Acadia and Quebec were set up in the northeast. The Russians threatened California. It was at the mercy of the strongest.

England won early dominance on the Atlantic seaboard, thru her policy of colonization and the character of her colonists, who were agriculturists and artisans. At the end of the colonial period 90 per cent of the people were Anglo-Saxon. The Dutch came to New York, the French Huguenots to South Carolina, the English Quakers and Welsh to Pennsylvania.

Strong Scotch-Irish Group.

One of the strongest elements of this early immigration was the so-called Scotch-Irish from northern Ireland. They were descendants of settlers in Ireland a century earlier who occupied land which had been wrested from the Irish by the English king. When forced to pay tithes to the Church of England and forbidden to export their woolens they turned to the new world.

Here they came to the frontiers. Trained in border warfare in Ireland, they became the Indian fighters here, took up land in the wilderness and established outposts from Maine to Georgia. They centered on the Pennsylvania frontier and later moved south thru the Cumberland and Shenandoah valleys to Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, and Tennessee. These men formed the backbone of the revolution and of the new democracy. Their names are among the greatest in our history and they moved steadily westward, conquering the continent.

The southern Irish came over in large numbers during the potato famine of 1840-'45 and remained largely in urban centers on the Atlantic coast, coming west later as the builders of new cities.

Next to the English and Irish the largest national group coming to America in the colonial period was the Germans. Migration originated chiefly in the upper Rhine valley or the Palatinate, where economic disorganization, political discontent, and religious persecution were the causes. More than 100,000 came during the 18th century. In the early days they went chiefly to the west bank of the Hudson, to the Mohawk valley and Pennsylvania. Later they came west to form a dominant element in such cities as Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Milwaukee.

In 1619 the first cargo of Negroes was landed in South Carolina.

In 1790, of the 4 million population, 95 per cent were east of the Appalachians, with 3,172,444 white. In Texas there were 5,000 Spanish and in New Mexico, Arizona, and California 16,000 more. In all the Northwest Territory there were only 11,000 Americans and French. More than 100,000 English loyalists had left this country after the revolution, mostly for Canada.

Demand for Cheap Labor.

By the time of the civil war there were 130,000 Germans in Illinois and a third of the population of Wisconsin was foreign born—Germans, Belgians, Scandinavians. The Dutch had come to Michigan. The Scandinavian immigration to the new lands of Minnesota and the northwest began in 1856-'57. New England branched out to settle Kansas. The character of the states was marked in these periods thru the dominant cultural strains.

After 1860, until 1930, there was a demand for cheap labor, which was supplied largely by south and southeastern Europe. From 1877 to 1898 a million more Scandinavians came. In 1890 there was an Italian flood. The Germans and Scandinavians mostly went on the lands, the Italians, Austrians, Russians, Poles, and Jews to the cities. The Polish Jew immigration grew to four million by 1899, one-half of them in New York. In 1913 the immigration was reduced, and it has been steadily reduced to the trickle of today.

The national origins of the population had to be determined for the quota law of 1924 and this showed the following, according to the bureau of the census: 41 per cent of the population of British and North Irish origin, over 16 per cent of German origin, 11 per cent of Irish Free State. Canada, Poland, Italy, Sweden, The Netherlands, France, Czecho-Slovakia, Norway, Mexico, and Switzerland follow in order.

Germans and Scandinavians remained in the farming areas, Italians and eastern Europeans in the cities of the north. The Italians, Russian, and Austrian stocks made a concentration in the middle Atlantic states.

Some Districts Unaffected.

The only part of the country that remained unaffected by this immigration, still 99 per cent original American stock, were certain districts in the Appalachians and the Ozarks, a few Ohio valley districts, and a few interior northern districts. The southern states received a small percentage of foreign born whites.

The Negro population grew from 757,208 in 1790 to 11,891,143 in 1920. Madison Grant in "Conquest of a Continent" gives the following divisions of the 1920 white population, based on their country or origin:

England, Scotland, Wales, North Ireland	39,242,733

Up to 1820 the American physical type greatly resembled that of Great Britain, according to the noted anthropologist, Ales Hrdlicka. He made a 14 year study of old Americans and found a new type had been formed under the influence of environment. This was a good type physically.

"The studies give no evidence," he wrote, "that the mass of immigrants are bringing inferiority of body or inherent inferiority of brain. Probably all that is necessary is the opportunity for wholesome development in a favorable American environment. While certain areas may become more or less colored by European strains, there is little danger the American type will be altered for the worse, either physically or mentally, as a result of immigration, so long as we keep out the mentally abnormal and other undesirables. It is an intermediate type, no nearer Nordic than Alpine."

Scientist Prefers No Group.

E. A. Hooten, Harvard anthropologist, made a study of three groups of Americans, one A Century of Progress group, a Boston group, and a group in penal institutions.

The ranking physical type in the combined series is the Nordic Mediterranean group of long heads with darkish pigmentation. It is strongest among the native whites of native parentage of all the series. It seems to be a predominantly British type, Hooten writes in the American Journal of Physical Anthropology.

"There is no anthropological ground whatsoever," he writes, "for selecting any so-called racial group, or any ethnic or national group, or any linguistic or religious group, for preferment or for condemnation. Every one of these so-called racial types in these series is represented by a substantial body of convicted felons at one end of the scale and a group of eminently respectable and intelligent citizens at the other."

SAILINGS ADVANCED TO ESCAPE BAN ON NEUTRALITY REPEAL

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The United States lines threw aside schedules today to rush three ships back to Europe before congress could take final action on neutrality legislation which would bar them from belligerent waters.

The liner Washington was ordered to leave port tomorrow night instead of next Wednesday and the President Roosevelt, scheduled to sail at noon Saturday, will leave at noon tomorrow.

The American Farmer will sail at 4 p. m. tomorrow without passengers. Those booked for the Roosevelt will be transferred to the Washington.

The line operates 11 ships in the European trade and recently arranged to take over 16 government freighters now doing business with England and France. No decision on its future operations will be made until final action in Washington.

Quick Action by Firemen Credited with Saving Life

Quick action by firemen of rescue squad No. 4, commanded by Capt. Gustav Gerstung, was credited yesterday with saving the life of Mrs. Mary Smith, 61 years old, after she collapsed from a heart attack in her home at 5719 Ridge avenue. After firemen revived her, Mrs. Smith was taken to County hospital, where it was said she has a chance to recover.

DOOR IS OPENED FOR ARMS SALE AS HOUSE ACTS

Bill in Conference Today; Final Vote Near.

Vice President Garner appointed Senators Key Pittman [D., Nev.], Walter F. George [D., Ga.], Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], Tom Connally [D., Tex.], William E. Borah [R., Idaho], and Hiram W. Johnson [R., Cal.] as conferees.

The conferees scheduled a meeting for tomorrow morning in the office of Senator Pittman. The senate version of neutrality is expected to be quickly approved, the conference report indorsd by both houses, and the bill sent to the White House for signature.

The special session, which seems destined to be termed a momentous one in the histories of the future, is thus practically at an end. It began Sept. 21, exactly six weeks ago today. For five of those weeks, the senate debated the issue of how best to maintain the neutrality of America.

Rewritten by Senate.

It completely rewrote the house draft of the neutrality act, approved last June 30, eliminating the ban on the sale of arms which the house favored by a 41 vote margin.

Today's action found the house surrendering completely to the senate on all points, after only three days of discussion. The 41 vote majority in favor of the arms embargo had been converted into a 65 vote majority against it. Administration pressure was tremendous in favor of the senate bill. Offers of patronage were dangled before uncertain legislators and proved effective in many instances.

The majority against the embargo was compiled despite the fact that most of the members reported that their mail showed a preponderant sentiment in its favor. The administration argued that this mail was "inspired" and not indicative of the true feeling in the country.

Bankhead Takes Floor.

The closing arguments found some administration leaders arguing frankly that repeal of the arms embargo was necessary in order to aid Great Britain and France.

Speaker Bankhead took the floor to make an impassioned address.

"What if repeal of the embargo does give certain countries an advantage because of their blockade of Germany?" he inquired. "I can't complain. I am not in sympathy with the totalitarian systems of government. Who was it that first used poison gas and flame throwers in the last world war?"

The climax of the debate which preceded the voting came when Representative James W. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.] obtained the floor. Wadsworth held the attention of the house for 25 minutes and was given an ovation when he finished, all members rising, and many expressing their approval in cheers.

Wadsworth said he was not wildly enthusiastic about the senate bill, but favored it in preference to the present law which contains the arms embargo. He discussed the measure at some length, pointing out what he deemed its faults and its merits.

A Difficult Problem.

"The senate bill approaches a difficult problem in a realistic way," he said. "Belligerents do not recognize a distinction between arms and raw materials. A ship loaded with wheat is sunk as quickly as one loaded with rifles. It therefore seems unwise to attempt to make that distinction in our laws.

"If legislation can keep us out of war, then the cash and carry principle, which will keep American ships out of the danger zones, will keep us out."

Wadsworth added, however, a word of warning which was plainly intended for President Roosevelt. The house applauded when he remarked: "I think those in high authority in the government of the United States should refrain from scolding other nations."

Representative Fish, ranking minority member of the foreign affairs committee, summed up the case for the noninterventionists.

"The traffic in arms, ammunitions, poisonous gas, and flame throwers is an unmoral, unchristian, and vicious system for blood money and war profits," he declared, "turning the United States into a slaughterhouse to kill people with whom we are at peace and dragging us into wars all over the world.

"The attempt to repeal the arms embargo is a stab into the vitals and very heart of the neutrality bill, backed by all the internationalists and interventionists in America.

"No European nation sells any arms or ammunition to any of the belligerents, and why should we repeal the arms embargo which had for its sole purpose keeping America out of foreign wars? If we do, we become automatically a partner in the European war.

"Whether we like it or not, repeal of the arms embargo will mean that the word will be flashed around the world that America has decided to take sides and gamble with the security and lives of its people."

Leaders Take Floor.

Both Majority Leader Sam Rayburn and Speaker William B. Bankhead took the floor in the closing minutes of the discussions to argue in behalf of the administration program. Both are accomplished orators and their voices throbbed as they protested that opponents of the President were seeking to mislead the nation when they charged that repeal of the embargo would be taking a step on the road to war.

"There have been many speeches indicating that the United States is on the verge of a war," said Rayburn. "I don't believe we are on the verge or anything near it.

"There have been many statements that the sale of arms and munitions is unmoral. Is it unmoral to sell a man a gun to protect his home? At least one great nation in Europe has been arming for six years. Are we to be stopped from aiding those nations who have not armed and who need arms to defend themselves?

Says Godless Are Doomed.

"I cannot help but believe that the nation that forgets God is doomed!" he shouted.

Representative Martin L. Sweeney [D., O.], was equally vehement, in denouncing Great Britain and France whom he labeled as synthetic democracies.

"These two empires hold millions in a state of serfdom," he yelled. "Let us beware of British propaganda. The British ambassador is daily at the state department, working to involve us in the war."

Representative Daniel A. Reed [R., N. Y.] declared that repeal of the arms embargo would permit the sale of the army's new bombing plane to the nations at war.

"This new plane which will be placed upon the world market is by far a more refined and effective means of destroying towns, villages, and cities and their defenseless women and children than mechanical ingenuity has hereto perfected," he said.

END OF EMBARGO TO BRING FLOOD OF WAR ORDERS

May Be Billion Dollars in Few Weeks.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—A flood of European war orders—which administration quarters expect will total $1,000,000,000 in the next few weeks—will be released by repeal of the arms embargo.

Even before the house action today a French purchasing mission contracted for 4,600 aircraft motors from two eastern manufacturers at a price of approximately $50,000,000, officials were informed. A British mission meanwhile has been negotiating for some 1,600 training planes.

The arms embargo halted delivery on some 600 aircraft early in September. In addition to these the French contemplate purchases of some 3,800 planes, and the British 4,000, it was reported authoritatively. A Swedish mission has been negotiating for upward of 250 aircraft and a Belgian mission for 200.

Varied Products Needed.

The British-French allies have stressed their need for war planes of all types, but their purchases are expected to cover a wide range of other products, including:

Motor trucks and motorcycles, clothing, machine tools, field ranges, explosives, foodstuffs, surgical instruments, hospital supplies, searchlights, gas masks, pontoon equipment, water purifying units, ambulances, tents, saddles, telephones, and radio compasses.

An immediate effect of formal repeal of the embargo will be to permit delivery of some 300 war planes for Britain and France which have been completed since the embargo was imposed. Presumably, it will mean immediate reinstatement of export licenses for planes and other munitions which were cancelled. The impounded orders were valued at $14,680,807 for Great Britain and $58,295,739 for France.

Expect Coördinated Buying.

Thus far, the British and French purchases apparently have not been coördinated, as were the allied purchases toward the end of the 1914-'18 war, but measures to avoid competition between the two buyers are anticipated shortly.

A British purchasing mission headed by Lieut. Col. J. H. M. Greenly, an official of the British industrial firm of Babcock & Wilcox, Ltd., has been at Montreal, but is expected to transfer its principal activities to New York.

While congress debated the neutrality issue, the British appeared to have withheld their purchases, but France's representatives are known to have placed many orders whose fulfillment is subject to repeal of the embargo.

American military orders have priority over foreign contracts, and the army and navy are in a position to exercise direct control thru the licensing system of the state department.

AMERICA SHOULD ACT TO END WAR, ASSERTS CAPPER

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], suggested tonight that this country initiate peace negotiations to end the European conflict.

"The United States," he said in a speech before the Bronxville Men's club, "cannot afford to participate in this European war.

"But the United States can, and ought to, participate in a program for peace in Europe and the rest of the world now. This would be service, not disservice, to all concerned."

Enjoy the SCOTCH WITH A STORY

Capt. Harold A. White, explorer and world traveler, relates his fascinating experiences in this White Horse series. Follow it week by week.

A courier bows before the Maharajah of Nepal. Reverently he unveils the world's most precious collection of gems; clusters of blood-red rubies, diamonds of dazzling brilliance, pearls and dark green emeralds. He speaks: "Accept these, Your Majesty, in the name of Nana Sahib, who asks nothing in exchange but his life." The Maharajah nods. Thus, one of the largest ransoms in the world was paid with gems amassed by murder and theft, through the centuries, from every part of Asia. Captain White has seen the jewels of Nana Sahib, who lead the bloodiest mutiny in India. They now adorn the Maharajah's crown! If you were richer than the King of Nepal, you could enjoy no more luxurious Scotch than White Horse. For in each glass of this matchless Scotch there's a treasure of enjoyment. Though its quality is rare, White Horse is always close at hand. Stop at the nearest sign of the White Horse and taste the Scotch that was made for kings but is yours for the asking. Match it if you can!

MR. ROOSEVELT'S COMRADES.

Until Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House the American government had refused to recognize the communist soviet government of Russia. Other administrations in Washington declined to have diplomatic relations with a country ruled by men who relied upon mass murder as a common police measure and who acknowledged that bad faith was the principal instrument of their foreign policy.

Early in his first term Mr. Roosevelt extended recognition to Stalin, who was about to reveal himself publicly as the most unscrupulous assassin among the Reds. It was not a formal, cold recognition which accepted the fact of Russia as it was. It was a cordial, sympathetic welcoming of the communists as friendly rulers of a nation which would respond in good will and with good faith. The record was there to disprove this, but the record was ignored.

Max Litvinov, the commissar for foreign affairs, was received by the White House in the holidays and with the holiday spirit. A little play was staged for the radio and the American people were allowed to hear the kindly Russian husband and father telephoning Christmas greetings to his family in Moscow—Christmas greetings in Russia. The purge became a blessing, liquidation a kindly laying on of hands, and the GPU a band of good fellows.

About the time many misguided American liberals were waking up to what the Red revolution actually was Mr. Roosevelt was shedding respectability all over the comrades. Respectability bathed them with an effulgence and they glowed in the democratic virtues. In France the communists were politically powerful enough to force themselves on the Socialist premier, Blum, wrecking him and nearly wrecking French and European security by intrigue and sabotage. Here the communists had no power until Mr. Roosevelt gave it to them. He denied what he was doing. Well informed people knew and the Dies committee made the information public. Washington offices were filled with American communist party members and their fellow travelers.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the party, suddenly found that the gate of fellowship with the New Deal had been opened and he revised the party constitution to obtain legal immunities by disqualifying for membership any one who proposed the overthrow of government by violence. The pictures of Jefferson and Lincoln were added to the pictures of Lenin and Stalin. Mr. Roosevelt adopted Stalin. Mr. Browder adopted Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Browder could report to Moscow, as he frequently did, that the comrades had landed and the situation was well in hand. The New Deal was a collectivist political enterprise. The capitalists were being hunted down. The profit system was being destroyed. The farmers were being instructed in the precepts and practices of governmental control. The private enterprisers were being harried. Men with Marxian ideas were being planted in key positions. Mr. Roosevelt sent his felicitations to Brother Kalinin each year on the anniversary of the Red revolution and on other ceremonial occasions when he could offer congratulations on soviet achievements. Mr. Browder for the communist party beat all other third termers in demanding that Mr. Roosevelt be drafted for another nomination.

The love feast was progressing from one course to another with music and flowers when Stalin jerked the cloth off the table and spilled all the dishes. The boss of the Kremlin was done with the democratic racket. He threw in with the enemy, Hitler. Common cause was made with the head devil. For twenty-four hours Mr. Browder was stunned. He had tripped over the party line and came up staggering, but he rallied. The democracies became the imperialists.

The White House was silent. Russia invaded Poland. The White House remained silent. Stalin divided Poland with Hitler. Stalin took Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. He threatened Finland. Mr. Roosevelt, in the tone of an old friend, asked him not to impair Finland's independence—the first word out of the White House after Stalin swung into action with the Nazis "for peace and democracy."

The contempt to which the United States was exposed by all this philandering with the Reds was expressed in the treatment given the City of Flint and the insults offered the American ambassador and the state department when inquiries were made concerning the ship. It was expressed in the speech of Molotov, the soviet foreign commissar, when he spoke to the aggregation of stuffed figures called the Russian representative assembly, decreeing the permanent doom of Poland, ridiculing what Mr. Roosevelt calls the democracies, advocating Hitlerism, and scoring off the United States as a hypocrite with a touch of imbecility.

The White House comeback to Mr. Molotov was a handout of a message from Mr. Kalinin, who somehow or other has broken into American locution as the president of Russia—part of the democratic stuff. When Mr. Roosevelt asked Herr Hitler to give a guarantee of 10 years of nonaggression against certain nations, including Poland and Finland, Kalinin replied that the plea touched the warm hearts of the people of the soviets.

That was when Brother Stalin was playing the United States as a sucker prospect—or certainty. Mr. Molotov spoke after Stalin had a piece of Poland and was trying for a piece of Finland.

This is our great Russian adventure. The Reds have an anniversary celebration Nov. 7. Is Mr. Roosevelt's message of congratulation and felicitation ready? Will it mention Poland?

NEW JERSEY SOVIET COLLAPSES.

Another attempt to make communism work in America has failed. Five years ago a half million dollars was authorized to be spent on a project in the east to demonstrate, under what were said to be ideal conditions, the feasibility of coöperative living in the United States. After throwing 3½ millions into the venture above the original half million, without making a go of it, the government has had to conclude that it is hopeless, and is looking for a private owner to acquire the business end of the settlement.

The New Deal with millions of dollars of public money at its disposal was no more successful with its communistic experiment than Robert Owens, the English radical, was with his settlement at New Harmony, Ind., which collapsed in 1828. For Owen it should be said that it was his money and that of his followers, not that of the public which was lost in trying out his idea.

Jersey Homesteads was the name given to the "subsistence homestead" project situated on 1,200 acres of New Jersey land midway between Philadelphia and New York. The government settled on the property 200 families who believed in communism and told them to live like communists. That was especially easy for some who had lived in Russia under bolshevism. Besides adaptability for coöperative living, the basis of choice of settlers was experience in the needle trades. That was because employment was to be provided in a factory producing cloaks, suits, and hats.

The cloak and suit business is highly seasonal. But there was to be no off-season in little Russia. When the Jersey homesteader put down his needle he was to take up a hoe. Altho experienced truck gardeners find it difficult to get along, New York City families, which had never raised anything but a geranium, were supposed to be able to make truck farming repay the effort.

The colony's failure was not agricultural, however, but cloak and suit. And it was not technical mechanical skill, labor trouble, or faulty equipment which proved its undoing. It was the lack of something the importance of which every radical deprecates—managerial ability and the profit motive.

The craftsmen were expert. There were designers who could cook up their own styles or copy other people's. The equipment was the best that can be bought with a blank check on the U. S. treasury. The line of sport, travel, and dress clothes was described as nifty. Mannikins were used to show off the samples to the buyers. It was like a successful enterprise in many particulars, except that it lost money. The communists pay the highest tribute to private enterprise when they offer the factory for sale to the highest bidder. They confidently believe that a clothing manufacturer will take over the plant, employ them, and make money at it. They are convinced that private industry can succeed in the very place where communism has failed.

If they are right about it, there is still a heavy loss to be taken. The present net worth of the community on which 4 million dollars has been spent probably does not exceed one-tenth of that. This waste of money eventually will result in an investigation. There are many questions to be answered. Who decided that it was a legitimate function of our government to spend money freely to explore the merits of communism as a means of raising the living standards of American workmen? Was it not already demonstrated in Russia that communism produced a lower living standard than exists in any other civilized country? What is being done to liquidate the other communistic projects on which upwards of $20,000 per family has already been spent? We should have more success in obtaining the answers to these questions even without a formal inquiry, for after the harsh words about us from Molotov is it not logical to expect a toning down of the Russian motif in our government's affairs?

IN THE GOVERNOR'S LAP.

The thirteen young criminals who beat up a guard and escaped from the St. Charles School for Boys didn't have to climb a fence to get away. The legislature appropriated $40,000, months ago, for such a guarded and lighted barrier. A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, refused to build it. He said it would not be needed because the state was going to build a walled institution for the tougher elements now kept at St. Charles. The site for that institution hasn't yet been selected.

Mr. Bowen ignored the instructions of the legislature. He is responsible for the escapes. He also ignored the repeated warnings that the water supply at the Manteno state hospital was polluted. He thus shares the responsibility for the deaths in the scandalous typhoid epidemic that the polluted water caused—an epidemic without a recent parallel in the country.

Gov. Horner is responsible for Mr. Bowen, who is his subordinate. He has never indicated the slightest public dissatisfaction with any of Mr. Bowen's omissions of duty. Mr. Bowen's sins are the governor's sins. The governor apparently sees nothing wrong with the conduct of state institutions so long as the employés continue to kick in to his campaign fund.

Editorial of the Day

THE HARD WAY.

[Indianapolis News.]

The career of Robert Eastman Woodruff, Wisconsin farm boy and Purdue university graduate, who has been made co-trustee and chief operating officer of the Erie railroad, should be interesting to those who engage in that perpetual debate on whether the university of hard knocks or formal training best equips a man for life. After Woodruff got his degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering at Purdue he was offered a job in the engineering department. He turned it down and started as a section hand. He became successively track foreman, construction inspector, assistant division engineer, division engineer, trainmaster, division superintendent, general superintendent, and general manager of the eastern district. He chose the hard way as the best way, but had prepared himself for the journey. He did not make the mistake of thinking his diploma was a substitute for experience or that experience was all a man needed to get ahead in the world.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

COME INTO THE MUSEUM.

We pause briefly in the construction of the mythical Library of the City of Chicago in order to lay the cornerstone of a smaller institution, to be called the Line Museum. This will be a depository of the various relics, oddments, historical objects, and screwloose letters that the Linemaster finds in his mail.

For nest-egg exhibits we have two rare items, recently received, to be cataloged as follows:

The Philistine, Vol. 1, No. 1. First issue of Elbert Hubbard's famous little magazine which became a national institution among the more impertinent members of the intelligentsia. [Hubbard, like Herbert S. Stone, died as a victim of the torpedoing of the Lusitania.] Dated June, 1895. Among its satirical items is a ballade in the manner of François Villon, alleged to be published in Chicago about 1930. The best-selling authors of 1895 were its target, and the second stanza runs like this:

Where now drivels the droolful Bok?
Whither doth Harding Davis fare?
And Riley, best of the rhyming flock?
Where is the georgic Garland, where Harte, tamed cub of the grizzly bear?
Ben Hur Wallace whose style was queer?
Quipful Clemens, that jester rare?
But where is the froth of yestreen's beer?

The second nest-egg is a rare bit of criminology: the professional card of Dr. Patrick H. Cronin, who became the corpus delicti of a Clan-na-Gael murder plot in 1889. Text on the face of the card: "Dr. P. H. Cronin, physician and surgeon, Chicago. Office, 501-503 Opera House building; hours, 12 m. to 2 p. m. Office telephone No. 1294. Residence, 468-70 North Clark street; hours 9 to 11 a. m., 6 to 7:30 p. m. Residence telephone No. 3621."

The back of this large card served as a prescription blank and has the usual Rx in the corner. It contains a prescription in quite legible writing, apparently for a bronchial cough, with morphine, camphor, ipecac, and sirup of acacia as its ingredients. Signed "Cronin." Druggist's notation of the date of filling, "4-1-'89"—only 34 days before the unfortunate physician was lured to a lonely cottage in Lake View and cruelly butchered.

SONG FOR A SLEEPING CHILD.

Sleep, little golden one,
Sleep 'neath the haloed moon,
Sleep while the gauze winged moths
Dream of a candled noon.

Sleep, little yellow haired,
Sleep while the slow tides ebb,
Sleep while a silver spider
Spins out her silver web.

Sleep, little precious one,
Still on the star strewn steep
Guarded by wide winged clouds
Slumber the quiet sheep.

SONNET TO DECEMBER FIRST.

(An acrostic in honor of the forthcoming Line Book.)

Conjecture now runs riot in our thought,
How shall we wait these days that yet remain?
Assuaged but by faint hints that tell us naught,
Riddles with only riddles in their train.
Life has few pleasures keener than the knife
Expectancy soft buries in the breast,
So though impatience binds us in its strife
Calm reason keeps us tranquil in the quest.
Omens are vain, and yet all portents show
Long waited joys are sweetest in the end.
Let this be comfort as the slow days go;
In all good time the last word shall be penned.
November comes, and soon its final Line
Shall bring the Line Book, Nineteen Thirty-Nine!

What's the Matter with Thursday?—III.

Maid's night out has some effect, but the letdown is probably caused by the midweek activities of a large number of families, such as the matinées, bridge parties, and smaller group meetings, plus the fact that Wednesday is still "sweetheart night" among the young. Fred Bethke.

["Sweetheart night," says he! It's "date night" among the young moderns.]

GLAND TUBERCULOSIS AND THE ROYAL TOUCH.

When Samuel Johnson, the first dictionary maker, was a lad, it is related that he suffered from scrofula — tuberculous glands in the neck. His parents heard of the wonderful ability of Queen Anne, and a journey to the royal presence was arranged. This boy—who was later to become the dominant figure in 18th century English literature—received the royal caress. History does not record whether or not it was successful.

Perhaps the popularity of the procedure lay in the fact that the queen was supposed to present to each patient a token of value. The recipient was to retain the bit of metal in perpetuity else the ailment might return. It is related that Henry VII. conferred a gold coin upon all those who subjected themselves to his therapeutic powers. The ritual was long and elaborate. The afflicted one was led before his sovereign, who was seated in state surrounded by members of the court. Various chapters from the New Testament were then read, whereupon the king touched the sore during the reading of the 18th verse of the Gospel according to Mark. The Sign of the Cross was made over the ailing area.

Unfortunately, there is no record of the number of cures. Apparently gland tuberculosis—transmitted from infected milk—was rife for many centuries. We are not entirely free from its ravages today, and this is one reason why we are constantly on the alert to detect the disease in milch cows and—as an added precaution—to pasteurize all lacteal fluid.

The bovine variety of the tubercle bacillus attacks particularly the bones and the glands, and many a youngster thriving beautifully—so far as nutrition is concerned—on raw but polluted milk may develop the glandular form of the ailment. In fact, in some parts of Europe today, pasteurization is not practiced routinely and, in consequence, many little ones fall victims of this disorder. Sixty-one per cent of a group of children under five years of age with diseased bones had bovine tuberculosis.

We have observed repeatedly that tots are likely to put their fingers into their mouths; and every and any object that comes within reach is tasted, licked, and sometimes swallowed. The habit provides an easy entrance for microbes. Sometimes the tonsils will be found to be involved, and a fair percentage of those with pulmonary tuberculosis will harbor the organisms within these structures. Now and then the swollen glands will require surgical removal. Whenever we see persons with scars on the sides of the neck we may assume with reason that milk borne tuberculosis was the cause.

With the bone and joint type of the malady there is no remedy quite equal to sunlight. In Europe children crippled by this illness are exposed to the direct rays, chiefly in high altitudes. The plan is continued summer and winter, and the value of the program has been fully demonstrated.

In the United States the complaint is far less common. We are marketing our milk in a far safer manner. In addition, sick animals are eliminated from dairy herds, and even though an occasional germ finds its way into a city supply, it is promptly cooked beyond recovery by the process of pasteurization.

We have no quarrel with the faith of those of bygone days in the efficacy of the king's touch. No longer, however, do we regard the seventh son of a seventh daughter as one possessed of extraordinary faculties. In these times we must use our intelligence in safeguarding our foods against pestilence.

N. B. writes: 1. What is the difference between bronchitis and bronchiectasis? 2. Between asthma and bronchial asthma?

REPLY.

1. Inflammation of the breathing tubes [bronchial tree] is known as bronchitis. When—because of infection—these channels become dilated, permitting the collection of puslike secretions in the widened spaces, the resulting condition is known as bronchiectasis.

2. In bronchial asthma there is a spasm of the breathing tubes so that it is difficult to allow air to leave the lungs. Cardiac asthma [so-called] is a congestion of the lungs due to heart disturbances. Because of the filling of the air sacs with fluid, breathing is labored. We have leaflets on bronchitis and asthma which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MAY DAMAGE HEART.

R. H. writes: What damage to the system could result from an overactive thyroid?

REPLY.

Such a condition brings about a speeding up of all body processes. Hence, the heart may become damaged from overwork. Nervousness, loss of weight, etc., are other manifestations. Toxic symptoms may appear later.

IT IS MAN WHO IS VAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—So "Fed Up" is nauseated because the women use lipstick and rouge. Let me tell of the nauseating things the male does, because I had a rooming house for about 20 years.

Wetting down the eyebrows is mild compared to the five different kinds of grease I have seen the men put on their hair to tame it, which they never succeed in doing until they bid it good-by. The male is so vain that if he had only one hair standing on his head he would curl it so folks would think he still had his youth. If he has no hair on top of his head and a few in the back, he will either try and part the few in the center or try and braid them. Did you ever see a male hang up his clothes? No, he would rather walk on them.

"Their throat is an open sepulchre;
"With their tongues they have used deceit;
"The poison of asps is under their lips;
"Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness;
"Their feet are swift to shed blood;
"Destruction and misery are in their ways;
"And the way of peace have they not known.
"There is no fear of God before their eyes."

THE VERY IDEA!

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 31.—May an old reader of THE TRIBUNE since 1861 add a word to your letter from "Tired Worker," who complained of newsboys' cries?

Please tell "Tired Worker" to cheer up! I well remember way back when the newsboys yelled, Times, TRIBUNE, Inter Ocean, News, and the Herald. Bless the boys!

The "Tired Worker" better put cotton in his ears.

QUESTION FOR THE GOVERNOR.

Chicago, Nov. 1. — Gov. Horner barred Boxer Harry Thomas from boxing in Illinois. Why doesn't Horner bar those doctors from practising medicine who were responsible for so many deaths at Manteno? The governor seems to have seized the Thomas incident to avoid responsibility for his politically appointed doctor friends and refugees at Manteno where negligence resulted in wanton slaughter of human lives. Mr. Horner, why not remove the staff at Manteno at once?

FLAWS IN SUPERHIGHWAYS.

Chicago, Nov. 1. — The new plans for the west side superhighways are now out and they are indeed stupendous and enthralling.

But do we stop to realize that the construction of these highways will eventually harm Chicago's two largest investments — real estate and retailing? By constantly speeding up passage thru Chicago we are inviting our citizens to move outside of its own boundaries with the net result that property income and values will fall and store business will decrease.

Even the railroads, which are entitled to consideration, will suffer.

Let us keep America's money in America and Chicago's in Chicago.

BIG TALK; NO FIGHT.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—As a constant reader of THE TRIBUNE I appreciate the fight you have made against the repeal of the arms embargo and your sportsmanship in publishing letters such as F. S. P. of Brookfield. It reminds me of a personal experience in 1916. An acquaintance—a physically fit practicing attorney of about 32—and I often discussed the possibility of our getting into the conflict. Always he made it quite clear that he would like to get at the kaiser's throat. I suggested that he could join the forces thru Canada if he was really in such a hurry. After we got into the conflict he hid behind skirts and made two minute speeches in Liberty bond drives.

There are thousands like him today. The loudest mouth will be last to go, if he goes at all.

What of it? If this element of our population cannot find a better use for their money than to spend it to see a couple of so-called humans stand up in a square ring and pound themselves around, then they ought to be swindled. If you want to rouse your readers' interest you will have to spend your money for a better piece of copyright news than the fact that some of our population were swindled in prize fights. THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 3, 1914.

[98th day of world war; 64th day of present war.]

VIENNA.—On the Russian-Turkish frontier near Trebizond, battles have commenced between Turkish and Russian troops. Sergius Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, in a reply to the Turkish expression of regret at the rupture of good relations between the two countries, denied that the Russian fleet was the first to fire and said he feared it was too late to enter into peace parleys with Turkey. The Turkish statement had blamed "an attack by the Russian fleet" for the rupture.

LONDON.—Berlin and Paris admitted that changes along the western front have been slight. It was apparent from statements made that the gains of each side in one spot have been offset by losses in another.

LONDON.—The entire North sea has been declared a military area and merchant vessels entering it will be exposed to the gravest dangers from mines and warships. The declaration was made by Britain in reply to the laying of mines by Germans in waters north of Ireland.

PETROGRAD.—The Russian commander in chief announced that on the East Prussian frontier the Russian troops have driven the enemy from the east edge of the Rominten forest and advanced north of Lake Raigorod.

be elected today and the choice o
Cleveland, O., as next year's assemb city is expected to be approved.
Dr. Moorhead described a new d parture in fracture treatment, o that has done away with the plast cast and all surgery, and has intr duced an intravenous [within th veins] anesthetic that is followed b no nausea or hangover.
"It is of vital importance that th doctor get at the fracture in th first six hours," said Dr. Moorhea
"I call that 'the golden period.' Th new anesthetic, composed of evipa and sodium pentothal, relaxes the pa tient and puts him to sleep before h tes or more—ample time for settin the joint.

Faults of Plaster Cast.

"We have done away with the plas ter cast because it hides the part an exerts too great a pressure. It cause the muscles to waste away. We cal these casts 'coffins,' because they bury the part and too often bury the doctor's reputation also.
"Instead of the cast we use two plaster slabs or an elastic bandag that is removable and minimizes the pressure. This method has its greatest value in the cases of elderly per sons. Put them in a cast and they will die. For these elderly ones, in instances of hip fractures, we fasten the parts together with a metal pin, which permits early movement. Often the patient is up and about on crutches or canes in a few days.
"One of the most important ad vances, however, is the avoidance of surgery in cases of long delay be tween the accident and arrival of the doctor. The usual situation is that the broken parts of the bone have begun to overlap. We suspend the limb by means of a wire that is passed through it. Its weight pulls the muscles into normal position and they bring the bone parts along with them.
"It is not painful. On the contrary, the moment the weight is exerted, and the parts begin moving back into place, the relief begins."
At the afternoon session the assem bly heard something of the methods employed in Italy—at the govern ment's instigation—to bring about childbirth among sterile women. Prof.
Dr. Emanuele Momigliano, formerly of the obstetrics and gynecology de partment, Royal university of Rome, described the X-ray and hormone methods.

Danger of X-ray Method.

The X-ray, which is used to stimu late the reproductive organs, is con sidered the more dangerous of the two and has been abandoned in most European countries. It is almost never used in America. Dr. Momigli ano admitted the danger of this method, which can make permanent a state of temporary sterility.
The organs subjected to the rays show no change afterward even when permanent sterility results, the speaker said. Just how the stimula tion is brought about, therefore, is not yet known. He said that 42 X-ray children had been born in Rome in recent months and that they not only are normal but exceptionally healthy.
The other method of stimulation is thru injection of female hormones, obtained from pituitary glands and the ovaries, Dr. Momigliano stated.
There is great rivalry in Italy be tween the hormone and X-ray meth ods, experiments being carried on at university clinics in Rome, Turin, Milan, and Genoa.

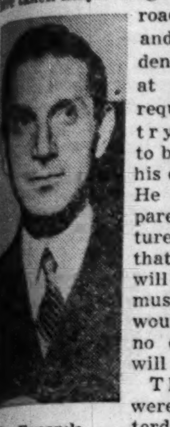
NEW FRACTURE TREATMENT TOLD TO MEDICAL MEN

Avoids Disadvantages of Plaster Casts.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.



Dr. Emanuele Momigliano.

The automobile and the airplane have taken major surgery to the crossroads. Complex and major accidents that occur at his doorstep require the country practitioner to be as expert as his city colleague. He must be prepared to set fractures so precisely that no lameness will follow. He must dress facial wounds so that no disfigurement will result.

These things were stressed yesterday by Dr. John J. Moorhead, professor of clinical surgery at the New York Postgraduate Medical school. He spoke before the twenty-fourth international assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association of North America in the Palmer House.

End Sessions Tomorrow.

The assembly, which has brought more than 7,000 leading physicians and surgeons to Chicago, will conclude its sessions tomorrow, its members witnessing rare operations in several Chicago hospitals. Tells of Pneumonia War.

The double barreled warfare the medical profession now is prepared to wage upon pneumonia was described by Dr. Russell L. Cecil, professor of clinical medicine at Cornell university medical college, New York. The two methods meeting with great success are the injection of animal serum and use of sulfapyridine, a new compound embodying sulfanilamide.

"It is hoped," he said, "that pneumonia soon will begin to show the downward curve effected in recent years against scarlet fever, diphtheria, meningitis, and other diseases that once took a heavy toll of life."

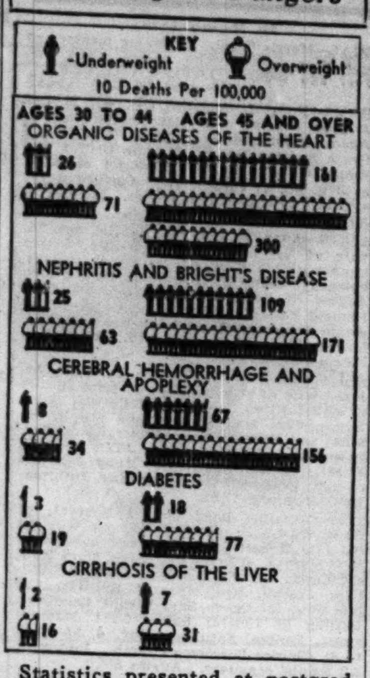
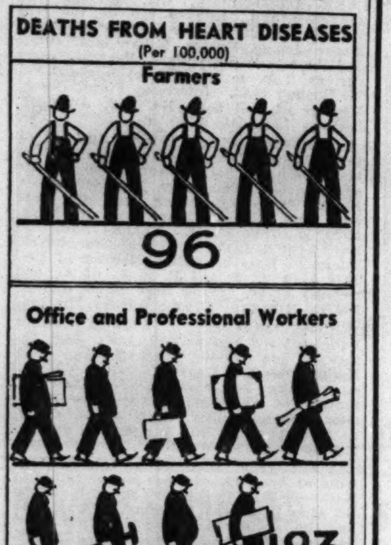
Overweight's Dangers



Statistics presented at postgraduate medical session show that degenerative diseases take a greater toll among both young and middle aged persons who are overweight than among those who are thin.



Fewer farmers die of heart disease, according to these exhibits, than sedentary workers because the farmers get more exercise and keep their weight down.

Overweight, its dangers, and its remedies are receiving much attention at the 24th international assembly of the Interstate Postgraduate Medical association at the Palmer House.

That inactivity is the basic cause of obesity is shown in an exhibit prepared by Dr. S. C. Robinson of Northwestern university and Dr. Marshall Brucer of the University of Illinois. Once fat, the body is prey to hypertension [high blood pressure], apoplexy, heart disease, and other degenerative diseases, the charts show. Thin men are reasonably safe.

Fewer farmers than office workers and physicians die of these diseases. Fewer farmers get fat despite their body building diets. They exercise.

How to chase off the surplus pounds was explained in an address by Dr. Robert W. Keeton of the University of Illinois. He demonstrated the types of food that should be eaten. These are chiefly proteins, since starches are quickly converted into sugar, which calls excess insulin into the blood stream, making the starch eater hungry again. The starch fancier soon is as round as the vicious circle to which he subjects himself, Dr. Keeton indicated.

OPIE READ DIES AT 86; DEAN OF CITY'S WRITERS

Gained World Fame in His 60 Year Career.

Opie Read.

Opie Read, wit and novelist whose tireless writings made him an American literary figure for more than sixty years, died yesterday at the age of 86.

His death in his home at 5000 Harper avenue followed an illness of a few weeks. He had lived for many years with the family of the late Ben King, one of the star contributors to Read's Arkansas Traveler, the humorous publication that established his fame. The Arkansas Traveler was celebrated in journalism as a compound of hayseed philosophy and barbed wit.

Productive to the End.

Read, who gave literature a panoramic picture of the south as it was, was the dean of Chicago's authors for many years. Despite his age, he was a productive literary man to the end. His last book, "The Autobiography of the Devil—Satan's Side of It," was completed early this year.

Read's great reputation was already established when he came to Chicago 52 years ago to continue the publication of the Traveler, which he and Philo D. Benham launched in 1882 at Little Rock, Ark.

Old time Chicagoans remember Opie Read as a contemporary of the late Eugene Field.

Four Novels in Year.

But Read couldn't rest on past accomplishments. His Chicago period marked the beginning of a new productive era greater than the first, and more than 20 novels came from his pen during the first 20 years of his stay here. His output reached a peak in 1900 when he published four novels within the year.

The novels of the Chicago period secured Read's reputation as an interpreter of the south and a delineator of southern character. Among the most famous of them were "A Kentucky Colonel," published in 1889; "A Tennessee Judge," 1893; "On the Suwanee River," 1900; "The Carpetbagger," 1901, and "Turkey-Egg Griffin," 1905.

Opie Read's background made it easy and natural for him to write of the south. He was born Dec. 22, 1852, at Nashville, Tenn., the youngest of 10 children. He spent his boyhood on his father's plantation at Gallatin, Tenn.

Became a Printer at 21.

At 21 he went to work for the Franklin, Ky., Patriot, and his experience in the printshop enabled him to set type on the college paper in return for tuition money to finance his education at Neophogen college. After completing his college work, he became editor of the Little Rock Gazette and the Cleveland Leader, then joined Benham in the venture of running the Arkansas Traveler.

Long after he might have considered his active career closed, Read was still busy with his writing. Ten years ago he wrote "The Gold Gauze Veil," which his publishers called his best work. It was largely autobiographical.

In 1881 he was married to Ada Benham, sister of his partner in the Traveler. They had three sons, Philo, Leslie, and Guilford, and three daughters, Mrs. Harriet Blue, Mrs. Elaine Green, and Enid, who died at the age of 24.

Funeral services for Mr. Read will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. The Rev. Preston Bradley will officiate.

MAYOR OUTLINES CITY'S PLAN FOR TRANSPORTATION

The city's program for developing Chicago's transportation system by superhighways, subways, and unification of the transit lines was outlined yesterday by Mayor Kelly and city engineers at a luncheon of the Greater Central District association in the Stevens hotel.

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, predicted that transit negotiations now being carried on between the city and the transit companies would result soon in an agreement on a unified franchise for a modernized transit system. He said a $100,000,000 modernization program could be financed with $30,000,000 in cash now held by the transit companies, moneys in the city's traction fund, and loans for new equipment thru issuance of equipment trust certificates.

Mayor Kelly said he had concluded that Congress street was the best of several proposed locations for a west side superhighway because "it is economical and is in the right place." A plan for a $32,000,000 west side route in Congress street was presented to the council by the mayor Monday.

THE STORY OF 76 ESCAPES IN 1939 AT ST. CHARLES

Flight of 13 Is Largest Break Since 1934.

The flight of the 13 young toughs from St. Charles School for Boys Wednesday evening was the second largest escape in the history of the institution. It also brings to 76 the number of boys who have fled from its unfenced grounds since Jan. 1.

School authorities for years have been reluctant to ask the aid of police in surrounding communities and counties in recapturing their charges. In some instances reports of the escapes were delayed for days. And in other cases no public records of the flights ever were found.

The record as made public by the school upon the number of boys who have run away from the school during the first 10 months of this year follows:

Jan. 5—Five boys flee; recaptured two days later.

March 1—Two boys escape in fog; one shot, both recaptured.

March 14—Boy escapes and goes on a four crime spree, including robbery, burglary, and intimidation before recaptured.

March 28—Four boys escape; turn bandits for two days before recapture.

April 6—Four boys flee from school hospital; steal car, but are recaptured in Chicago.

April 15—Boy beats 77 year old woman with hatchet and escapes from farm to which he had been paroled; recaptured.

April 21—Boy escapes from work detail.

April 22—Two boys flee from cottage dormitory; recaptured two days later.

June 19—Six boys jump farm fence and escape into woods.

June 20—Two more boys flee from school; six who ran away the day before are recaptured.

June 22—Boy jumps from cottage window and escapes in wind and rain storm.

July 28—Inmate of school escapes from party returning from swimming levee.

Aug. 4—Four boys flee in automobile; police not notified for four days.

Aug. 9—Boy escapes thru cottage window at school.

Aug. 16—Two boys escape while returning from visit to Comiskey park with group from school.

Aug. 28—Boy escapes from school's drum and bugle corps visiting Chicago restaurant.

Sept. 1—Two boys flee from masonry detail; one recaptured 300 yards from school entrance, other makes good escape.

Sept. 13—Three boys escape from Sept. 27—Parolee kills farmer benefactor; recaptured.

Oct. 6—Boy escapes from kitchen detail.

Nov. 1—Thirteen boys flee from incorrigibles' cottage.

Among the boys who escaped from the school were:

Cepulski	Alton Heyman
Moore	Chester Torrence
Williams	Charles Sawyer
Presley	Lynwood Hale
Johnson	Samuel Campbell
Lepley	Edward Stempkowski
Benton	Walter Van Dyke
King	Richard Glissman
Guidry	Talbert Jennings
Taylor	Hobart Lambert
Anweiler	John Renamore
Travelstead	Donald McGhiey
Earl	Edward Kracen
Henry	Philip Crylen
Lewandowski	William Green
Polk	Raymond Cramer
Frazier	Roy McFall
Shanahan	John Henderson
Milton	Kenneth Fleming
Rhae	Floyd Dickinson
Bellows	Norman De Vore
Griffin	Joseph Sullivan
Schaney	Vernon Mayes
Hudzinski	Russell Crump
Waddington	Alfred Jenkins
Burtch	William R. Baker
Smith

The entire record of 76 escapes is not included herewith because information has been withheld by the school administration. The only break from the school larger than that of Nov. 1 was on May 17, 1934, when 17 boys fled. Six of this group were recaptured within 24 hours.

NURSE IS STRANGLED TO DEATH BY 2 MEN; ESCORT IS BEATEN

Edwardsville, Ill., Nov. 2 (AP).—Miss Elizabeth Jones, 45 years old, a nurse at the Madison County Home hospital, was found strangled to death tonight in a ravine near the driveway leading to the home's administration building.

Beside her, beaten almost into unconsciousness, lay William Salinus, 50, also an employé at the home, with whom it was reported Miss Jones had attended a movie.

A sash cord about eight feet long was found around Miss Jones' neck. Police said scratches on her face indicated she had been dragged.

Salinus told police two men had attacked him and Miss Jones as they walked up the driveway.

GUNMAN FORCES GIRL INTO ALLEY; ROUTED BY DOG

A year old Collie dog named Boots was acclaimed as a hero in the Austin district last night for saving a high school girl from attack by a desperado.

The girl was stopped by the gunman after she had alighted from a Madison street surface lines car at Lotus avenue. Threatening her with death, he forced her to walk north and then into an alley in the rear of 145 Pine avenue. On the way the man described himself as a former convict.

He forced the girl into a rear basement entrance, gagged her with her gloves, and tied her arms with her belt. At that moment Boots, the Collie, appeared and began barking. Boots' owner, John Sexton, a contractor, ran out and the gunman fled. Half a block away he attempted to seize the purse of a passerby, Mrs. Hyman Judelson, 20 North Lorel avenue. Police believe the gunman is the same one who has molested several women in the Austin district recently.

Union Leaders Quizzed in Slaying of Pressman

Heads of Franklin local 4 of the Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union were questioned yesterday upon their return from Tennessee about the shotgun murder of Paul Peters. They denied the union's internal strife was responsible.

The union officials are S. B. Marks, international administrator, and Hugh Crambert, president.

Peters, an insurgent in the local, was killed Tuesday in front of his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue.

bound over to the Kane county grand jury. Their bonds were fixed at $3,000.

After hearing the stories of Glissman and Burtsch, Sheriff Damisch charged that the majority of the fugitives could have been captured Wednesday night had Supt. William T. Harmon of the St. Charles school coöperated actively with police in reporting the break.

The sheriff said Harmon telephoned news of the escape to him within a few minutes after the young criminals had fled. But Harmon failed to notify the state highway police, the sheriff said.

The sheriff said that had the state police been on the lookout, at least 10 of the boys probably would have been seized in Sugar Grove at dawn. Damisch said Glissman and Burtsch told him the 10 had remained together, slipping thru the fields, until they arrived at the store.

They said that they had entered the general store while the other eight youths agreed to remain outside as lookouts. The eight had disappeared when they emerged.

Told State Police, He Says.

"I carefully notified not only the sheriff, but the state police office and then telephoned to the home towns of each of the boys who escaped," said Harmon at the school.

Schaney, who was sentenced to the school in 1931 when he was 11 years old, was seized by Special Deputy William Wedemier, a farmer, on a highway just west of Sugar Grove.

Before Sheriff Damisch could get to the Aurora police station to question the prisoner, guards from the school arrived and hurriedly returned him to the institution. Afterward Harmon refused to allow the boy to be questioned.

The two colored youths, Crump and Jenkins, were chased from a box car on a siding at the outskirts of Naperville about dawn. Several Naperville policemen who were searching the cars saw them dart into a field. The boys refused to halt until several shots were fired into the air over their heads.

Senator Thomas P. Gunning, whose legislative committee was created to investigate the St. Charles school, yesterday called a meeting of the investigators for 1 p. m. today at the office of A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare.

"One matter to be considered is my proposal to build a high wire fence around the school buildings," said Senator Gunning yesterday.

"I'm getting sick and tired of these breaks," said Bowen at Springfield yesterday. "Something is going to be done to keep boys like these from being sent to that kind of institution. They don't belong there in the first place, but the courts send them. We're not getting any coöperation."

2 IN WORTHLESS BOND CASE FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

It took a jury of nine women and three men just 15 minutes to determine that Joseph Rivers, 39, an Indian, and Anna Bara, 30, were guilty of robbery yesterday in Judge James Fardy's Criminal court. The pair were defendants in the case that brought about the exposé of the worthless bonds approved by Municipal Judge Eugene McGarry, who now is under indictment himself.

Rivers and the Bara woman were convicted of robbing Eli Schiff, 189 West Madison street, of $246 after threatening him with a knife. They face sentences of one year to life. A third defendant, Salvatore Luna, has never been apprehended since he was released by Judge McGarry on a worthless bond. The security for the bond was a mortgage on a $97 lot in Bellwood, investigation disclosed.

This was one of the cases that brought about Judge McGarry's indictment for conspiracy and malfeasance in office. His case is scheduled for trial before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court Nov. 16.

SUSPECTS' CAR SEEN IN FUNERAL LINE; TWO SEIZED AFTER CHASE

Police sent out a radio call yesterday to look for the automobile of two men who were seen taking packages from a delivery truck in the 2300 block on Blue Island avenue. Soon afterward Sergt. Joseph Dorsey and his squad saw the license number of the wanted car in a funeral procession. They noticed that the car had no funeral marker on it. When the squad car cut in, the automobile left the procession and sped away. After a five block chase the police curbed the car. They arrested William Wilczynski, 28 years old, 2236 West 21st street, and William Jemkins, 21, of 1117 South Hermitage avenue. Both denied the truck thefts. The stolen packages were found in an alley.

PLOW WORKS ORGANIZER DIES.

Canton, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—Arthur L. Orendorff, 81 years old, died today after three years' illness. He was one of the incorporators of the Parlin & Orendorff Plow works, one of the largest in the world, which was sold to the International Harvester company in 1919.

PRISON'S CHIEF ADMITS OUSTING 50 AS PLOTTERS

Vandalia, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—At least 50 employés have been discharged from the Vandalia state penal farm for attacks on the authority and discipline of the institution by activities designed to cause the ouster of Superintendent George E. Ray.

The disclosure was made today by Ray, who said the attacks and dismissals had occurred over the period of nearly eight years he has been head of the farm.

Five employés were suspended yesterday on charges of conspiring with an inmate to steal records concerning the operation of the farm kitchen. Ray said the five signed confessions that the records were taken in an attempt to find something to discredit him.

Ray has been the center of a heated political fight ever since he was appointed to the post by Gov. Henry Horner in January, 1932. The controversy over his appointment has virtually evolved into a fight between Fayette and Marion counties.

Until Ray's appointment, wardens of the penal farm had been residents of Fayette county, in which the institution is located. Fayette people, feeling that the post was local property, were incensed when it was given to Ray, who was then and still is chairman of the Marion county Democratic central committee.

3. Add flavoring extract and balance of milk in two portions, beating well after each addition.

ACCEPT STATE'S MEDIATOR FOR CHRYSLER TALK

Governor Pleads for Strike Settlement.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—Chrysler executives, summoned here today by Gov. Luren D. Dickinson for a conference designed to end the protracted U. A. W.-C. I. O. strike in that corporation's Detroit plants, agreed after a two hour parley to accept Arthur E. Raab, state labor mediation board chairman, as a co-mediator with James Dewey, federal conciliator, in continued negotiations to be resumed tomorrow in Detroit.

Raab and Dewey indicated their first effort would be directed toward reducing the number of negotiators from 16 to about 6.

Asks for Golden Rule Use.

The governor opened today's conference with an appeal to representatives of employer and employé interests to abide by the golden rule during negotiations.

Gov. Dickinson addressed the group in his office, reminding them of their responsibility to the state to end a controversy which has thrown from 50,000 to 100,000 persons out of work in this and other states. He told about the increasing relief burden caused by the strike and generally prosperous industrial conditions which are spurring other automotive manufacturers to peak production.

Parley Opposed by Dewey.

Representing the company at the conference were K. T. Keller, president; Herman Weckler, vice president, and their counsel. Heading the union delegation were R. J. Thomas, president of the U. A. W.-C. I. O., Richard T. Frankensteen, C. I. O. regional director and Maurice Sugar, C. I. O. counsel at Detroit.

The union is demanding the right to participate in determining the rate of production. The company says the union prompted a slow down on Chrysler production lines which eventually brought a complete shutdown.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Woman, 75, Killed by Auto After Leaving Street Car

Mrs. Wilhelmina Hanson, 75 years old, 8846 Indiana avenue, was killed last night by a hit and run driver at 88th and State streets. She had just alighted from a street car. There were no deaths reported from automobile accidents in Cook county for the 24 hours ended at 4 p. m. yesterday. Up to that time 718 persons had been killed by automobiles in the county since Jan. 1. Of these, 553 were killed in Chicago, where 18,589 were injured in the same period.

SCHOOL COURT SEES JUDGE TRY A SAFETY CASE

Twenty patrol boys of the Frederick Funston elementary school, 2010 North Central Park avenue, accompanied by their instructor, Mrs. Dellamere Hunt, visited the Safety court of Judge Joseph B. Hermes yesterday. They saw William Patterson, 39 years old, colored, 434 Bowen avenue, sentenced to 10 days in the county jail for reckless driving.

The boys, Mrs. Hunt explained, conduct their own safety court in school, where they occasionally try fellow students for violation of safety rules.

Donald Casson, 20 years old, 1511 East 61st street, was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell by Judge Frank M. Padden in Municipal court yesterday on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. Judge Padden granted Casson a stay to Nov. 2. to permit him to attend the National Guard maneuvers at Camp Grant beginning Nov. 11.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Keokuk, Ia., Nov. 2 [Special].—Shirley Richardson, 9 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richardson, was killed last night when she slipped into the path of an automobile.

HAS MR. McCABE STILL GOT A JOB? NO ONE WILL SAY

Whether State Representative Edward J. McCabe will return to his duties as chief assistant to Assessor John S. Clark was a mystery in the County building yesterday. McCabe has not been at his desk for two weeks.

Clark confirmed reports that there had been dissension between McCabe and department heads in the office over administrative matters, but said McCabe has not resigned nor been discharged. He is still on the county pay roll at an annual salary of $10,000.

McCabe has been ill recently. At his home, 4928 Washington boulevard, members of his family said that he had been out of town for ten days and returned a few days ago, but they did not know when he was going to his office.

In response to questions as to whether McCabe would be allowed to resume his duties if he came to the office and if he would continue to be on the pay roll while absent, Clark's only reply was: "I don't know."

ROBS LOAN OFFICE OF $200.

A robber held up the office of the Citizen's Loan association at 1608 Belmont avenue yesterday and took $200 from George Kaspar, the manager.

LOUD HOMEMADE MUFFLER BRINGS CYCLIST $2 FINE

A homemade muffler for a motorcycle yesterday failed in the judgment of Capt. David Flynn, head of the police traffic division, to pass a quietness test. The owner, Fred Carlson, 22 years old, 2722 Harrison street, was given a summons returnable in the cafeteria court with a $2 fine.

The captain has ordered his men to give tickets to owners whose motorcycles emit excessive exhaust noises. Carlson, employed in an auto supply store, was reported. He was asked to bring his machine to police headquarters for a test.

"He rode it up and down State street in front of headquarters," said Capt. Flynn. "The engine explosions were so loud they probably were heard by the Traffic court judge on the eighth floor. In addition to paying a fine, he'll have to replace his homemade muffler with a good one or I'll see that he gets some more tickets."

Snow Cruiser Anchors at Akron Zeppelin Dock

CANDIED APPLES PROVIDE A NOVEL NEW SWEETMEAT

Two Kinds of Coating, One with Nuts or Popcorn.

Apple eaters who also enjoy a bit of something sweet now and then are taking their apples on a stick these days. The apples are candy coated.

There are two types of coating suitable for dipping apples—the soft, chewy, caramel coating, or the hard, glazed taffy coating.

Caramel coated apples frequently are dipped in finely chopped nutmeats, and may be dipped in popcorn.

Nutmeats do not stick so easily to the glazed taffy coating, but this coating can be tinted a glorious red that would tempt anybody to defy his dentist.

CARAMEL APPLES.

1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup boiling water
⅔ cup cream
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 dozen small, firm apples
1 dozen wooden skewers

Melt ½ cup granulated sugar in a heavy pan over direct heat. Add the boiling water and cook to a smooth sirup. In a separate pan cook the cream, brown sugar, butter and remaining ½ cup granulated sugar to the soft ball stage [234-238 degrees]. Combine sirups and cook to firm ball stage [244 to 248 degrees]. Cool to lukewarm. Dip each skewered apple into the sirup and twirl until well-coated, then dip in ice water. If desired, dip in chopped nutmeats or popcorn. Place on oiled paper until caramel is well set.

CINNAMON TAFFY APPLES.

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
½ cup corn sirup
¼ teaspoon cinnamon flavoring
1 teaspoon red coloring
1 dozen small apples
1 dozen wooden skewers

Boil sugar, water and sirup together to hard crack stage [about 300 degrees]. Remove from heat and add cinnamon and red coloring. Cool slightly. Meanwhile force skewer into core of each apple. Dip apples into the heavy sirup, draining well. Then place on buttered baking sheet to cool.

Cranberry Shortcake Is Good, Too; Try It!

Who says the shortcake season is over? Strawberries aren't the only berires becoming to a shortcake—and the cranberry season is only beginning. A bit of pineapple and tart apple add to the deliciousness of a cranberry shortcake.

CRANBERRY SHORTCAKE.

1 cup chopped raw cranberries
1 cup chopped tart apples
¼ cup crushed pineapple
1 cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup cream, whipped

Combine cranberries, apples, pineapple, sugar, and salt, and let stand until sugar is dissolved. Place between layers and on top of hot shortcake. Top with whipped cream.

A Hint: How to Measure Less Than One Cup of Fat

Here's a helpful hint for measuring butter, lard, or vegetable shortening when the recipe calls for less than one cup of fat: Subtract the amount of fat needed from one cup. Fill cup with that amount of water, then add fat until one cup mark is reached. For instance, if 1-3 cup is desired, fill measuring cup 2-3 full of water. Add fat until water reaches 1 cup mark, and drain water off.

Attractive Dessert Tray

There's plenty of hospitality for even an unexpected guest and no hurry for the hostess in this attractive dessert tray served with steaming cups of coffee. A square of cream cheese between two sheets of guava jelly makes a delicious spread for crackers. Have plenty of crackers on hand, your guests are going to like this flavorful combination.

Paprika on Lettuce Edges Enhances the Salad Bowl

To make the Sunday night salad bowl more colorful and attractive, line it with crisp lettuce leaves edged in paprika. To do this, simply sprinkle paprika onto a flat plate or waxed paper, then, holding each leaf of lettuce by the stalk end, dip edges lightly into the paprika.

Hot Casserole Turns Cold Potatoes Into Cheese Dish

Cold potatoes and leftover gravy make a good casserole when cheese is added. Slice the potatoes into a greased baking dish, using two layers of them, with grated cheese and a sprinkling of salt and pepper over each layer. Pour leftover gravy over the mixture and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

A CAN OF CORNED BEEF HASH GOOD MENU INSURANCE

Twelve Jiffy Dishes Give It Great Variety.

A can of corned beef hash on the pantry shelf is insurance against sketchy meals on busy days. It can be used in a dozen different ways. You might try one of the following:

1. Slide the hash out of the can in one piece without breaking it. Then brown in a very little fat and top with fried eggs sunny-side-up.

2. Slice the whole corned beef hash, brown one side in fat in a skillet and place browned side up on top of casserole of cooked macaroni. Pour cheese sauce over all and bake in moderately hot oven until heated thru.

3. Brown cubes of corned beef hash in butter; then scramble eggs with the browned beef.

4. Heat a couple of tablespoons of fat in a large pan; add 6 cups of shredded cabbage; cover and cook 8 to 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Add flaked corned beef hash and heat thoroly. Season to taste.

5. Add 2 well-beaten egg yolks to 2 cups of flaked corn beef hash. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Brown under broiler. Serve with well-seasoned tomato sauce.

6. Place a tablespoon of catsup in the bottom of each well in large greased muffin pan. Add slightly beaten egg yolk to corned beef hash and press into muffin pan. Bake in moderate oven for 20 minutes.

7. Place 1½ cups hash in bottom of greased baking dish. Cover with ½ cup white sauce. Top with 1½ cups cooked spinach and another ½ cup white sauce. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderately hot oven for half an hour.

8. Stuff large cooked onions with hash, mixing pulp removed from onion with the hash. Top each onion with buttered crumbs and sprinkle with grated American cheese. Place in pan with enough water to cover bottom of pan. Bake in a moderately hot oven for 30 minutes.

9. Line a baking dish with cooked cornmeal. Fill center with 2 cups corned beef hash and pour over it 1 cup tomato soup to which 1 tablespoon of chili powder and a little minced onion has been added. Top with cornmeal mush rolled into little balls. Bake in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes.

10. Stuff green peppers with hash. Serve with tomato sauce.

11. Mix 2½ cups hash with ¼ cup catsup and 1 slightly beaten egg. Press half the mixture into the bottom of a well-greased loaf pan. Spread with 1 cup cream style corn and top with remaining hash and bake in a moderately hot oven for 25 minutes.

12. Line large muffin tins with hash and drop an egg into each without breaking yolk. Top with ring of green pepper and bake in a moderately slow oven until the egg is set. Garnish with sprig of parsley.

NO LAST MINUTE RUSH NEEDED FOR GELATIN SALAD

A gelatin salad's chief advantage is that it doesn't need to be made at the last minute. It even can be made the day before if necessary. Here are two gelatin salads using seasonable fruits:

JELLIED GRAPE SALAD.

1 package orange flavored gelatin
1⅛ cups boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup cubed oranges
1 cup seeded Tokay grapes, cut in halves
½ cup diced celery

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Cool and add lemon juice, salt, and orange rind. When partially congealed fold in remaining ingredients. Chill until firm and unmold on chicory or other salad greens. Garnish with mayonnaise.

CRANBERRY AND ORANGE SALAD.

1 package lemon gelatin
1⅛ cups boiling water
½ cup orange juice
1 cup raw cranberries, put thru food chopper
½ cup orange sections
⅓ cup chopped celery
⅛ cup chopped nutmeats

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and cool. Add orange juice and chill until mixture begins to set. Add remaining ingredients and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce bed with mayonnaise.

After hiding shyly in the background for several months veal has suddenly stepped boldly to the front line of meat bargains. It has been cheap, but nobody seemed interested; now at least one chain is running the whole gamut of veal cuts—leg chops, boneless roasts, breast, stew, and steak.

Many stores are heading their meat counter bargains with beef rib roast, standing or rolled. Poultry is featured here and there.

Both lamb and pork are on the price upgrade, but there are several good buys to be found in leg of lamb and pork loin roasts. Sirloin steaks should be another fairly good buy, and all smoked meats are reasonable.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. Reaching the accident they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj. Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom, admits he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection—which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness. Derek admits having anti-tetanus serum which was taken from his room. Derek goes out for a walk in the night—that same night Mrs. Glover is beaten up by some one evidently seeking to destroy evidence. The inspector finds Wynn battling with Mrs. Glover over a syringe which Glover had apparently found. Derek is arrested. Wynn and Alison figure some one else may have reached Tom after his first accident before Derek. Wynn finds out Maj. Fitts rode behind Tom. A fire breaks out in Wynn's room at Chenerys in the night. She believes some one is trying to murder her and Alison. The inspector investigates a James Elderson-Brown, who'd tried to buy Chenerys.

INSTALMENT XLVII.

HINTED SUICIDE.

Colin corrected himself. "No," he said, "it isn't as if those two girls were plague sufferers. The really poisonous thing is the attitude of the only remaining sympathizers—that damned agent, Gregg, and his pal Major Fitts. Are you aware, Headcorn, that team may do worse harm than all the turncoats put together?"

The inspector withdrew his eyes from the window. "In what way?"

"General atmosphere. It must be pretty bad to throw a girl like Alison into a panic. Well intentioned, I dare say, but . . . it can't go on. Headcorn! All this blasted supervision—hints, too, fairly broad ones. Can't you see it's a crime to suggest Wynn will probably kill herself if she's allowed the chance?"

"That won't happen!" hurled the Inspector. "No! Or if it did—" He stopped, strangely shaken.

He was remembering the superintendent's words. Mitcham had already guessed the origin of the fire . . . "or if it did—" he repeated.

"Exactly." The doctor's tone was grim. "It would mean just the one thing. That the girl herself knows Derek hasn't the devil of a chance. That she wangled the fire as a last desperate throw, found it didn't work, and has thrown up the sponge. It might even be said she had been a silent partner in the murders."

"And with excellent excuse. One has always," Headcorn added under his breath, "had to face some such eventuality. Lord, this train's stuffy!" He mopped savagely at his brow.

Colin examined him with interest. "And you," he demanded. "What's taking you back again? O, I see, as usual you're not saying! Sometimes I think you carry this caginess too far. Don't you realize that your stumping off and leaving those girls the other night without ever committing yourself one way or the other was about the essence of brutality?"

Mildly the Inspector returned, "Was it? It would have been more brutal to say what was in my mind. Let me remind you, the case against Boldre is just where it was. If, as I fully expect, my new inquiries in no way impinge on it—"

"New inquiries! You've struck something, then? For God's sake, open up!"

Cautiously the detective complied. Colin listened, now eager, now damped.

"Stop! What you've just said hands us a most substantial reason for getting Tom Boldre out of the way. Derek, of course, could have been easily managed if he'd stuck to his expressed views about selling. Glover, in and out of Gregg's house, simply picked up some secret correspondence, opened blackmail and got pipped off for his pains. The land-syndicate sounds most plausible. It's run by Elderson-Brown himself, who in return for services rendered by Gregg—but don't you see, it's not a question of impersonation or not. It's a fifty-fifty conspiracy. Establish your connection between these two men and—"

"Not so fast. First let me tell you that Elderson-Brown is teetotally knocked out. Has been since the tenth of this month. He's under very strict medical observation.

"All I got from a shut-mouthed manager at his firm was the assurance that Elderson-Brown's nursing-home expenses are being borne by British Developments Limited."

"O! They must regard him as a valuable employé."

"The manager's own words. I was told that Elderson-Brown was the company's most important expert in one particular line. No hint of what I've subsequently learned—that the man has been playing merry hell with cash and behaving like the Baron Munchausen on a jag. Does that convey anything to you?"

The doctor's eyes were steel slits. "Make it explicit."

"I will. In the Royal Hotel, Bath, he engaged the best suite where he gave champagne suppers to chance acquaintances. Hired a chauffeur-driven car—and left behind him a number of dud checks. In Bristol he repeated the program with variations after which comes a gap covering our entire Shrewsbury affair. Next what? We find him back in London. He signs a lease for a whole floor in a new Kingsway office building, lays down carpets an inch thick and orders in three hundred adding machines!"

"Three hundred . . . Headcorn! Where's this lunatic now?"

"I'll tell you. Ever heard of a pleasant retreat in Woking, run by one Dr. John Nugent?"

"Nugent! God, that's torn it . . . probably means he's hopeless."

There was a bottomless pause.

"So you see," observed the Inspector dryly, "the exact degree of importance we can attach to this engineer's conduct in the immediate past. The flourish of buying the Boldre estate makes a harmonious note in the picture. For conscience's sake I've got Reginald Hardmore meeting me this evening at Bewkesbury. It's only fair, though, to warn you I'm not building on his making any identification."

Hunched in his corner seat, Colin lit cigarets, threw them away.

The morning papers had reported a remand, but there could be little doubt that in five days from now Derek Boldre would be committed for trial at the Old Bailey.

. . . .

It was the complete apathy which terrified. One spoke to Wynn, she seemed never to hear.

This time, though, was an exception. She was answering, her voice coming from an immeasurable distance.

"Village? Of course. I'll get out the car."

She had poured tea for the Major. He had lingered long and finally—with what visible reluctance!—faded away. Her friend's suggestion appeared to have touched some spring. A mechanism inside was directing her stiffly from her seat out of the house, round to the garage.

Now to make sure. Swiftly, with shame, Alison flew into the office, opened the bottom drawer of the filing cabinet. She gazed a moment at Tom's revolver. So Wynn's aimlessly intent prowling hadn't meant anything after all. Briefly she toyed with the idea of locking this drawer and taking away the key. No! If Wynn noticed, that alone might start wrong notions. . . .

Yet, hadn't she searched for sleeping drugs, borrowed Wynn's safety razor and hidden it deep under a pile of manuscripts? Last night she had hardly dozed, braced to spring up at the first sound of that creaking stair.

Well, by midnight Colin would be with them. Her responsibility would at least be shared with some one not only a doctor but an exceptionally sane, understanding person. If between them they could make Wynn see she would serve a better purpose talking to lawyers in town and sheltering in her friends's cheerful flat. . . .

Gregg again? Of course. She had known he'd be turning up before long, undeceivingly casual, inventing thin excuses to account for his presence.

NOW'S THE TIME TO BAKE THOSE YULETIDE CAKES

They're Best if They Have Time to Ripen.

If you plan to bake fruit cakes for Christmas, now is the time to tie on your apron and get out the chopping board. Fruit cakes are best if they have time to ripen before they are eaten.

This year vary your fruit cake output by baking some in candied grapefruit shells [these make pretty gifts, and thin slices of the fruit-ringed cake are just right for serving]. Or bake a beautiful Christmas white fruit cake, thick with red cherries.

You might like a cake containing grape juice or one made with apple sauce and gum drops instead of the usual candied fruit. And you will want to give your cakes an apricot glaze and fruit and nut decorations.

Floating Pudding

No youngster will ever turn down his noonday quota of milk when it's served in this interesting fashion. Making floating island pudding is easy when made with sweetened condensed milk. Blend ½ cup sweetened condensed milk with 1½ cups water in top of double boiler. Add slightly beaten yolks of 2 eggs and cook over hot [not boiling] water until mixture coats a spoon. Stir constantly. Cool and add ⅛ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon flavoring. Make a meringue of 2 egg whites and 4 tablespoons sugar for the "island" garnish.

Sage Jelly, Colored Green or Yellow, Aids Meat Dish

Looking for something different in the way of a meat accompaniment? Then try sage jelly.

SAGE JELLY.

1¼ cups boiling water
2 tablespoons sage
¼ cup vinegar
3 cups sugar
Yellow or green vegetable coloring
½ bottle fruit pectin

Pour boiling water over sage, cover, and steep for 15 minutes. Strain and measure one cup. Add vinegar and sugar and bring to a boil; add coloring to give desired shade. As soon as mixture boils, add fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to full rolling boil and boil hard for half a minute. Remove from heat, skim, and pour quickly. Paraffin at once.

IT'S CHEAPER TO [illegible] SOAP THAN NEW CLOTHES

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

For Fable.

A friend back from New York tells of Vera Zorina's visit to the establishment of a famous dress designer. The designer showed the lovely dancer all the spectacular things in her collection, including a $25,000 sable coat.

"I have a mink coat, new last year," said Zorina.

"Mink," answered the designer, "is for football games."

Changing Times Note.

The Children's Memorial hospital, which now takes care of some 5,000 patients a year, had a 30 patient capacity when it was founded. The "ladies' board" did all the purchasing, and in the minutes, set down in one of the early years of its existence, there is the proud notation that Mrs. Henry Field had spent $200 for supplies one month. The supplies now amount to $1,000 a day, and there are 1,800 items in the storerooms all the time.

Board members, planning the hospital benefit (the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra of New York concert at the Auditorium, Nov. 26, is the first time the hospital has come before the public for funds), delved into the early minutes kept by the ladies' board. The 1895 minutes point out, in fine, ladylike script, that the laundress, having been ill, "the superintendent had done an enormous ironing." Now 2,000 pounds of linen are laundered every week at the hospital. And in 1907 the minutes duly reported the presence of a mouse in the hospital, and the solving of the problem by the donation of a cat by one of the board members.

Eddie Cantor, in town for his personal appearance at the Chicago, has a story about two women who came to his dressing room after a performance and asked for his autograph. He signed both sides of a sheet of paper, as he was asked. One inspected the signatures, then commented to her companion:

"Such a big actor, and he doesn't write any better than my Morris!"

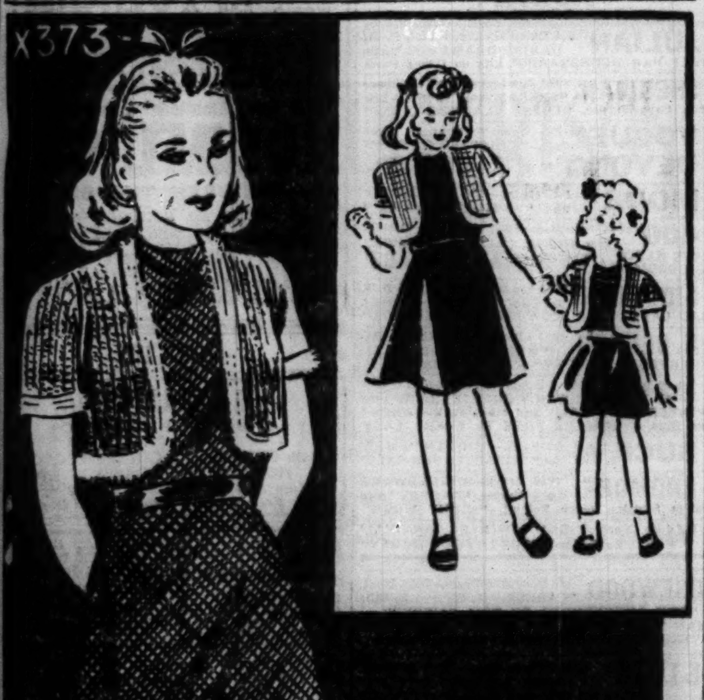
Open Sesame.

If you've been pronouncing it "sesame"—pronouncing all the vowels—all these years since you first read Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, you might like to know the correct pronunciation is "simsim." The dramatization made by Marie Agnes Foley that the Jack and Jill players are presenting tomorrow morning and Sunday afternoon at the Civic theater is taken from Padirac Colum's translations, and he gives the pronunciation in his preface. The children of the theater refuse to say "simsim," however, so in the play you'll hear the usual pronunciation.

Handsome Crocheted Bolero



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted bolero jacket for the younger miss from 4 to 8 years old makes an ideal holiday gift. It is crocheted in an Afghan stitch, and the trimming and cuffs are done in white angora single crochet. The garment takes little time to create, and three balls of luster wool are the amount of material required for a bolero for a 6 year old girl.

For instructions in crocheting the bolero jacket for girls from 4 to 8 years of age, No. X-373, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Sight Saving Benefit.

The department of sight saving of the Chicago public schools will sponsor its third annual card party this evening in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel.

Forum Speaker.

Judge J. M. Braude will address the Montparnasse forum tomorrow. His subject will be "Let's Look at Youth." Moissaye Boguslawski will be the especial guest.

Miss Hoffman, Sculptor, to Be Guest in City

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE appearance of Miss Malvina Hoffman in the first of a course of six illustrated lectures on "The Story of Man" arranged by the Geographic society is occasioning quite a bit of entertaining over the week-end. The lecture will be given by the noted sculptor Monday evening in Orchestra hall. Preceding it Dr. and Mrs. Henry Field will entertain at dinner for Miss Hoffman. Dr. Field will introduce the speaker.

Miss Hoffman will spend the week-end with the Stanley Fields in Lake Forest and on Monday she will go to her friends, the Charles G. Kings, in town for a brief stay. Robert J. Thorne, president of the society, and Mrs. Thorne are giving a tea for the visitor on Sunday. Miss Hoffman did the bronzes in the Hall of Races of Mankind in the Field Museum of Natural History, of which Mr. Field is president and Dr. Field curator of physical anthropology.

The lecture is one of several interesting events scheduled for Monday night in town, and there also will be a noteworthy concert in Winnetka that night. "Mignon" will be sung at the opera with Gladys Swarthout in the leading rôle; Katharine Cornell will open in "No Time for Comedy" at the Harris; Maurice Evans' "Hamlet" will open at the Grand Opera house, and in the New Trier auditorium on the north shore Lotte Lehmann will open the Winnetka Music club's series of winter concerts. Following Mme. Lehmann's concert the club is giving her a supper party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt in Glencoe.

Allan Heelys Will Be Entertained.

Other visitors to Chicago who will be entertained widely are Dr. and Mrs. Allan V. Heely of Lawrenceville, N. J., who are arriving on Wednesday to spend three or four days with the Rawleigh Warners in Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Warner are giving a tea for the Heelys that afternoon, following a luncheon for Dr. Heely the Lawrenceville alumni will give at the Chicago club. The Warners' son, Rawleigh, better known as Bud, is a student at the school.

James N. Rawleigh and Averill Tilden are just back from a trip to Lawrenceville, where they went for the fathers' celebration last week-end. Billy Rawleigh and Baylis Tilden are preparing for college at the school.

Service Club to Give Annual Revue Tomorrow.

Miss Virginia Skinner, the Paul Skinners' debutante daughter, is returning today from a two weeks holiday in Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are planning to entertain for their daughter, her assistants and their escorts at the Balinese room of the Blackstone hotel following Miss Skinner's debut tea on Dec. 26. Miss Skinner is coming home especially to sell flowers at the Service club revue tomorrow night.

The dress rehearsal for the revue will be held tonight in the Auditorium theater. The rehearsal sometimes lasts until 3 o'clock the next morning. A few seats are available at the box office.

Teas to Follow Concert Today.

Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne will be hostess at the Cliff Dwellers' tea today following the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Whitford Kane, now appearing in "The White Steed" at the Erlanger theater, will be the especial guest of the Cordon after the concert. Margaret Heywood Wood, one of the club's new members, will sing, accompanied by Miss Ruth Heizer at the piano.

The College club also is holding Friday afternoon teas.

Mrs. Daniel Taylor, president of the Chicago Chamber Music society, is giving a tea this afternoon after the concert for the board of the society and The Russian Trio. The society sponsors The Trio in a series of six recitals at the Arts clubs, the first of

A Cocktail Costume

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

De luxe department:

We are smitten, terribly smitten, with the filigreed gold pendants filled with solid perfume that one of the cleverest perfumers has designed. They're exquisite little things suspended on gold pins and the solid perfume is the ONLY solid perfume we ever thought was perfect.

These gilt pomander balls are the brain child of a woman famous for the scents she creates. She has a white lilac that is lush and lovely, a gardenia that is one of the best in the world. There are other florals, all true and beautiful [the heliotrope is outstanding] and a couple of blends. It's amazing to us that in their solid form her perfumes have all the fidelity and charm they have as liquids.

The perfume ornament hangs from a stunning gold pin, also filigree. It looks marvelous on dark clothes and the scent that wafts from it is something special! Make a note to tell Santa Claus you want this. It's not exactly being given away with a pound of tea, but it's no more expensive than its quality and beauty justify!

Close by to these, also created by the same artist, are her liquid perfumes in new bottles. Quite the loveliest bottles you've seen in a long time, faithful copies of 13th century chess figures! We wouldn't attempt to describe them for you; you must feast your eyes on them to appreciate them. You could keep a hopeful eye on these, too, when you do your wishful Christmas thinking.

Fashion Makes Smart Use of Jet as Trimming

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Winking wickedly all over town are the newest costume accessories trimmed with jet, that old fashioned stuff now about to enjoy a fashion revival along with the polonaise, elegant fabrics, wasp waists, and the rest of the fringe period trivia.

The loveliest gloves we've seen in years are the inky black suedes trimmed down the back with encrustations of fine jet beads. These are the luxurious slip-ons, deep and long enough to crush thickly at the wrist; the most sophisticated of dress parade gloves.

Short daytime or real afternoon gloves come with small designs outlined in very small glittering jet beads over the back. These are handsome extras for all the rustling black tea party dresses or for late dinner or theater costumes when you do not go dress parade.

This jet stuff comes in clips, earrings, bracelets, old fashioned lockets to swing on a ribbon, and in brooches . . . all very telling bits of shiny black with which to enliven the background dresses.

Wear jet with creamy beige, with platinum gray, or with the newest shade called snuff. Wear jet with your newest crackling taffeta dinner dresses or the daytime dresses made of combined taffeta and black velvet. Jet goes out of nights with the new sleek wool ensembles, the dinner and theater costumes of fine smooth wool. Jet is sewed to fitted wool or velveteen evening jackets or the short sleeved boleros to top any dress in the wardrobe.

Jet bands cross the brim of brigandish black felt off-the-face hats, and the many jet bead evening bags are the last word in swank for the sophisticate. Some come with frames of seed pearls or rhinestones as a dramatic bit of contrast; others are framed with bright gold, and still others have silver filigree as the accent. These are the best of the year-round, all-purpose evening baubles and are smart enough to remain undated for years when worn with wool, velvet, or silk.

Fashion photograph . . . subdued sophistication is stressed in this stunning cocktail costume of dull black crêpe. The underdress has the entire bodice top of silver lamé shot with black threads. The companion jacket is of the crêpe embellished handsomely with shining bands of silver braid in diagonal formation. The sleeves end just below the elbow to accent the thickly wrinkled kidskin gloves. Tiny hat and dress parade handbag complete the ensemble.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 2.—News of the week out here would concern two singers, one young, one older; one slim, one stouter; one from Canada, the other from Washington, D. C.; in other words, Deanna Durbin and Kate Smith.

Miss Durbin established herself as page 1 movie news by scoring solidly in her sixth consecutive smash hit, and any star in this town who drives home six hits in a row is more valuable than Joe DiMaggio in the "clutch."

In fact, a movie star who can deliver one hit is a rare bird in this aviary which prefers plumage of long green. . . . Miss Durbin's "First Love" is a three bagger down the left field line where the movie fans sit.

Kate Smith joins up with the Hollywood parade this week to ballyhoo "Drums Along the Mohawk." A tacit admission, or so it seems to this reporter, that the movies can't yet stand on their own. . . . Darryl Zanuck, originally so opposed to radio that he yanked Tyrone Power from a Sunday program and made good the wage that Power thus sacrificed, now has gone hook, line, and sinker for it.

He bought up time on the Kentucky Derby to ballyhoo "Roses of Washington Square," went for a three way hookup to Norway to sell "Second Fiddle," and now engages in this deal with Miss Smith to spur the sale of this new flicker.

Much has been made of the sacrifices and the heartburnings that the Misses Durbin and Smith endured in their pursuit of success, but this is hardly to be believed. . . . Each of them was born with a great talent for song, so while it flatters their egos to believe the stories their managers send out about the will to win, a fairer statement would be that both of them were superbly lucky.

Neither of them has been exposed to the temptations that have shortened the careers of other warblers. . . . Miss Durbin has been much too young to have any craving for highballs or all-night revels, and Miss Smith, because of her stoutness, was disqualified from dissipations which short-circuited other fine singers.

That the stories of Deanna's sacrifices are not to be believed for one moment is best proved by the record, which shows that she was only 15 years old when "Three Smart Girls" catapulted her to international fame. . . . Kate Smith had just rounded the corner of her 20's when she was singing on Broadway in a large and splendiferous musical comedy.

Frank Bacon, wooing success for years without ever winning it, and then finally becoming famous in "Lightnin'" when he was well on in years, would have chuckled if he'd read that Deanna didn't become successful until she had reached the ripe old age of 15, and he would have chortled if he'd been asked to sympathize with Kate Smith, who didn't have her first quarter of a million dollars until she was past 21.

The greatest stage story ever told was coined by Bacon. . . . For years, he'd toured the country with stock companies without ever crashing Broadway. . . . Then "Lightnin'," a great rôle, made him a star over night and we find him on the night of the Broadway opening puttering around his dressing room backstage.

The manager rushed back excitedly and remonstrated that Bacon had kept a distinguished audience waiting for almost 30 minutes. . . . "Sonny," said Bacon, "Now don't you get upset about that. Broadway kept me waiting for 30 years."

Deanna and Kate both have been handled excellently by people close to them who had an eye for multiplying an honest dollar. . . . Deanna was rarely fortunate in dropping into the hands of Joe Pasternak and Henry Koster, who compose just about the shrewdest production-direction combination of this industry. . . . The fusion of their talents has given her six hits in a row and you can't go behind any such compelling record as that.

Kate has been well handled by Ted Collins, a Far Rockaway Irishman who always had an eye for the main chance and occasionally has been too brusque in achieving it. . . . However, he always was in there pitching for her, which was all-important to her career, and if he occasionally threw a bean-ball at the opposition, perhaps we can pardon it on the grounds of enthusiasm.

The death of vaudeville, it seems, has been exaggerated. . . . Eddie Cantor, closing out a six-week tour at the Chicago theater, needs to do only a $40,000 week there to close out a six-week gross of $250,000. . . . Dick Powell turned in smashing figures at the New York Paramount. . . . Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland busted all records earlier at Capitol theater. . . . The Harvest Moon dancers ran up a terrific first week at Loew's State, despite a bad picture.

The 'Grammar' Girl Is Disliked in Any Circle

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The conversational menaces are not the glamor girls, but the "grammar girls," says singer Dorothy Rochelle.

A "grammar girl," she says, "is a person who pounces with fiendish glee on any and every conversational faux pas, elaborates upon it until it assumes major proportions and then, to the complete embarrassment of every one concerned, indulges in a lengthy discourse on grammatical construction."

The "grammar girl" likes to be considered a superior person and her pedantic outbursts are supposed to be vocal proof of this. Miss Rochelle adds that even a humorous colloquialism such as "Ain't it a fact" may shatter the composure of the speech technician.

"The girl who breaks into conversations with tactless and abrupt corrections alienates friendships," declares the singer. "She may be a person endowed with numerous attributes, but her senseless 'baiting' obscures her good qualities. We all know at least one person of this type and, altho we may try to overlook her grammatical sniping we can't help feeling a certain amount of animosity towards her for seeking the spotlight at some one else's expense."

Sometimes, the "grammar girl" does not offer vocal protest and will simply wince or look with compassion upon the innocent who made the blunder.

Naturalist to Show Films of the Growth of Plants

Arthur C. Pillsbury, naturalist of Berkeley, Cal., will present an illustrated lecture, "Wonders of Plant Life," in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum at 4 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Pillsbury developed special equipment for taking "lapse time" colored pictures of plant life and can show, in a brief period, everything that happens in a plant's life during the course of several days. This enables spectators to see quickly the development of a plant from bud to full flowering. The lecture is free to adults.

Finds Commo Soap Bar Saf in Every Ca

We were interested to read comments of Dr. William R. Redd former national medical officer of American Red Cross, on soap soap safety.

"Modern public health pra advocates the banishment of m things used in common. The c mon hair brush, comb, drinking and towel have been condemned the reasons that have led to condemnation have been well p licized and generally underst Each of them contains the possibil under the right circumstances, passing pathogenic organisms fr one user to another.

"The question logically arises a great many lay minds if the sa danger lurks in a product even m commonly shared—the ordinary ca of soap. Within the family circle, public washrooms, in school lava ries, and in other centers patroni by the general public, the comm piece of soap is much in evide Sometimes it is found in the questi able company of a dirty washb or sink. Often it is smudged wi the grime of a previous user."

It would seem that this soap obj like the common cup and the co mon towel, might prove a menace health. But Dr. Redden tells us th according to the best medical auth ity, germs do not propagate on so Adherence is impossible on soap b cause the very act of using it wi water, and creating a lather th runs down the drain, prevents o ganisms from remaining on the so surface. Tests have been mad which give further testimony in r gard to soap's immunity as an orga ism carrier. In one test, 75 cake were taken from as many source including hotels, machine shops, rai road stations, kitchens, and publi baths. A great number of peopl had used the soap. On culture it wa found that not one of them showe a single living organism.

But the common drinking cup hairbrush, comb and the commo towel are to be avoided like poiso and feared as much.

Frances Shimer College Gets $50,000 from Estat

Mount Carroll, Ill., Nov. 2 [Spe cial].—Frances Shimer college wil receive half the estate of Mrs. Wi nona Branch Sawyer, alumna of the class of 1871, who died at the age o 93 in Lincoln, Neb., last week. The estate is valued at more than $100, 000. Charles A. Sawyer, a son, who lives in New Jersey, will receive half of it. Mrs. Sawyer donated Sawyer house, the president's residence on the campus.

"East opened the club six and the king was taken by the ace. I thought that the contract should have been made, but instead of starting on the hearts or spades my partner [North] played out his diamonds and ended up by going down one trick when East held up the heart ace on a low lead toward dummy.

"Everybody, including the kibitzers, criticized my bidding on this hand. About all I had to say was that the hand certainly should be bid to game; that I probably would have made four spades, if not five, and that my partner should have made three no trump. Also, that if North had anything more than his original response of two diamonds he would show it upon my bid of three spades, otherwise he would pass and that there ought to be no difficulty about making three spades. I figured that my three honor tricks, plus the two North should have for his bid of two diamonds, should make three spades safe and that, if he had slightly more than two honor tricks, there ought to be an excellent play for game, especially since my diamond ace would help solidify his suit.

"Kindly give us your opinion about this bidding, specifically whether South should make another bid over two spades. J. B., Alabama."

Personally, holding the South hand, I should not hesitate to imitate

Finds Common Soap Bar Safe in Every Case

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We were interested to read the comments of Dr. William R. Redden, former national medical officer of the American Red Cross, on soap and soap safety.

"Modern public health practice advocates the banishment of many things used in common. The common hair brush, comb, drinking cup and towel have been condemned and the reasons that have led to the condemnation have been well publicized and generally understood. Each of them contains the possibility under the right circumstances, of passing pathogenic organisms from one user to another.

"The question logically arises in a great many lay minds if the same danger lurks in a product even more commonly shared—the ordinary cake of soap. Within the family circle, in public washrooms, in school lavatories, and in other centers patronized by the general public, the common piece of soap is much in evidence. Sometimes it is found in the questionable company of a dirty washbowl or sink. Often it is smudged with the grime of a previous user."

It would seem that this soap object like the common cup and the common towel, might prove a menace to health. But Dr. Redden tells us that, according to the best medical authorities, germs do not propagate on soap. Adherence is impossible on soap because the very act of using it with water, and creating a lather that runs down the drain, prevents organisms from remaining on the soap surface. Tests have been made which give further testimony in regard to soap's immunity as an organism carrier. In one test, 75 cakes were taken from as many sources, including hotels, machine shops, railroad stations, kitchens, and public baths. A great number of people had used the soap. On culture it was found that not one of them showed a single living organism.

But the common drinking cup, hairbrush, comb and the common towel are to be avoided like poison and feared as much.

Friends of the former Elizabeth Roe of Chicago will be interested to learn that she and her husband, William S. Milius of St. Louis, have a son, their first child. The baby was born Oct. 31 and is to be named William S. Milius Jr.

WEDDING

In a pretty ceremony last night in the Fourth Presbyterian church Miss Romaine Rennen became the bride of Alfred George Kling. A reception was given at the Lake Shore Athletic club by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Rennen.

Miss Virginia Herrick of Cherokee, Ia., who was the bride's roommate at National Park seminary, was the maid of honor. Miss Elnora Harkness, Miss Angela Bartenbach, and Miss Carol Kling, a niece of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids. Olaf Kling was his brother's best man.

Mr. Kling and his bride are going to Honolulu on their wedding trip. They will be at home in Lake View avenue when they return in two months.

South	West	North	East
[illegible]	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
[illegible]	Pass	2 spades	Pass
[illegible]	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
[illegible]	Pass

"East opened the club six and the king was taken by the ace. I thought that the contract should have been made, but instead of starting on the hearts or spades my partner [North] played out his diamonds and ended up by going down one trick when East held up the heart ace on a low lead toward dummy.

"Everybody, including the kibitzers, criticized my bidding on this hand. About all I had to say was that the hand certainly should be bid to game; that I probably would have made four spades, if not five, and that my partner should have made three no trump. Also, that if North had anything more than his original response of two diamonds he would show it upon my bid of three spades, otherwise he would pass and that there ought to be no difficulty about making three spades. I figured that my three honor tricks, plus the two North should have for his bid of two diamonds, should make three spades and that, if he had slightly more than two honor tricks, there ought to be an excellent play for game, especially since my diamond ace would help solidify his suit.

"Kindly give us your opinion about the bidding, specifically whether North should make another bid over two spades.
J. B., Alabama."

Personally, holding the South hand, I should not hesitate to imitate South's tactics; in other words, I most decidedly would make another effort toward game by bidding three spades. South's honor trick holding does not tell the whole story. He would have the same honor tricks in this hand:

♠A 9 7 6 3 ♥K Q 9 5 ♦A ♣J 6 2

But now the lack of a fit in diamonds and the inability to control the second round of clubs [if the hands play at a suit contract] put a different face on the matter. With this hypothetical hand I would tamely pass to two spades, but with the actual hand I would feel that my distribution warranted another try. Like my correspondent, I would figure that a three spade bid by myself would not elicit further bidding from North unless he had better [in either honor tricks or distribution] than his two diamond response guaranteed. And, altho I would not be sure of making three spades if dropped there, I would consider the possibility of game great enough to justify the jeopardizing of a part-score.

But this discussion of the bidding seems rather academic in view of the fact that the contract should have been fulfilled without difficulty. In "running" with his five diamond tricks North proved that he was a victim of panic. He probably was so afraid of the adverse club suit that he did not stop to realize the great virtue of leading hearts toward dummy's king-queen before giving up his own entries. His method of play virtually limited him to eight tricks. Surely it would have been better to hope that the club suit was either equally divided between the opponents or that it would become blocked than to surrender without a struggle. It will be observed that if declarer had led a heart toward dummy immediately on winning with the club ace and, later on entering his own hand with a diamond had made another heart lead, nine tricks would promptly have become ice cold. The defenders were blocked in clubs and could not take more than East's queen and ten before leading another suit.

Two Novelties Welcomed at Stock Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In last night's Orchestra hall program Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra included a first local performance of Charles Miller's folk rhapsody, "Appalachian Mountains," and a first performance anywhere of the Gardner Read transcription of Bach's B minor organ prelude and fugue.

Two of the themes used in the Miller piece rank with the most provocative folk melodies which any investigator has dug up. Both, presumably, were brought to this country from England long ago and have been preserved from time and change in the fastnesses of the southern mountains. One of them is a slow, misty, west of England sounding tune with a lovely antique curve and a phenomenal expressiveness. The other is an earthy, almost clumping thing, rhythmically, with a slow peasant grace in its repetitious little figures. These and other tunes the composer has knit into a sonorous, satisfying orchestral piece.

The Bach transcription, the work of the young Evanstonian whose prize winning symphony was played here two seasons ago, preserves the dignity and serenity of the original by careful, restrained use of staple tone colorings. The music profits by the greater flexibility and the easier sonority of the orchestra as against the organ, and by the better differentiation of voices which such an arrangement makes possible. The transcriber has been content with this, as every transcriber of first rate music should be, and has not bothered to work out brilliant effects.

Mr. Stock opened the evening with a zooming performance of Smetana's "Bartered Bride" overture and interpolated Arnold Bax's gray little tone poem, "November Woods," between the two novelties. Following the intermission came a radiant, full bodied performance of the Franck symphony.

The management of the Chicago Symphony orchestra announced that it is willing to extend to 50 more firms the privilege of buying "pop" concert tickets at reduced rates for distribution to their employés.

Two Refugees Make Debuts in City Opera

BY CECIL SMITH.

Two refugees from Vienna who had often coöperated in performances at the state opera were reunited in the Chicago City Opera company last night as both made their initial American operatic appearances in Verdi's "Aïda." Carl Alwin, who conducted the opera, was for 18 years a leading conductor at the state opera. Kurt Baum was a principal tenor on the state opera roster.

Altho Dr. Alwin was forced to make his debut after a decidedly inadequate amount of rehearsal, he indicated he will be a valuable addition to a company unusually weak in conductors. There were a few mishaps last night, and a few tempi harried by the nervous haste a debut often engenders, but the total impression of Dr Alwin's work was one of substantial competence.

Mr Baum's voice is large and free, yet it maintains a pleasingly light texture. While his style does not possess the utmost grace, he departed from the usual monotonous fortissimos employed by most tenors in favor of occasional well chosen soft falsetto notes. Like Dr. Alwin, Mr. Baum will be a helpful addition to the company.

Rose Bampton's first Chicago interpretation of the title rôle revealed many choice lyric moments. Her singing had almost no dramatic impact, however, and she seemed to be saving her voice a good deal.

George Czaplicki, on the other hand, projected the baritone music with magnificent force. Virgilio Lazzari and Mark Love gave sonorous warmth to the two bass rôles. Catherine Littlefield and her ballet were vivacious, tho they have certainly made no effort to measure the space in which they dance.

Elen Dosia and André Burdino, French singers, whose return to the Chicago City Opera company seemed problematical, reached the city yesterday after a turbulent voyage across the gale-swept Atlantic.

"MY DEAR CHILDREN"

Don't Expect Child to Like All Playmates

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Two mothers, old friends, were talking. One was about to enter her boy in a progressive school, and she was worried, reviewing the summer just past.

"But he must become socially adjusted," said that mother. "He's got to learn to play as other children play and to enjoy them. And he does play with them well enough and they like him, but he hasn't made a single real friend. He can't go through life that way, picking and choosing."

"Well, why can't he?" said the second mother. "Isn't that what most of us do, ourselves—pick and choose? We choose to move among our own kind. And even among those, how numerous the acquaintances are and how few the real friends! How often do you meet some one with whom you feel at home, some one with whom you seem to fit? In other words, some one who is to be a friend?

"Very rarely, I should say. The same thing holds with children. And when you come to think of the children in that little group your Tim is in there isn't one he'd naturally cotton to. There's Joey, who's very sophisticated, and John, who's a morose, wilful boy, and Bill and Sonny, who play war and want to give shows all the time, and the two girls who are absorbed in dolls and doll clothes. There isn't a really congenial soul among them for Timmy."

There's food for thought in this matter of children's relationships with other children and in what we expect of them. We hear a great deal of talk, these days, about children learning to play with other children so they will become socially adjusted. Of course that is as it should be.

STATE AUDITOR'S PAY ROLL HIGHER THAN BOOM YEAR

Increases Despite Drop in Volume of Work.

[This is the fifth of a series of articles taking up by departments the reductions in state spending proposed by Representative Lund.]

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett's department has $316,000 more to spend on salaries and wages in the present biennium than in 1929-'31, altho the number of state banks operating in Illinois has decreased over 20 per cent since then. Representative Arnold L. Lund made this assertion yesterday in supporting his demands that the state budget be cut 23 per cent.

"While this office has jurisdiction over closed state banks, it should be pointed out that the state receiver is paid out of assets thru the courts, and not with tax funds," Lund said. "The same is true of attorneys in the matter."

Cites Figures on Increase.

From $1,428,970 in 1929-'31, the money to be spent for the auditor's office has increased to $2,013,580, plus $125,000 for printing, Lund said. Salaries and wages have leaped from $1,072,807 to $1,388,580. Office expenses are up from $80,000 to $120,000.

Lund was especially critical of the $678,000 total set aside to pay an unknown number of examiners and assistants at salaries not shown in the appropriation bills. Auditor Barrett is paid $9,000 a year.

Lund's figures showed in detail, however, the number of employés specifically provided for in each of the nine departments. They total 179.

Urges Merging of Bureaus.

"There is no reason that would appeal to a business administration for the existence of nine separate divisions under this office," Lund said. "The banking, trust, credit union, and building and loan association departments should be consolidated.

"A 20 per cent cut would bring wages and salaries back to the 1929 level, and there is reason to believe that even that would be too high."

He recommended the following pay roll cuts: Sixteen out of 34 clerks in the banking department at Springfield; 20 out of 94 clerks in the general office, and four out of 16 clerks in the Chicago banking office.

Wage and Salary Cuts.

Dollar reductions would be: Wages and salaries, $382,000; office expenses, $40,000; travel, $20,000, and examination of state books, $100,000.

"Why the expense of examining state department books has risen from $50,000 in 1929-'31 to $150,000 in 1939-'41 has never been explained," Lund said. "The former figure should be restored for this item."

Lund, a Republican member of the house from Riverside, has been considering entering the race for the office of secretary of state.

Roosevelt Plans to Speak in Chicago Next April 6

Washington, D. C., Nov 2 [Special]. —President Roosevelt today tentatively accepted an invitation to speak in Chicago next April 6 in connection with exercises in observance of Army day. The invitation was extended by Representatives Adolph J. Sabath, Raymond S. McKeough, and Edward A. Kelly, all of Chicago. The President told the delegation he would gladly make an address in Chicago on that date provided congress would "behave itself" at that time.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Do you think that girls who have worked before marriage make better wives?

Where Answered.

At the Michigan avenue bridge.

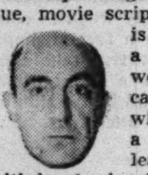
The Answers.

Milton A. Rosenberg, 3150 Lincoln avenue, merchant—Yes, I certainly do think that girls who have worked make better wives. Girls who have made their own way know how to handle money and therefore are more apt to be economical in household spending.

David Greear, Marion, Va., photographer and engraver—Yes, I think girls who have worked have developed an interest in life. They have learned the value of their dollars. Country girls are supposed to make good wives; that's because they've had less freedom and more responsibility.

Harry Wallace, 130 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, salesman—Yes. After all, marriage is a business. Business experience that girls get before marrying can be applied to the problems that come up after marriage. It gives them a better understanding of what their husbands are up against.

Joseph Bing, 2122 Agatite avenue, street car conductor—I think girls who work before marriage have a better knowledge of money values and a better education. But then, if they work too long, they may get an independence complex.



Rudolph August, 7824 Colfax avenue, movie script writer—I think it is a good thing for a woman to have worked. If a woman can learn to play ball with her boss she has a better chance of learning to play ball with her husband.

EX-CHICAGOAN IS CONVICTED OF DOUBLE SLAYING

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 2 (AP).—A jury returned a guilty verdict today against Albert Singer, 67 years old, for the slaying of his wife, Frances, 65 years old, and a son, Harry, 27 years old, and recommended a life sentence. Singer, former Chicago politician, also was convicted of assault with intent to murder another son, William, who was wounded.

The shooting occurred at the family's Hollywood home. Singer said his sons ousted him from the home and he had, on the night of the shooting last July, gone back for some personal belongings. He will be given a sanity hearing.

NO MERIT FOUND IN CONGRESS ST. SUPERHIGHWAY

Congestion Is Feared All Along the Route.

[This is another article by The Tribune's automobile editor analyzing the city's superhighway plans in light of ten years' study of the subject.]

BY HAL FOUST.

This department of THE TRIBUNE is concerned with the safety and convenience of automobile operation. It is not interested in slum removal projects nor realty promotions. Therefore it finds no merit in the city's plan for a Congress street superhighway.

Under the proposal before the council, the superhighway as such would end on the east at Canal street amid congested surface streets a mile from the center of the business district. The intersection with the heavily traveled Canal would be at grade, functionally hopeless.

Would Go Thru Plaza.

The continuation east from Canal, thru an arcade in the postoffice used by mail trucks, would cross the Chicago river on a six lane bridge with four lanes on the west approach and 10 lanes on the east approach. East of the river would be a block wide plaza to Wells street, a plaza that would be purchased with gas tax money, to be used underground as a subway loop terminal.

West from Canal, the proposed location for a west side superhighway passes thru slums that would not contribute any traffic and that do not contribute any gasoline tax revenue.

En route west, 23 north and south streets would be dead ended. Other north and south streets, carried across on viaducts with the eight express lanes dipping under them, would be jammed by a conflict of turning traffic approaching and leaving the superhighway.

Dead End for Suburbs.

The western end, at Columbus park at the city limits, would be a dead end. It would not connect with any important state highway. Traffic would be dumped onto local suburban streets. Any future extension thru these suburbs would have to cut thru cemeteries, bridge the Des Plaines river, and cross railroads.

In general, the present design calls for an elevated highway from west of Canal street to west of Racine avenue, thence a depressed highway to Columbus park. An alternative proposal, with gasoline tax money furnishing more right of way for the rapid transit lines, would carry the depressed design eastward to just west of Des Plaines street.

Right of way would be broad, a block wide in most instances, and would be landscaped. The argument for this characteristic is that it would enhance abutting real estate values, warranting an additional cost. Motorists, thru their gas tax, would pay the additional cost.

The estimates for the 1939 plan, from Wells street to Canal street, are $11,805,000 for land and buildings and $14,660,000 for construction, a total of $26,465,000. The estimates for a 1935 plan, covering the same general location, were $13,470,000 for land and buildings and $7,790,000 for construction, a total of $21,260,000.

"It is interesting to note," reads the report, apparently unconscious of any contradiction of the realty rehabilitation argument, "that there has been a substantial shrinkage of real estate values in this area since the preparation of the state highway department plan in 1935."

The depressed highway obviously would entrap snow and rain and, to some degree, exhaust fumes. Motorists are familiar with the city's snow removal activity, or lack of it, on existing thorofares. The engineers answer that there will be a superior snow service for the superhighway.

Drainage a Problem.

Chicago motorists are also familiar with the drainage, or lack of it, in existing subways under railroad embankments. There would be 30 subways under cross streets. The engineers answer that there will be superior drainage, power pumps, for the Congress street improvement. Maybe they'll rebuild the inadequate storm sewers.

With the depressed design pedestrians remain a problem. The viaducts for 30 of the north and south streets, of course, will include walks. At the 23 dead-end streets pedestrians will be expected to detour to the first viaduct crossing. Trespassing on the express roadways is likely.

Another threat of pedestrian trespassing lies in the parklike character of the right of way. The superhighway would pass thru neighborhoods with many children and few small parks.

Complications at Cross Streets.

The viaducts for the cross streets present a problem for north and south traffic. At each end of the bridges will be an intersection at grade with a one way street on the border of the superhighway development. This one way street will be the approach and exit from the express roadways as well as the street to serve private property on one of its sides.

At each of these grade crossings, at the bridgeheads, there will have to be stop and go lights. There will be cross traffic and also right and left turns. Many of these north and south thorofares now bar left turns at comparatively minor cross streets. The north and south traffic is too heavy to tolerate even a few left turns.

From the standpoint of motorists, who are asked to pay $32,000,000 in gasoline taxes for the job, the city's Congress street plan should never be built.

ARMY TO MAKE STUDY OF HIGHWAY NEEDS FOR NATION'S DEFENSE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—From a mass of data never before available, the foot-by-foot facts on more than 50,000 miles of strategic military roads are being assembled for the war department by the Public Roads administration.

Thus the army will be enabled to inform the administration and state highway departments exactly what improvements are needed on roads that might become vital to national defense.

The United States has no military highways such as most European countries have built, but it does have an unrivaled civil system. A basic principle of war department planning is that roads needed for commerce and travel wil be useful, generally, for military purposes. The war department does not build roads.

HAWKS DEFEAT WINGS, 3-2, IN HOCKEY OPENER

BOOKIES PONDER WHAT TO DO WITHOUT WIRES

Government Order Comes as Shock.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's bookies regard the government's latest attempt to cut off their contacts as a challenge to their ingenuity rather than a lethal blow. Most of the members of that profession retained the traditional gambler's calmness last night, but they admitted that they were puzzled by the problem of maintaining communication with their patrons and with the race tracks.

Two developments yesterday precipitated the present situation. United States Attorney William Campbell and State's Attorney Thomas Courtney requested the Illinois Bell Telephone company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the Western Union to cut off all wire communications to the horse racing information services operated by Moses L. Annenberg on a nation-wide scale. This would affect handbooks in 350 cities.

Companies Will Comply.

The second blow came when the telephone and telegraph companies indicated that they would make no attempt to fight the order. They announced that they would comply Monday.

The bookies agreed that, if the no-service order really becomes effective, there may be a period of chaos.

Old timers were of the opinion that the government's action threw the bookie business back to the days of Palmer House Ryan and Joe Habercorn. They recalled the adroit maneuver of one group of checker vested gentlemen who were caught in a reform wave soon after the turn of the century.

These artful evaders chartered a boat called the City of Traverse, rigged it up with gambling equipment, and sent it out into Lake Michigan equipped with wireless. Floating beyond the arm of the local law, the City of Traverse remained in communication with the activities at the tracks.

Another System Works.

Palmer House Ryan had a regular clientele which he would meet in the lobbies of hotels. He would take their bets one day and pay off the next.

Habercorn operated a book across from the city hall where the Sherman hotel coffee shop now is located. Politicians and others would note that a horse they liked was running that day. They would drop into Habercorn's place just long enough to make the bet. The next time they came in they'd collect what was coming to them.

Jim O'Leary, Mike McDonald, and Monte Tennes were other famous names. Newsboys' alley, which ran from Wells street to La Salle, held another well known bookmaking establishment. The half dollar better was almost unknown in those days, most of the wagers being $5 and up.

Since around 1902 there always has been some kind of communication between the gambling establishment and a central source of information. For a long time this consisted of a machine similar to a ticker, but the modern method has been in use for the last 20 years.

One Man Does It All.

Under the present system a man sitting in the central office throws a key that connects him with all bookmaking establishments receiving the service. Simultaneously he supplies them all with a continuous report on the shifting odds before the races, calls the order of the horses during the running, and prices after the finish.

If, while the betting is in progress, a bookie decides he is holding too much money on a certain horse, he protects himself by wiring it to the track where it is wagered thru the mutuel machines. Money bet in this manner is called comeback money.

Bookie patrons now sit around an establishment all afternoon. Guided by all the information that would be available at the track, they make their choices. In many of the bigger establishments de luxe service is available, waiters moving noiselessly across deep carpets to place highballs at the elbows of the guests.

Predict Chain System.

Many gamblers believe that after the new order goes into effect next Monday the large establishments will go out of business. They think that the most likely setup will involve strings of cigar stores or other small shops widely scattered thru the city. Here bets will be taken on each race up to a certain time. The better will receive a ticket stamped in a time clock. On the following day, when the result is known, he will receive the money he has won, if any.

The matter of odds will be a problem. If track odds prevail, the betters will put down their money without being sure whether they are wagering on a 2 to 1 shot or a 5 to 1 shot.

ANGOTT TO RISK NO. 1 RATING WITH BABY ARIZMENDI

Sammy Faces Hard Test in Stadium Tonight.

Alberto [Baby] Arizmendi, one of the best fighters developed in California, will attempt to break Sammy Angott's string of 14 consecutive victories in a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Sammy Angott.

Baby Arizmendi.

At the same time, the rugged Los Angeles boxer will seek to displace Angott as No. 1 welterweight and lightweight contender. The agreed weight is 137 pounds, two more than the lightweight limit and 10 less than the welter maximum.

The winner has been promised a title match with Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers in New York next spring.

Little to Choose Between Them.

There is little to choose between the rivals, with the possible exception of superior experience possessed by Arizmendi. Alberto, who was born in Torreon, Mexico, March 17, 1913, has been boxing since he was 12 years old. Since 1925 Arizmendi has engaged in more than 400 matches, including five fights with Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong and three with Ambers.

Arizmendi conquered Armstrong twice and lost the others by decisions. In the 52 rounds against Armstrong, Arizmendi was not knocked off his feet, which is quite a feat when it is considered Armstrong is one of the hardest punchers at his weight in boxing.

Does Well Against Ambers.

Against Ambers, Arizmendi didn't do badly. After losing their first meeting, he held Ambers to a ten round draw. In a third fight Ambers won on a technical knockout in 11 rounds when Arizmendi was refused permission to come out for the 11th because of a cut eye.

Angott may make up for insufficient experience and ring generalship because of his youth. He is three years younger than his opponent. Angott has speed. It was this asset which helped Angott defeat Davey Day in the Stadium on Oct. 6.

Arizmendi is one of the strongest foes Sammy has been asked to face. He is a master of relaxation when not throwing punches, and also is adept at counterpunching. He is aggressive, walking into his foe with arms ready to block leads and to counter with solid blows to the head and body.

Promoter Bill Rand is making preparations to handle a crowd of more than 5,000. Receipts are expected to exceed $10,000.

Leone Efrati and Frankie [Kid] Covelli will see action in a 10 round secondary feature. In two previous bouts Efrati scored a victory and was held to a draw.

Other encounters:

Clarence Brown, south side, vs. Dan Merritt, Cleveland [8], heavyweights.
Eddie Wenstob, Edmonton, Ont., vs. Altus Allen, Freeport, Ill. [6], heavyweights.
Harry Sutton, south side, vs. Marion Mosley, west side [4], heavyweights.
Johnny Janis, Brighton park, vs. Jake Lebovitz, south side [4], heavyweights.
Steve Souris, Celtic Kid, Gary, vs. Lou Vara, west side [4], 150.

"I hope they will be happy," people said,
As if contentment was a thing apart
That sometimes came by chance to those who wed,
And was not native to the humble heart;
Each couple is the master of its fate,
Each holds within its hand the golden key
That will unlock enchantment's magic gate
Admitting it to lasting harmony.

True happiness is purchased with a price
That man and maid alike must freely pay;
The currency is willing sacrifice
Which must be coined anew each passing day;
But those who in their hearts this treasure store
Will know felicity for evermore.

SCHMELING ON WAY TO AMERICA FOR MORE BOUTS

BARCELONA, Nov. 2 (AP).—Max Schmeling, accompanied by his trainer, Max Machon, today arrived from Rome en route to Lisbon, where, it is understood, the former heavyweight boxing champion will take a plane to New York. The German said he still hoped for a return bout with Champion Joe Louis.

FIND CHALLEDON WON DESPITE AN INJURED HOOF

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 2 (AP).—Challedon won the Pimlico Special with an injured hoof that might have caused him serious damage, it was revealed today.

Six days ago, before Challedon was shipped from Laurel to Pimlico, he bruised one of his fore feet. For two days he favored the leg and Owner W. L. Brann, Trainer Lou Schaefer, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Maryland Jockey club president, debated whether he should run.

Without Challedon the Special would have been just another race. In a Sunday workout, with the Special in the balance, Clayton Trippy galloped Challedon a mile and an eighth. It was a good effort and Challedon seemed none the worse for it.

PURPLE SQUAD OF 39 LEAVES FOR GOPHER CONTEST

N. U. Line Hampered by Minor Injuries.

Coach Lynn Waldorf and a group of 39 determined Northwestern football players left Evanston last night for Minneapolis to keep an engagement with the Minnesota football team in Memorial stadium tomorrow afternoon. The Wildcats will arrive in Minneapolis this morning and hold a workout in the Gopher stadium in the afternoon.

Waldorf's teams always have traveled to Minneapolis with several key men on the sidelines with injuries. In 1937 Sammy Wegner, star center, was forced out and Johnny Haman, sophomore, got his big chance. Haman played a bang-up game against the Gophers and tomorrow he will be the game captain for the Wildcats.

Minor Injuries Hit Linemen.

The Purple line is suffering from a malady of minor injuries which may cost it plenty of yardage against the high-geared Gopher offense. Alf Bauman, huge sophomore tackle, has not participated in practice sessions all week. He was bothered with a bad tooth which has been pulled, but he has not taken part in any of the Purple drills against the Gopher offense.

Don Guritz, 207 pound senior guard, probably will not be able to play. Guritz was out of the Illinois game last week with a badly sprained ankle and Waldorf does not expect to use him against the Gophers. Nick Cutlich, star tackle, also is bothered with a bad shoulder, which may prevent him from playing, altho Waldorf intimated last night that he hoped the burly senior would be in the opening lineup.

Will Start Old Lineup.

The probable Northwestern opening lineup will be the same that started against the Illini: Haman will hold down the center post; Hal Method, senior letter man, and Joe Lokanc, junior, will be at the guards; Cutlich and Corne Aarts, fast improving junior, are slated at the tackles, and Seniors Ted Grefe and Bob Daly will be at the wings. The back field will have Dick Richards, at quarter back; Paul Soper, spearhead of the Wildcat victory over Illinois, at left half back; Floyd [Tuffy] Chambers at half back, and Don Clawson, high scoring sophomore at full back post.

Those men chosen to make the trip include:

CENTERS—John Haman, Paul Hiemenz, Don Johnson.
RIGHT GUARDS—Hal Method, John Goldak, George Zorich.
LEFT GUARDS—Joe Lokanc, Jim Liddell, Merrill Heaggy, Don Guritz.
LEFT TACKLES—Nick Cutlich, Frank Young, Leon Cooke, Joe Vavrus.
RIGHT ENDS—Bob Daly, Al Butherus, Jay Laskay, Ace Horton.
QUARTER BACKS—Dick Richards, Nick Conteas, Jack Ryan.
LEFT HALF BACKS—Paul Soper, Bill De Correvont, Erwin Madsen, Ollie Hahnenstein.
RIGHT HALF BACKS—Floyd Chambers, Ike Kepford, Iggy Mesec, Don Kruger.
FULL BACKS—Don Clawson, George McGurn, Francis Purtell, George Benson.

DOCTORS DECIDE TO CUT OFF LEG OF TIGER TACKLE

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP).—Everywhere on the Princeton university campus today echoed the question, "How's the Hooker?"

The answer came from the father of Donald G. [Hooker] Herring: The husky tackle's left leg will be amputated above the knee tomorrow.

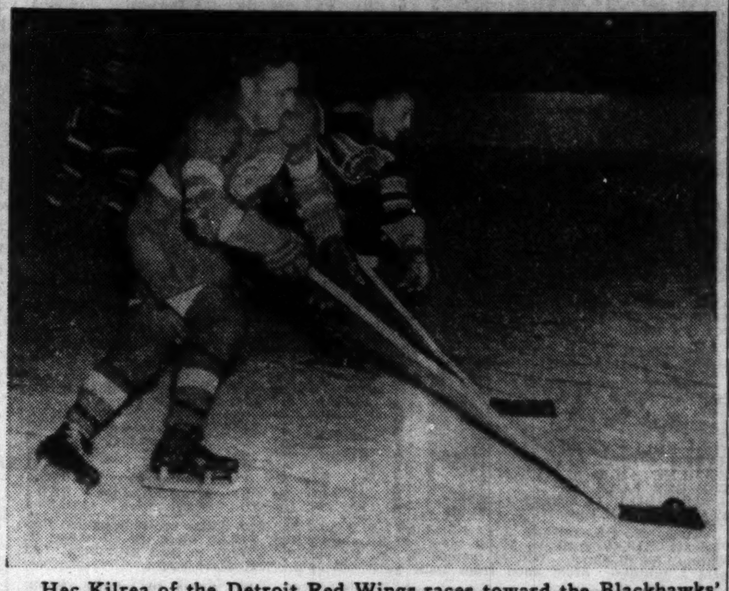
"The reason," said Donald G. Herring Sr., himself a Princeton football star in years gone by, "is that the blood can't get down into his lower leg because the arteries have been destroyed."

"Don won't be a cripple," the elder Herring mused. "He'll be able to walk around just as well as I do. All it means is that he loses a year of football and a couple of years of track."

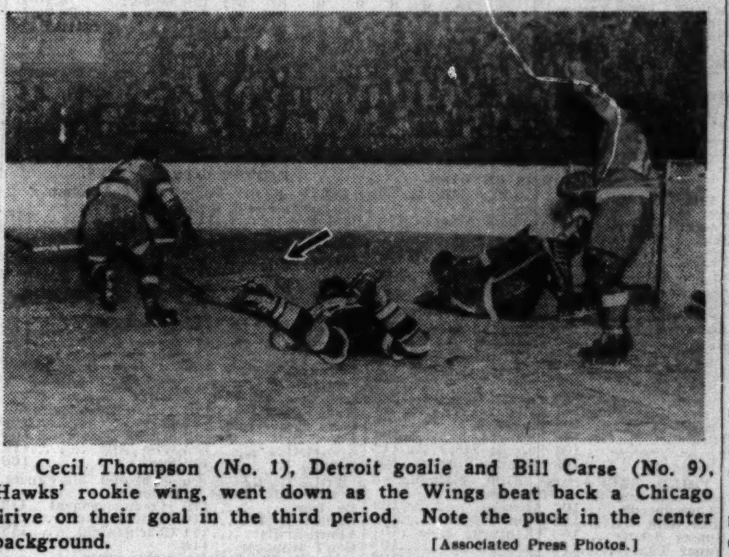
Dr. Robert W. Johnson Jr. of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, a Princeton graduate, will operate.

Young Herring did not know what was in store, his father said.

The Season Opens—and the Hawks Win



Hec Kilrea of the Detroit Red Wings races toward the Blackhawks' goal with Art Wiebe of the Hawks in close pursuit during the National Hockey league opening game in the Chicago Stadium last night. Goalie Mike Karakas blocked Kilrea's shot. The Hawks won, 3 to 2.



Cecil Thompson (No. 1), Detroit goalie and Bill Carse (No. 9), Hawks' rookie wing, went down as the Wings beat back a Chicago drive on their goal in the third period. Note the puck in the center background.

2 Notre Dame Regulars Out of Army Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 2 [Special].—William [Bud] Kerr and Tom Gallagher were left behind as Notre Dame's football squad entrained this afternoon for New York and Saturday's twenty-sixth game with Army. A capacity crowd of 78,000 will see the game in Yankee stadium.

Kerr, varsity left end, is in the infirmary with a kidney infection. Gallagher, who plays next to Kerr at left tackle, had not recovered sufficiently from a sprained ankle to be ready for action against the Cadets, and under Notre Dame's rule limiting the squad to thirty-six players there was no room for cripples or doubtful starters.

Frank Biagi, a senior from Duluth, Minn., who has not yet won a monogram, will start in Kerr's position. Jim Brutz, Warren, O., sophomore, will start in Gallagher's post.

The Irish will arrive at the Westchester Country club, Rye, N. Y., tomorrow morning to remain until they move into New York City Saturday morning. They will work out tomorrow afternoon on the club polo field. Following is the squad making the trip:

ENDS—Biagi, Arboit, P. Sheridan, Capt. J. Kelly, O'Brien, Kovatch.
TACKLES—Brutz, Albert, Rively, Harvey, Lillis, Brosey.
GUARDS—DeFranco, P. Kelly, Maddock, Riffle, Gubanich, Laiber, Bereolos.
CENTERS—McIntyre, Finneran, Mooney.
QUARTER BACKS—Sitko, Kelleher, Hargrave, O'Meara.
HALF BACKS—B. Sheridan, Zontini, Saggau, Crimmins, Stevenson, Bagarus, McGannon.
FULL BACKS—Piepul, Thesing, Postupack.

ARMY LEAVES FOR GAME.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 2 [Special].—The Army team with its coaches and handlers left this evening for New York where the West Pointers will meet Notre Dame Saturday.

The Cadet squad left by bus, after a rousing sendoff by the 1,800 cadets, for the Knollwood Country club, near White Plains, where it will remain until game time.

There have been several changes in the lineup this week. Jim Rooney has been moved back into the running guard position from the back field, where he was worked in several games this season.

Ring Commission, Governor Confer on Expose Today

Chairman Joe Triner, Commissioner Sheldon Clark, and Secretary John Owen of the Illinois boxing board left last night for Springfield, where they will confer this morning with James R. Fitzpatrick, the third member, and Gov. Horner on Harry Thomas' admission that he engaged in fixed bouts against Tony Galento and Max Schmeling.

The commission and the governor have barred all involved in the case—Galento, Schmeling, Joe Jacobs, manager of the two; Nate Lewis, representative of Thomas, and Thomas—from participating in any boxing contests in Illinois until the charges have been disproved.

Horner feels, it is said, that an immediate investigation of the charges can find the principals involved guilty or not guilty, with the resultant chance negotiations can be resumed for two major fights which were being considered for Chicago prior to the exposé.

These proposed bouts would match Galento with Max Baer and Galento vs. Champion Joe Louis.

The governor is anxious, it is reported, to let the principals submit their case at once. He wants to give them an opportunity to defend themselves.

However, the commission is not empowered legally to open a direct investigation because none of the five connected with the scandal holds a license in Illinois.

After Galento was awarded a three round technical knockout over Thomas in Philadelphia Nov. 14, 1938, the Pennsylvania commission revoked his license. Later the commission barred Thomas, Manager Lewis, and all of the latter's fighters for life.

Knee Operation Believed Needed for Whitlow Wyatt

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 2 (AP).—Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said today he expected a knee operation would be necessary for Whitlow Wyatt, Dodger pitcher who is here for treatment. MacPhail said he conferred with Wyatt and Dr. George E. Bennett, but did not know when the operation would be performed.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Rookie George Allen, Happy Mush March, and Semi-Veteran Cully Dahlstrom last night delighted 14,864 hockey fans in Chicago Stadium by making the three goals which enabled the Blackhawks to launch the 1939-'40 National league season with a 3 to 2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

Allen's goal, shortly after the game began, and March's, in the ninth minute of the second period, gave the Hawks a 2 to 0 lead, but this margin was cut in two by a Detroit goal less than two minutes after March scored.

With less than four minutes to play Detroit effected a tie when a green defense gave Cecil Dillon too much freedom.

Dahlstrom's Goal Clinches It.

The customers were pretty blue with this tying maneuver, but with the end of the regular time little more than a minute away, exuberance was restored by Dahlstrom, who netted the winning tally in a power play, with Johnny Gottselig and Jeff Desilets drawing assists. The time of the winning goal was 18 minutes and 49 seconds.

The Hawks' 100 per cent recruit forward line of Allen, Les Cunningham, and Ab Demarco deported itself with a verve which augurs well for the Chicago club's new policy of seeking to build up fresh talent.

During the game the Hawks announced that Bill Mackenzie, veteran defense man, had been sent to Providence, R. I., on option, subject to immediate recall.

Rookies Get First Goal.

The fact that the first goal of the National league season was scored by a member of an all-rookie line seemed to make everybody excessively happy, one fan going so far as to throw his brand new winter hat on the ice. The goal, in three minutes and seven seconds of the first period, came several seconds after Allen, Cunningham, and Demarco had made their Chicago bow as Blackhawks.

The new line dashed right into the Red Wing defense zone and Demarco banged one which staggered Thompson. Before Tiny could regain his poise, Allen took a backhanded swipe from 15 feet in front of the nets and beat the Detroit goalie with room to spare. Demarco was scored with an assist on Allen's goal.

Hawks Make It 2-0.

The Hawks made it 2 to 0 in eight minutes and 54 seconds of the second period, then the Red Wings counted, less than two minutes later. Carse took the puck into the Detroit defense zone and passed to March, who threatened on a swoop off Goalie Thompson's toes. Later March got the puck again but was nailed against the boards. There was a face off and the Hawks kept control of the rubber as all hands remained up, tho the Red Wings were at full strength. The Detroiters tried like everything to clear but just couldn't make it. Cooper maneuvered the puck to a point just off Goalie Thompson's boots, then nudged it to March, who banged home Chicago goal No. 2. Cooper was given an assist.

Dillon Ties It Up.

Art Wiebe then got locked up for tripping and the Red Wings rushed into the Chicago defense zone for the face off at Karakas' right. Immediately there was a big jam in front of the Chicago cage and in 10 minutes and seven seconds of the period Detroit scored its first goal. Syd Howe got it, assisted by Dillon.

With four minutes to go in the regular time, Demarco drew his aforesaid third penalty of the game, this one for tripping. Immediately after Ab had been tossed into the penalty box the puck was faced off near the Detroit cage. Dillon took the rubber from the face off, skated it down the rink near the left boards and terminated his solo jaunt by beating Karakas from close in. The time was 16 minutes and 23 seconds.

When Ebbie Goodfellow was tossed off in 18:00 the Hawks staged their victorious power demonstration.

PRECEDENT WITH PACKERS SUNDAY IN BEAR GAME

But Plasman May Be the Man to Stop Cycle.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Precedent is with the Packers when they invade Wrigley field Sunday for a game in which the Chicago Bears risk their last chance to stay in the National league race. It has been five years since Green Bay lost a game to the Bears in Wrigley field.

The 41 game series between the teams has been one of fluctuating fortune and a cycle of sevens. Beginning with the second game of their 1925 series, the Bears went seven games against the Packers without defeat. Two were ties. The Packers broke the spell with the second game in 1928 and won seven in a row. Then late in 1932 the Bears began a string of seven consecutive victories with a 10 to 6 triumph.

Herber, Hutson Snap String.

Arnie Herber and Don Hutson, a couple of headache purveyers who still do business in the same old corner, snapped this string in 1935 when Herber faded back from the 13 yard line on the first play of the game, threw a pass half the length of the field over Beattie Feathers' head and Hutson took it in stride to continue on to a 7 to 0 victory. The Packers repeated later in the season when they came to Chicago and since that time they have not been beaten in Wrigley field.

Herber and Hutson are expected by the Green Bay loyalists to bring the Packers' record against Coach George Halas' squad to seven victories in the last ten starts on Sunday, but in this undertaking the Packers will have to deal with the Bears' pass defense, a Mr. Dick Plasman. Plasman was dubbed the Bears' pass defense in Green Bay on Sept. 24 when he did about everything all other ends have ever done in attempting to get the Bears away in the title race with a victory.

An Outstanding Wingman.

That game was the start of a series of exhibitions that quickly brought Plasman recognition within the league as one of the outstanding wingmen of the season. Plasman was superb against the Giants two weeks ago, gave an excellent demonstration of defensive play against the Lions, and rapidly is becoming the Bears' leading end, altho he has not been elevated to a starting position.

After the accident in which he suffered a fractured hand and severe lacerations when he crashed into the brick abutment at the south end of the Wrigley field gridiron last season, it was doubted for several months whether he would regain sufficient use of his hand to permit his return this fall. Careful treatment and summer long exercises restored the hand to its normal sensitiveness.

Plasman fidgeted on the bench at Green Bay, anxious to get in the game. When he finally was turned loose, he caught four of eight passes thrown to him, blocked a punt by Clarke Hinkle to set up a seven yard quarter back sneak by Bernie Masterson for the Bears' second touchdown, and otherwise made himself very unpopular in Packerville.

C. Y. O. Boxing Trials Open on South Side

First bouts in the sectional preliminaries of the ninth annual Catholic Youth Organization boxing tournament, the finals of which will be held at the Chicago Stadium, Nov. 29, were held last night in St. Sabina's gym, 78th street and Racine avenue, before a capacity crowd. Winners of last night's matches, in addition to scores of new contestants, will go thru another night of ring warfare at St. Sabina's tonight.

Two boys in the 135 pound class who were impressive last night were Nick Gallate, St. Ann's, and John Huff, St. Jude's. Both won in handy style to advance to tonight's round. Marty Brennan, St. Leo's, another lightweight, also looked good. In the 160 pound class the honors went to John McKeigue, St. Brendan's, who stopped Robert Payne, St. Anselm's, in two rounds.

BOOKIES WONDER WHAT THEY'LL DO WITHOUT WIRES

Government Order Is a Crushing Blow.

The bookies' predicament will be even more serious, because they will be unable to wire comeback money to the track even if they have any way of finding that such a move is desirable.

These circumstances may impel bookies to abandon pari-mutuel odds entirely. They would then lay their own odds and balance their own books after the system of oral betting which prevails on New York tracks.

There was much speculation last night as to the part radio would play in the new setup. One local station, WIND, has been broadcasting direct from Chicago tracks. It also announces prices and results of races at tracks thruout the country. Inasmuch as telephone wires carry the program from the local track to the broadcasting towers, the point was raised that the company might shut off this program if the government complained that bookies were using it. It had occurred to the gamblers that they might establish radio as a systematic source of information. In that case the patrons would gather as before in the establishment, with the radio tuned to the station from which they would get a continuous report on the odds, the calls, and the prices.

Coöperation Is Pledged.

In the telephone company's reply to the request from Courtney and Campbell it stated: "If at any time evidence comes to the attention of either of you that telephone service is being used by such other corporations or individuals for illegal purposes in respect to bookmaking or gambling, we will undertake to comply with requests you may make in relation to the denial or withholding of telephone service."

Thus it seemed that the bookies would be unable to make systematic use of the radio without running into trouble. Officials of station WIND said last night that they had received no request from the government to curtail their race broadcasts. They said they planned to continue to broadcast race news thruout the winter.

BOB FELLER TO CELEBRATE 21ST BIRTHDAY TODAY

Van Meter, Ia., Nov. 2 [Special].—Bob Feller, Cleveland's star pitcher, arrived at his home from Chicago tonight and tomorrow will celebrate his 21st birthday anniversary. Mrs. William Feller, the pitcher's mother, said no special plans have been made for the day.

Bob will spend the day visiting with neighbors and friends and Sunday will attend a dinner with relatives at the Roy Manders home near Adel.

Feller has been a regular with the Cleveland club since he was 17, and during the last season won 24 and lost 9, striking out 246 batters, the largest number since Walter Johnson fanned 303 in 1912.

GOOSE HUNTING IN SOUTH ILLINOIS IS QUITE A SHOW

But Some Shooters Seem to Need Educating.

BY BOB BECKER.

The outdoor show that goes on from 7 a. m. until 4 p. m. in a wild goose hunting field in southern Illinois is one of those "continuous performance" events that is bound to raise the temperature of any hunter.

When we were on a recent goose hunt near Olive Branch and Miller City, two villages not far from Cairo, we found it fun just to watch big honkers decoying into the fields and then wait to see some of the low birds crumple in the air and fall to the ground before the sound of the shot could reach us. The fields are flat so you can see birds and watch the shooting for a long distance.

Machine Gun Practice.

And with anywhere from 10 to 35 impatient, quick triggered hunters in one field there is no lack of noise! When four or five men using repeating shotguns open up on birds 100 to 125 yards away it sounds as if somebody had just broken out a machine gun and was firing a practice round. It's nothing unusual for an inexperienced goose hunter to start firing when birds are more than 100 yards from a blind.

After watching many of the hunters who were in the field near us the other day, we became convinced that operators of day hunting grounds near Horse Shoe lake need to regulate the number of shells that each hunter may use to drop four geese [a day's limit] or else start a school to drill shooters on the "let 'em get within range" angle of wild goose hunting.

Their Size Fools Hunter.

The other afternoon when we were in a blind with Bill Haerther and Lyman Barr we got out during a lull in the goose flight to pace off 70 yards to the right of our pit blind. Many birds were swinging wide over a certain well marked spot in the field. The birds that went by us over that spot looked big but we knew they were out of range. Twice we paced the distance from our blind. The measurements showed that the birds were flying by us between 70 and 72 yards from the blind. But the geese look so big when compared to a mallard duck at that distance that hunters are apt to be fooled.

Of course a goose is out of range at 71 yards. But you'll see any number of hunters burning box after box of ammunition on geese that are 70 yards up to 125 yards from their blinds while hunters who are patiently waiting to let birds work in have their shots spoiled.

Be Patient; the Ducks Will Come.

Chicagoland hunters who are considering a combination goose and duck hunting trip around Miller City or Olive Branch, Ill., should wait until later for there are practically no ducks in that area now. Later in November after some mean autumn weather has pushed the ducks out of Wisconsin the mallard hunting will pick up.

If you ask Donald [Flash] Griffin what team gave Fenger its hardest fight while the south siders were marching to the 1938 Public High School league football championship, he will reply without hesitancy that it was Lane Tech.

Tomorrow afternoon Lane Tech, undefeated in five north section games, will seek its sixth consecutive triumph against Senn in Soldiers' field.

A victory over Senn will assure Lane Tech of at least a tie for the sectional title. Only one other opponent, Schurz, remains on Lane Tech's schedule. Lane Tech is confident it will reach the semi-finals on Nov. 18 and avenge the last year's 20 to 14 defeat at the hands of Fenger.

Lane Tech's heroes in the drive toward the north division championship have been: Milt Pergament, full back; Al Perlick, who does all the team's passing and kicking; Howard Cheney, and Augie Sunagel. In its five games Lane Tech scored 76 points to opponents' 13.

Fenger and Austin also will gain assurance of at least a tie for sectional honors if they win tomorrow afternoon. Fenger, south section representative, will meet Hirsch in Pullman Tech field. Austin, west section champion for three years, will oppose Farragut in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue.

Lindblom and Tilden Tech continue their close battle for the central section crown. Lindblom will face Phillips in Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, while Tilden Tech meets Kelly in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Lindblom and Tilden each has a record of five victories and the sectional championship may not be decided until the two teams meet in their annual battle on Nov. 11.

One of the largest prep crowds of the season is expected to watch the game between St. George's unbeaten team and Loyola on the former's field in Evanston Sunday afternoon. . . . St. George leads the north section of the Catholic league with four triumphs. . . . Mount Carmel, leader in the south zone, meets De La Salle in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

Hyde Park will meet DuSable in a central section game in St. Rita field, 63d street and Claremont avenue, this afternoon. . . . In the South Suburban league, Thornton will meet Bloom in Chicago Heights and Argo plays at Calumet City tonight. . . . Libertyville will help Lake Forest celebrate its homecoming this afternoon.

◆

Emerson High of Gary will attempt to take another step toward the western division championship of the Northern Indiana High School conference against Horace Mann in Gary tonight. . . . Froebel will oppose Washington on the latter's field in East Chicago in another league game.

CONCORDIA AND NORTHWESTERN COLLEGE TO MEET

Concordia college of River Forest will seek its third straight football victory over Northwestern college when the teams meet at Watertown, Wis., tomorrow.

Hampered by lack of reserves, Concordia nevertheless has won two of its four games this year. It lost to Wright Junior last week, 7 to 0, when the junior college eleven recovered a fumble on Concordia's 3 yard line in the closing minutes and scored on the first play afterward.

Aurora college and Concordia will meet Nov. 11 for the first time since 1930 when Aurora won, 12 to 0. The game will be Concordia's homecoming contest.

Lane Tech, Hyde Park Soccer Teams Tie, 1 to 1

Lane Tech moved into undisputed possession of first place in the Chicago Public High school soccer league by playing a 1 to 1 tie with Hyde Park yesterday on a muddy field in Jackson park. It was the third tie in six starts for the Tech squad.

Ohio Recalls '37 and Fears Hoosiers Jinx

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 2.—Two years ago Ohio State confidently expected to win a Western conference football championship. The Buckeyes had beaten Purdue, Northwestern, and Chicago. Then came Indiana before the final games with Illinois and Michigan.

But Indiana, which then had won only six games in the series of 22, swept through the Buckeyes to a 10 to 0 victory, the only conference defeat Ohio State suffered that season. That game has not been forgotten here in Columbus, although last year the Buckeyes nosed out the Hoosiers, 6 to 0. Indiana had the better of all statistical measurements except the all-important points. This loss may have started the Hoosiers on their ill-fated round of narrow margin defeats.

Maybe They're Jittery.

Indiana again comes to Ohio State Saturday and, while the Buckeyes are worrying over the nonconference licking last week by Cornell, the Hoosiers hope to follow thru with another surprise which will ruin Ohio State's conference title hopes.

The bogey man for Ohio State is Indiana's Hal Hursh, leading efficiency expert in forward passing in the Big Ten. Cornell scored a touchdown last week against the Buckeyes by passing and the Ohio State defense in general has been deficient against this weapon. Hursh has thrown 69 passes in four games this fall and completed 37. The net yardage is 538 and it has accounted for five of Indiana's eight touchdowns.

The Catchers Are Capable.

Hursh needs receivers to make his throwing superior to all other passers, and this includes Iowa's Nile Kinnick. Twelve players have caught Hursh's passes in four games. Without diligent research, it seems that this is a record number of receivers.

Indiana's leading pass receiver in yards gained is Red Zimmer, 145 pound half back. He has caught six passes for 184 yards. The most important of the receivers, however, is Ed Rucinski, right end, who has caught six passes for 52 yards and two touchdowns.

Hoosiers Love to Pass.

Indiana is the most air-minded team in the conference. The Hoosiers seem to have reversed the gridiron rule that an effective running or plunging attack opens up the secondary for passes. By their passing, the Hoosiers have made possible Joe Tofil's plunging. The young full back from Campbell, O., who was injured in the opening game last year and did not play during the remainder of the schedule, has rammed opponents' lines for 208 yards in 60 attempts. He has only made three gains, however, of more than 10 yards.

The phenomenon of the Ohio State season is the play of the line. Manned by holdover men except at the all-important tackle positions, the Buckeye forwards shackled Northwestern's attack and eventually outscored Minnesota. No one yet has explained why loss of three senior tackles—Alex Schoenbaum, Joe Aleskus, and Carl Kaplanoff—has made this year's team superior to that of last season.

Young Tackles Make Good.

Ohio State has come up with several earnest youngsters at tackle including Jim Daniell, James Piccinini, Jack Stephenson, and Thornton Dixon, all of whom have had experience. In addition Charley Maag, a center last year, has been shifted to tackle. He place-kicked the winning points in the Minnesota game.

Ohio State's players tonight went through a long drill on defense against passes. Later they drilled on attack, with emphasis on those plays that were not shown Indiana's Bo McMillin last week when he scouted Cornell and Ohio State.

Ohio State, with perhaps the best balanced back field in the conference, and this calls for a challenge from Minnesota, of course, should whip Indiana.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2 [Special].—Hopeful of handing Duquesne university its first defeat of the season, 31 members of the Marquette squad entrained tonight for Pittsburgh, Pa., where they will battle the Dukes Saturday afternoon.

Recent Marquette casualties, with one exception, have recovered and will be in shape to play. Dave Braden, speedy senior guard, was left at home. The Hilltoppers stressed defense in their final home workout today, and will work lightly at Forbes field tomorrow afternoon. Players making the trip are:

ENDS—Don Vosberg, Bull Burke, Gil Thomsen, Bob Sleske, and Dick Roche.

TACKLES—Tom Woods, Ray Busler, Charles Peifer, John Cevzycki, Dick Brye, Bob Ratcliffe, and Bill Fugate.

GUARDS—Ted Tunis, Joe Kinsey, Bob Kemmitz, Charles Hooper, and Gene Gramer.

CENTERS—Jimmy Briggs and Ray Apolskis.

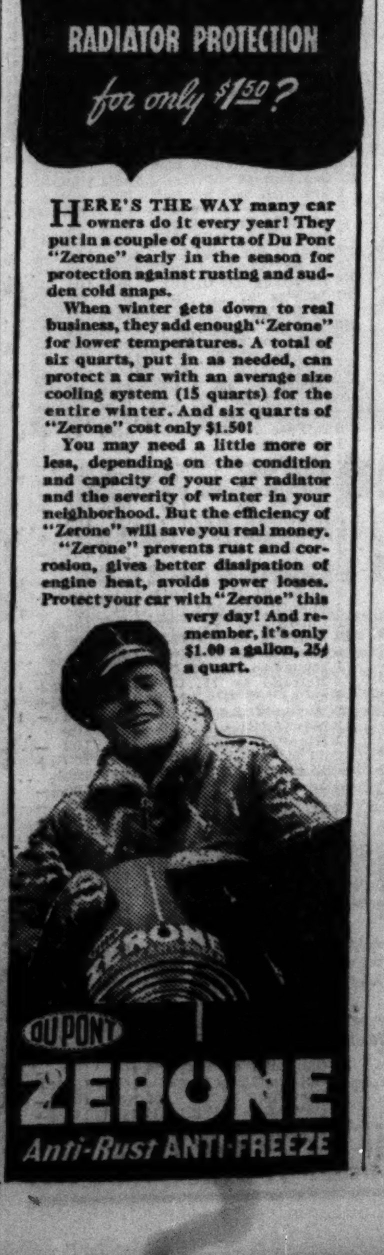
QUARTER BACKS—Bob McCahill, Bill Phillips, and Harry Leysenaar.

HALF BACKS—Charles Kriz, Fred Rice, Johnny Goodyear, Jimmy Richardson, Johnny Maltsch, and Charles Beyer.

FULL BACKS—Steve Seskowski, Doug Renzel, and Bob Rank.

Bradley Beats Momence; Wins Kankakee Valley Title

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—Bradley won the Kankakee Valley High School conference football title by beating Momence, 19 to 0, this afternoon.



DO YOU WANT ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION for only $1.50?

HERE'S THE WAY many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and sudden cold snaps.

When winter gets down to real business, they add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50!

You may need a little more or less, depending on the condition and capacity of your car radiator and the severity of winter in your neighborhood. But the efficiency of "Zerone" will save you real money.

"Zerone" prevents rust and corrosion, gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. Protect your car with "Zerone" this very day! And remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

Kromer Hurt Again; Out of Illinois Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—Paul Kromer, star Michigan left half back, reported this afternoon that he would not play against Illinois Saturday upon advice of doctors who have been treating his injured knee.

Kromer, ace safety man and running mate of Tom Harmon, suffered torn ligaments in his knee early in the season's opener against Michigan State and missed the Iowa and Chicago games, returning to action last Saturday against Yale.

Reserve Full Back Ed Christy and Half Back Hercules Renda also will be on the sidelines in Champaign. Both have charley horses.

Coach Fritz Crisler sent the squad thru a defensive drill today. The team will leave for Chicago at 8:27 a. m. tomorrow. It will remain there overnight.

The traveling squad:

CENTERS—Capt. Archie Kodros, Bob Ingalls, Horace Tinker, and Ted Kennedy.

GUARDS—Ralph Fritz, Milo Sukup, Bill Melzow, Fred Olds, Art Paddy, Forrest Jordan, and Bob Flora.

TACKLES—Joe Savilla, Bill Smith, Reuben Kelto, George Ostroot, Jack Butler, Ernest Zielinski, and Dennis Kuhn.

ENDS—Ed Frutig, John Nicholson, Joe Rogers, Ed Dzak, Harlan Fraumann, Paul Nielsen, and Joe Bosza.

QUARTER BACKS — Forest Evashevski, Jim Grissen, and Walter Kitti.

HALF BACKS—Tom Harmon, Fred Trosko, Dave Strong, Dave Nelson, Bill Luther, and Norman Call.

FULL BACKS—Bob Westfall, Bob Zimmerman, and Larry Wickter.

ILLINI END PRACTICE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—Illinois' final preparations today for its homecoming battle with Michigan Saturday included a preview of Wolverine formations as presented by freshmen in dummy scrimmage and a long punting and passing drill.

The forward pass, Illinois' major offensive weapon this fall, again received particular emphasis. Jimmy Smith, sophomore half back, has done most of the throwing in the absence of Chuck Purvis, senior half back who has been unable to practice regularly.

Chuck Will Be There.

Smith may start in place of Purvis, but the latter is expected to see service later in the game. Paul Milosevich, sophomore end; Nate Johnson, sophomore tackle out of action since the Indiana game, and La Verne Astroth, sophomore half back, have returned.

Jim Phillips, junior end, was on the first eleven today and displaced Milosevich in the starting lineup. Phillips is an excellent defensive player but not as good a pass receiver as Milosevich.

Makeshift State Lineup to Face Syracuse Rivals

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—Michigan State's football squad left tonight for Syracuse, where it will meet the University of Syracuse Saturday afternoon in the last meeting between the two teams in their current relationship.

Saturday's game will be the sixth between the two teams in the last eight years. The Spartans have won three of the five played. The greatest margin of victory was in 1939, when State won, 27 to 3. Last year State triumphed, 19 to 12.

Coach Charles W. Bachman sent the squad thru its final home workout this afternoon and hoped that the emphasis placed on ball handling thruout the week will pay dividends Saturday. The Spartans' chief worry is injuries. With Ed Abdo, Ed Pogor, Myron Pansy, and Paul Griffith, guards, out, Bachman has been compelled to move up sophomore replacements. The traveling squad:

ENDS—Blackburn, Friedlund, Kinek, Kutchins, McRae, Pound, and Smiley.

TACKLES: Bruckner, Carter, Gargett, Handler, Ketzko, and Karas.

GUARDS: Abdo, Rockenbach, Danciu, Miller, Rupp, Smolinski.

CENTERS: Batchelor and Robart.

QUARTER BACKS: Wil Davis, Sherman, Rossi, and H. Klewicki.

HALF BACKS: Crossthwaite, W. Davis, Drake, Kennedy, Quigley, and Sheib.

FULL BACKS: Amon, Derrickson, and Stevens.

LAKE FOREST IS NORTH CENTRAL'S HOMECOMING FOE

The North Central college football team will endeavor to satisfy a homecoming crowd when it meets Lake Forest college's heavier and fast improving eleven at Naperville tomorrow. North Central is in good condition for the battle.

Harold Riebel, former end who was at full back during North Central's 7 to 7 tie with Elmhurst last week, may be kept at that post, leaving Paul Roesler, a sophomore, at left end. Should Riebel be moved back into the line, Walter Anderson will be at full back. Others in the back field will be Dick Hayden at quarter, and Bruce Bishop and Bill Shatzer at the halves.

Full Back Charles Becker, Half Back George Metz and Frank Berg, pass catching star, are Lake Forest players who will be watched carefully by North Central.

During the five years that Coach Ralph Jones' Lake Forest teams have met North Central, each team has won two games and one tie has been played. Lake Forest won, 21 to 6, last year.

Iowa Holds Last Drill for Purdue

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 2 [Special].—Awed by scouting reports on Purdue turned in by Line Coach Jim Harris, the Iowa squad today went thru its last practice before taking off for Lafayette and its fourth Western conference game of the season against the Boilermakers Saturday. Injuries and sickness will cut down the squad which Coach Eddie Anderson will take to Lafayette tomorrow morning.

With Bill Diehl, center, and Jim Walker, left tackle, suffering from injuries which will keep them from the game, and Full Back Henry Vollenweider out with sinus trouble, it appeared the Iowa squad this week would be even smaller than last week's squad of only 28 men which went to Wisconsin.

The first and second teams ran thru a snappy drill today and stopped the Purdue running attack, as demonstrated by the reserves.

PURDUE FEARS KINNICK.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 2 [Special.]—Methods of stopping Iowa's high scoring attack, built around Nile Kinnick, occupied the Purdue squad this afternoon as it wound up preparation for Saturday's homecoming game.

"You'll have to do more than stop Kinnick," was the admonition of Coach Mal Elward as he reviewed the defensive tactics that have been planned. The Boilermakers, at the half way point in the season's card, find themselves in the position of having played only one conference game and able to place well up in the final rating if they can hit a victory stride the next four Saturdays.

The Purdue squad will leave early tomorrow afternoon for Mudlavia, 30 miles southwest of the city, where pre-game headquarters will be established. The Iowa squad will not arrive until shortly after noon Saturday following a stopover in Chicago.

MAYORS TO SIT WITH PLAYERS AT PREP GAME

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—Mayors of Rock Island and Moline today accepted an invitation to share places of honor on squad benches during the postponed Rock Island-Moline game now scheduled for Nov. 17 in Rock Island stadium. The game previously was called off because of pre-Halloween rowdyism.

R. P. Galbraith, Rock Island mayor, and Dr. A. Henry Arp, Moline mayor, will be Rock Island's guests during the first half and will finish the game on Moline's bench.

RAILROADS WIN NEW JERSEY TAX FIGHT DECISION

Federal Court's Order Limits Liability.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP).—New Jersey railroads today won their first major victory in an eight year court fight with the state over taxes when Federal District Judge Phillip Forman ordered a sweeping revision of assessment methods.

In a 62 page opinion, Judge Forman granted the request of nine carriers that the state be enjoined from collecting any more than 60 per cent of 1934, 1935 and 1936 tax levies.

The appealing railroads withheld $14,820,937 of a total bill of $36,938,811 for the three years, but the court said it was "unprepared to state to what extent the assessments are excessive nor does it think it has the power so to do."

Terms System Faulty.

Winners today were the Central of New Jersey, New Jersey and New York; Reading; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western; Lehigh Valley; New York Central; New York and Long Branch; Erie, and the New York, Susquehanna & Western.

Virtually the entire system of assessing railroad franchises, stock, and lands was termed faulty by Judge Forman, who had ruled in favor of the state against the carriers in appeals from 1932-'33 levies.

Issues and evidence presented in the two cases were different, the court explained.

Collects Under Old Decision.

On the basis of the 1932-'33 decision, which the United States Supreme court last spring refused to review, New Jersey collected $3,116,889 from six carriers today while it was being ruled against in Federal court. The payment was made on account of tax arrearages for the two years totaling some $9,000,000.

From 1932 thru 1938 the state's railroads — except the Pennsylvania System, which has paid taxes in full —withheld $34,258,000 on a total bill of more than $80,000,000.

CHARLES DURKEE'S CLAIM.

I hold certificates in the Charles Durkee Estate, which I understand represent an interest in $64,000,000 owed to the estate by the United State treasury. Can you give me any information on this?—K. U.

Answer: The alleged claims of the Charles Durkee estate against the United States treasury are without value.

Promoters of these certificates claimed that Charles Durkee was the owner of the entire issue of first mortgage bonds of the several Pacific railroad companies which received aid from the government when they were built. The bonds were supposed to amount to $64,000,000.

It was claimed that Durkee deposited these bonds with the United States treasury to secure completion of the roads. When the roads were finished, the government, it was asserted, instead of returning the bonds to Durkee sold them and now holds the proceeds as trustee for the estate.

The treasury department, which says it has numerous requests on this matter, states there is no foundation whatever for the alleged claim. "All persons are warned that money paid for a share or interest in this so-called claim will be money thrown away," the treasury department says.

SOME VALUE.

I am the holder of a $1,000 Cuban Cane Products company, Inc., 6 per cent debenture bond, due in 1950. Does this have any value?—A. M.

Answer: Cuban Cane Products company was placed in receivership in 1932 and was reorganized as Cuban Atlantic Sugar company in 1935. Holders of the 6 per cent debentures could obtain one share of the new company's stock for each $50 of debentures held on payment of $10 a share.

These debentures have a value of $2.46 a $1,000 debenture. The Manufacturers Trust company of New York holds the funds to make this payment.

CHICAGO OFFICIAL DENIES COERCION OF AUTO DEALERS

Explain General Motors Franchise Action

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 2 [Special].—W. J. Mougey of Wilmette, Chicago zone manager for Pontiac, denied today in the General Motors anti-trust trial that he had ever tried to persuade Pontiac dealers to use General Motors Acceptance corporation in financing time sales or had discriminated against dealers who gave business to other finance companies.

W. J. Mougey.

Mougey had been mentioned by several government witnesses as having threatened them with loss of their franchises unless they gave more business to G. M. A. C. In connection with the cancelation of the franchise of Carl Phillips, Chicago, a government witness, Mougey said Phillips lost his franchise because of his trade-in practices.

Claims Contract Failure.

In the case of F. L. Mendez, South Bend, former dealer who testified as a government witness that he lost contract because of not using G. M. A. C., Mougey said Mendez's contract was canceled because he did not live up to his agreement to sell more cars than any except Ford, Chevrolet, Plymouth and Studebaker.

Judge Walter C. Lindley tried to shorten the case by putting a stop to the parade of General Motors dealer-witnesses whom he has not allowed to testify concerning their treatment by General Motors.

John Thomas Smith, New York City, General Motors vice president and chief defense counsel, replied that the best way to show there was no force used in getting dealers to use G. M. A. C. is to put 15,000 dealers on the stand who would testify there was no coercion.

Jam South Bend Hotels.

So many General Motors dealers have arrived in South Bend that hotels are filled and some dealers have had to go to Niles, Mich., 10 miles north. There was no indication when the parade of dealer-witnesses would come to an end.

Nine dealers were put on the stand this morning and the answers they would have made to counsel's questions were read into the record by counsel.

Robert E. Griffin, Lansing, Mich., distribution manager for the Oldsmobile division of General Motors Sales corporation, testified that the number of cars left on hand at the end of model years of 1935, 1936, and 1937 was so small that it could not have been possible for the corporation to force unordered cars on dealers.

Griffin said that in 1935 there were only 3,281 cars left among 3,070 dealers, in 1936 there were 1,779 cars left among 3,600 dealers, and in 1937 there were 8,113 cars left among 3,587 dealers.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

Color Show Is Over.

November 2, 1939.

THE first snowfall of the season, even tho it lasted only a few minutes, was another reminder to the residents of the Du Page county farm that winter is on the way. The other morning, when we were in the sample garden chatting with one of the farm workers, he commented on the unusual autumn that we've had this year. Typical midwestern autumns, with flaming, colorful leaves in the woods and on city trees, provide a beauty that is a delight to every outdoor fan. But this annual treat lasted only about a week this year.

The drouth of August and September was responsible for the poor showing of autumn foliage made by the trees on the farm. The lack of rain and the heat drew much of the moisture from the trees, thus seriously affecting their leaves. Rains during October revived the trees for a few days, and helped them put a little more color in their foliage. But that stage is passed. The curtailed color parade is about over and now the wood lots seem to have resigned themselves to the fact that winter is not far away.

From Red to Brown.

We noticed this week that practically all of the hickory trees have lost their foliage. The few that still retain a few leaves are dull and lifeless. The white, bur, and red oaks which flamed for a few days after the rains have changed to monotonous browns and dull dark reds. We miss the brilliant scarlet and red shades in the sumac. These decorative shrubs always add much to the autumn landscape. Not many of the sumac plants have leaves on them this week.

Around the farm homes there are other indicators of the fading season. Gay yellow chrysanthemums are blooming around the cottages; farm workers are digging flower bulbs to be stored in cool basements for the winter and planting tulips, jonquils and other bulbs which will push their way thru the dead leaves early next spring.

Make Wild Fruit Jellies.

Farm women are going thru their cook books for new methods of preparing wild fruit jellies and jams from autumn ripening fruit. Migrating ducks drop down on the farm ponds almost every day and rise into the air in graceful flight when any one approaches their hideout; juncos are in the weed thickets, and around the farm ponds the last wild asters are holding out against the frosty nights.

One of the farm wives is rather proud of the supply of jelly with which she has stocked her basement shelves this season. Her newest concoction, which she showed us the other morning, is a jelly made from wild craos picked on the farm, canned apricots, and canned pineapple. These were cooked together with a liberal supply of sugar and made into a dark colored jelly which will go thru a series of table tests this winter.

The new money will go towa financing the deficit for this yea The deficit is expected to run abo 3 billion dollars and may approa 5 billions.

Gets Repayment from RFC.

The 500 million dollars of ne money will be coupled with 250 m lion dollars the treasury is to recei this week from the Reconstructi Finance corporation. The RFC mon goes to pay the last remnant of th lending unit's debt to the treasu on a note issue which was oversu scribed at least fourteen times, Mo genthau said.

The total subscription for the 3 million dollar RFC issue was 3 billi 643 million dollars. This indicate Morgenthau asserted, that feder financing is sound.

Morgenthau said the United Stat was the only government in th world to make a public offering f cash since Sept. 3. On Sept. 7 issue of 400 million dollars worth 2¼ per cent bonds and another 300 million dollars' worth of 1⅛ p cent notes were quickly taken up.

Will Offer TVA Securities.

The only other financing schedul at present, he continued, is the sa of between 50 and 60 million dolla worth of Tennessee Valley authori securities. This money is to raised to reimburse the treasury f expenditures in connection with th TVA purchase of facilities from th Tennessee Electric Light and Pow company, subsidiary of the Commo wealth and Southern corporation.

Deficit Exceeds Borrowing.

New borrowing did not equal t deficit because a cash balance of abo $2,000,000,000 was on hand and partly used to pay for the deficit. Co pared with a year ago, however, t debt was approximately $2,700,000,0 higher.

The deficit resulted from the spe ing in four months of $3,187,133,0 while the treasury was taking in o $1,768,126,495 in taxes and miscella ous receipts. In the same months l year receipts were slightly higher a expenditures somewhat lower, and t deficit was $1,139,193,209.

U. S. TO BORROW NEW MONEY FOR MORE SPENDING

Seeks a Half Billion Besides Refunding.

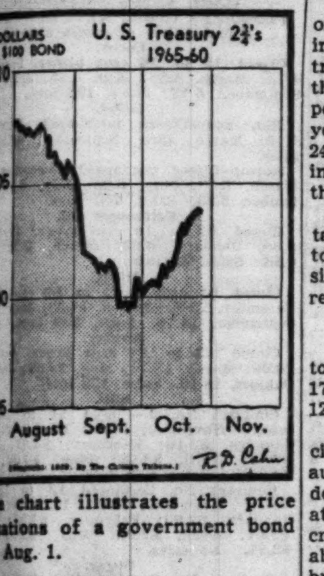
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today announced the treasury will seek 500 million dollars in new money between now and the end of the fiscal year, next June 30, to finance increased New Deal spending.

The decision to raise new money was influenced by the steadying of the federal security market. At the beginning of September, when it appeared that the European war had doomed the era of easy borrowing because of the sharp decline in government securities, the treasury said there would be no new financing. When the market strengthened within the first week of the month securities were offered and readily sold.

Refunding Also Planned.

On being advised by treasury officials that the government could continue to raise new money without disrupting the market, Secretary Morgenthau told his press conference that a half billion dollar financing operation would be carried out in the present fiscal year.



The chart illustrates the price fluctuations of a government bond since Aug. 1.

At the same time he declared that if the market remains as favorable as it is at present the treasury may refund in advance 1 billion 378 million dollars of obligations due on March [illegible]. There will be note maturities of [illegible] million dollars on June 15. Note maturities of 433 million dollars which were due on Dec. 15 were refunded on Sept. 7.

The new money will go toward financing the deficit for this year. The deficit is expected to run above [illegible] billion dollars and may approach [illegible] billions.

Gets Repayment from RFC.

The 500 million dollars of new money will be coupled with 250 million dollars the treasury is to receive this week from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The RFC money goes to pay the last remnant of the lending unit's debt to the treasury on a note issue which was oversubscribed at least fourteen times, Morgenthau said.

The total subscription for the 350 million dollar RFC issue was 3 billion [illegible] million dollars. This indicated, Morgenthau asserted, that federal financing is sound.

Morgenthau said the United States was the only government in the world to make a public offering for cash since Sept. 3. On Sept. 7 an issue of 400 million dollars worth of [illegible] per cent bonds and another of [illegible] million dollars' worth of 1⅛ per cent notes were quickly taken up.

Will Offer TVA Securities.

The only other financing scheduled at present, he continued, is the sale of between 50 and 60 million dollars' worth of Tennessee Valley authority securities. This money is to be raised to reimburse the treasury for expenditures in connection with the TVA purchase of facilities from the Tennessee Electric Light and Power company, subsidiary of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

The proposed treasury financing would further increase the federal debt, now at a record high of $41,036,-[illegible],763 and less than $4,000,000,000 below the statutory $45,000,000,000 limit. The administration is expected to ask the next regular session of congress to add $5,000,000,000 to the debt ceiling.

After four months of the fiscal year, which began July 1, the debt has increased $596,513,352 because of a $[illegible],006,599 excess of expenditures over income.

Deficit Exceeds Borrowing.

New borrowing did not equal the deficit because a cash balance of about $[illegible]00,000,000 was on hand and was partly used to pay for the deficit. Compared with a year ago, however, the debt was approximately $2,700,000,000 higher.

Customs collections in the Chicago district during October dipped to $1,-[illegible]281 from $1,089,780 in October, 1938, Joseph A. Ziemba, United States collector of customs for the district, reported yesterday. For the first 10 months this year receipts totaled $8,-[illegible]694, a slight gain over $8,866,316 in the corresponding period of 1938.

Ore Shipments Near 13 Year October Peak

Reflecting the high production rate of the steel industry, shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior district in October were the largest for the month since 1926, the Lake Superior Iron Ore association reported yesterday. Shipments totaled 9,201,-249 tons, compared with 9,337,774 tons in October, 1936, when the record for the month was set.

Ore shipments in October, 1938, totaled 3,624,416 tons. Last month's total was the largest for any month since August, 1937, when an all time record of 10,811,381 tons were shipped.

War Stimulates Demand.

For the season to date shipments totaled 39,562,023 tons, compared with 17,781,706 in the 1938 period, a gain of 122 per cent.

Shipments of iron ore in normal circumstances taper off during the autumn months. However, the great demand for steel which was generated with the outbreak of the war created a need for iron ore. All available ships were put into service to bring ore for storage to fill the needs of blast furnaces during the winter.

The Republic Steel corporation plans to light one of the largest blast furnaces in the world today in Warren, O. The furnace is said to be capable of producing more than 1,200 tons of pig iron in a 24 hour period.

Large Bus Orders Awarded.

Indicating where some of the steel is going, the Twin Coach company, Kent, O., disclosed details of two large orders. From the municipal railway of Seattle, Wash., it received an order for 169 trolley buses totaling about $2,000,000. The coaches are of two types, seating 30 and 40 passengers.

Twin Coach has an order for 44 40-passenger buses from the Kansas City Public Service company. With those orders, business booked so far this year is more than $9,000,000, making 1939 the best year in the company's history, it was said.

Seattle's bus orders total 338, contracts for which went to other companies.

ADD 50 MILLIONS TO PACIFIC GAS PLANT PROGRAM

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Pacific Gas and Electric company is spending $25,000,000 in construction work this year and will spend another $25,000,000 in 1940, James B. Black, president, announced today. With the $26,000,000 spent in 1938, the newest work will lift to $76,000,000 the company's three year construction outlay.

Three new steam plants, each with a capacity of 67,000 horsepower and costing $5,000,000 are now under construction on the shore of San Francisco bay, two to be ready for operation in the summer and fall of 1940, and the third about the middle of 1941.

"A fourth electric generating plant of at least equal capacity will be necessary in 1942," Black said, "and work on it must be started during the next few months."

NEW YORK MARKETS PLAN 3 HOLIDAYS THIS MONTH; CHICAGO TWO

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Financial and commodity markets are prepared to celebrate three holidays before the end of the month. The New York Stock exchange, the curb, various commodity markets, and the banks will be closed election day, next Tuesday; Armistice day, Nov. 11, and President Roosevelt's officially proclaimed Thanksgiving on Nov. 23.

Securities markets in other cities, excluding Chicago, will also close election day. Banks and the security and commodity exchanges of Chicago will remain open next Tuesday.

The most complete world shutdown of markets since last Christmas looms for Armistice day. The Chicago live stock market, however, will remain open.

On the basis of reports to date it appears that all securities and commodity markets may be closed for the "new" Thanksgiving, Nov. 23, with the exception of the Minneapolis and Duluth grain markets, which will close Nov. 30 instead.

The New York Stock exchange, the curb, and exchanges in other cities have indicated they will stay open on the "old" Thanksgiving, which by tradition falls on the last Thursday of the month.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC SAGS, BUT STILL TOPS YEAR AGO

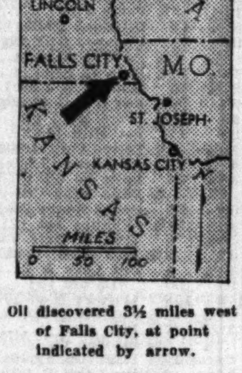
First Oil Well Is Discovered in Nebraska

Falls City, Neb., Nov. 2 (AP).—Discovery of a small producing oil well in the four state Forest City basin started a new oil boom thru parts of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska today.



Oil discovered 3½ miles west of Falls City, at point indicated by arrow.

A well which Albert Ladner of the Pawnee Royalty company estimated would produce 50 to 500 barrels a day was brought in on a farm three and a half miles west of here, climaxing months of frantic scrambling for oil leases in this area.

Agents of major companies and "wildcatters" alike have leased an estimated 3,000,000 acres of land in the four state region this year, starting with a geologist's finding of oil traces in a WPA rock quarry.

For Nebraska, today's discovery meant an immediate claim by the oil pioneers on a long standing $15,000 state reward for the first production of oil in commercial quantities.

Texas Faces Shortage.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 2 (AP).—Texas, with more than 80,000 producing wells and an underground reserve of 8½ billion barrels, has a shortage of oil.

Chairman Lon A. Smith and Jerry Sadler of the Texas railroad commission, which regulates production, have asked the United States bureau of mines to increase its November estimate of demand, on which Texas production is based.

Would Extend Control.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—Jerry Sadler, member of the Texas railroad commission, said, after a White House conference today, President Roosevelt told him there should be either federal or state control of all branches of the petroleum industry—production, refining, transportation, and distribution.

M'KESSON DRUG FIRM HAS SHARP GAIN IN PROFITS

Other Concerns Have Varying Results.

Earnings of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., and subsidiaries during the September quarter increased to $899,397, statement by William J. Wardall, trustee, showed yesterday. The report, which was unaudited, contained no provision for interest and amortization charges on the company's 5½ per cent convertible debentures and was subject to year-end adjustments.

The earnings compared with $279,-987 in the corresponding period last year after elimination of fictitious sales and profits in the crude drug department.

Nine Months' Earnings Rise.

During the first nine months of this year the company earned $2,609,-253, on the same basis, against $628,-077 in the first three quarters of the preceding year, according to the trustee's statement. After deducting reorganization expenses and adding recoveries of the trustee the balance for the quarter ended Sept. 30 amounted to $804,082. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 the balance totaled $2,306,409.

Borg-Warner corporation reported consolidated net income amounting to 46 cents per share for the September quarter, compared with loss of 21 cents per share during the corresponding period last year. Western Union Workers Fight Dissolution Decree by NLRB

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—The Association of Western Union Employés announced today that it will fight in the courts the order of the National Labor Relations board that the Western Union Telegraph company disestablish and withdraw all recognition from the association.

R. B. White believes courts will not uphold NLRB order.

Denouncing the board's decision as "biased and vicious," C. J. Elsden, division president of the association, said his group would carry its fight to the Supreme court, if necessary. While the appeal is being taken, the association will ask the company to continue the check-off of dues and other provisions of its old agreement, Elsden added.

R. B. White, president of Western Union, declared that an examination of the NLRB order "has convinced us that the order will not be sustained by the courts."

Earlier the board announced it had asked the Second Circuit Court of Appeals to enforce the order, which also directed the company to reimburse employés for dues deducted from pay envelopes since July 5, 1935.

"The Association of Western Union Employés has been in existence for more than 20 years," White said. "During that time it has bargained collectively with the company on wages and working conditions. It is an independent labor organization."

He said that the company had been "advised that under the law the order will not be enforceable until it has been approved by the courts."

The amount of money collected as dues cannot be determined without further investigation, because it has been remitted to the association locally, and does not appear in the company's accounts, White said.

The labor board order calling for dissolution of the union alleged it was dominated by the company.

AM. TELEPHONE UNITS SHOW LARGER GAIN IN STATIONS INSTALLED

Principal telephone subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph company included in the Bell system showed a gain of 86,800 telephones in service during October, the company announced yesterday. The increase in telephones in operation for the preceding month was 93,900. For October, 1938, the gain was 58,400.

The cumulative gain by the Bell system during the first 10 months of this year amounted to 610,100 instalments. This compared with a gain of 303,500 for the corresponding period last year. A total of 16,375,000 telephones was in operation in the Bell system on Oct. 31.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company reported a gain of 7,165 stations in service in Chicago during October, compared with gains of 3,016 in September and 5,198 in October, 1938. The October gain was the largest in more than two years. Stations in use at the close of the month totaled 986,322, or 7,068 less than the all-time peak. Total gain of stations in Chicago during the first 10 months this year was 23,971, against 7,958 during the similar period last year.

EXPERTS SLASH ESTIMATES ON WINTER WHEAT

Crop Makes Poores Start on Record.

The winter wheat crop is making the poorest start on record, it wa stated yesterday by Chicago crop ex perts in their November report They visualize a yield of 375,000,00 to 415,000,000 bushels next summer o the basis of the present conditio With one expection this would be th smallest crop in more than 30 year Last year's crop aggregated 551,000 000 bushels, and the 1928-'37 averag is 560,000,000 bushels.

Condition of winter wheat on N 1, as estimated by Nat C. Murra statistician for Jackson & Curtis, i only 61.5 per cent of normal, compare with the previous record low cond tion of 68.9 per cent on Dec. 1, 193 The yield of wheat in the latter yea was 8.5 bushels per seeded acre.

Drouth Reduces Planting.

About 44,000,000 acres of winter wheat has been or will be seeded this fall, or 2,173,000 acres less than was seeded for the 1939 crop. Drouth conditions in the big surplus producing states west of the Missouri river account for the reduction, the experts say.

Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Colorado, the states which raise the bulk of the hard winter variety of wheat so much in demand by millers, have a prospective yield at the present time of about 174,000,000 bushels, Murray estimates, or 70,000,-000 bushels less than was produced this year and about 100,000,000 bushels less than the average of the last 10 years.

Abandonment of winter wheat acreage during the 1939-'40 season may be extremely heavy unless weather conditions are unusually favorable for the crop, the experts say.

Big Corn Crop Forecast.

A corn crop of 2,555,000,000 bushels is forecast by the statisticians. This is 23,000,000 bushels in excess of the department of agriculture's estimate

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Nov. 2.—Apparently awaiting the house vote on repeal of the arms embargo, the stock market today gave a highly nervous performance and finished irregularly higher. Fractional price changes were registered on both sides. The industrials had a range of less than 2 points and fluctuations were even narrower in rails and utilities.

Shares of airplane manufacturing companies, expected to be the first to gain from embargo repeal, sold higher. Glenn Martin stood out with a gain of 2¾ points. Douglas, Curtiss-Wright, United Aircraft, Bendix and Boeing worked fractionally higher. Consolidated Aircraft added 1⅜ points. Some of these approached or made new highs for the year.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and other representative steels closed fractionally lower after having achieved momentary gains.

Chrysler lost nearly a point, while General Motors and other automobile shares closed unchanged to higher. Rubbers closed mixed.

Mixed prices also ruled in the oil section. Most coppers gave ground, altho Anaconda and International Nickel pointed higher.

Rails were believed affected by the decline in car loadings, the group enticing little enthusiasm.

Power and light shares gave the best performance on average.

Western Union was knocked down 2¾ points on selling prompted by the order against the company union by the NLRB.

Collateral borrowings of New York Stock exchange members increased $67,168,637 during October to a total of $534,228,504, the exchange reported today.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Some industrial issues advanced today in an otherwise static bond market. At the close fraction gains and declines practically balanced.

Among the most active performers were Western Union 5s of '51 and '60 which slipped 1¼ and 2½ points, respectively. This slump was more than outweighed by gains of ½ and 1½ points respectively in Bethelehem Steel 3½s and 3¾s, and by lesser advances in U. S. Steel 3¼s and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s. Pennsylvania company 4s jumped 1½.

United States Treasuries in general declined on limited dealings, the top setback being 19-32 point. Among the foreign government dollar loans, virtually the sole gainers were securities of France and Italy. Others were largely ignored and mainly declined.

Chicago Stocks.

Several volume leaders advanced ⅛ to 1⅜ points on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading continued light. Gains and losses thruout the list were evenly balanced. A total of 31,000 shares was traded in 109 issues.

E. L. Bruce rose 1⅜, and Zenith Radio, Standard Oil [Ind.], and H. W. Gossard also advanced slightly. Commonwealth Edison, volume leader, closed unchanged at 31. Chicago corporation and Hein-Werner ended lower.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois bank stock was again bid up to a new 1939 high at 84, up ½ point, in yesterday's bank stock trading. Bid 1 point higher were First National and City National stocks. Prices follow:

Closing contract quotations wer down 13 to 15 cents a pound. Cash silk tumbled 9 cents to $3.41½ pe pound.

Cash tin dropped another cent to 54 cents a pound, but futures closed unchanged to 0.12½ cent higher. Cocoa and both sugar contracts also moved upward.

Cottonseed oil, lead, zinc, and rubber futures declined. Cash rubber sank 0.29 cent to 20.40 cents a pound. Hides and wool tops were irregular.

IRON ORE PRICES VARY BUT TWIC IN LAST 14 YEAR

Monopoly Group As Dealers to Explain.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—leaders in the iron ore business peared before the monopoly comm tee today and undertook to expl why the base price of iron ore varied only twice in the last 14 ye Two of them were asked about ters dealing with relations amo the firms which supply iron ore the major steel companies.

Patrick Butler, a nephew of As ciate Justice Pierce Butler of Supreme court, explained that a ter to his father, Emmett Butler, not "mean what it seems." Da April 10, 1934, the letter said, saw Hoyt yesterday and he told the ore magnates had decided to tain last year's market prices."

Refers to Competitor.

The Butlers operate Butler Bro ers, an iron ore producing compa at St. Paul, and the letter referr to Elton Hoyt II., president Pickands, Mather & Co., importa buyer and seller of Butlers' ore.

"Did you magnates get toge and fix the price of ore?" boom Leon Henderson, SEC commission and committee member.

"That's the first I heard of i Hoyt replied calmly. He said the le ter meant "the magnates and the customers had negotiated a price f the year."

A second letter was from E. Greene, president of the Clevelan Cliffs corporation, to G. M. Hu phrey, president of the M. A. Hann company, Cleveland iron ore concer

Written in September, 1934, it sa that Greene was "glad that the iro ore business is so largely in th hands of a small group of men wh all work on a close and friendl basis."

Terms Competition Keen.

Earlier Greene had testified tha there was "very keen competition in the sale of iron ore and that th Hanna company was one of severa "substantial competitors."

In addition to the Butlers, Hoyt and Greene, the sextet include George M. Humphrey of M. A. Hanna & Co., and Crispin Oglebay of Ogle bay, Norton & Co., also of Cleveland.

A. H. Feller, justice departme attorney, introduced charts showin that the base price of iron ore wa $4.25 a ton from 1925 to 1929. I then rose to $4.50 and remained there for the next eight years, wa advanced to $4.95 in 1937, and is now quoted at that figure.

Tells Terms of Contracts.

Hoyt and Humphrey said most ore suppliers had long term contracts with steel companies and that concessions were made by reducing contracted tonnage during depression years to maintain price levels.

"Freight rates changed, volumes changed, prices of finished steel goods changed, and it seems very unusual there was not a jot or tittle of change in iron ore base prices," observed Henderson.

The ore merchants replied that charts of the base price over the depression period failed to reflect concessions or deviations actually made.

Week's Soft Coal Output 19.1 Pct. Above Year Ago

The National Coal association yesterday estimated bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended Oct. 28 at approximately 10,300,000 tons, an increase of 19.1 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago. Production in the week, however, was below that of the two preceding weeks, the association said.

IRON ORE PRICES VARY BUT TWICE IN LAST 14 YEARS

Monopoly Group Asks Dealers to Explain.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—Six dealers in the iron ore business appeared before the monopoly committee today and undertook to explain why the base price of iron ore had varied only twice in the last 14 years. Two of them were asked about letters dealing with relations among the firms which supply iron ore to the major steel companies.

Patrick Butler, a nephew of Associate Justice Pierce Butler of the Supreme court, explained that a letter to his father, Emmett Butler, did not "mean what it seems." Dated April 10, 1934, the letter said, "I saw Hoyt yesterday and he told me the ore magnates had decided to retain last year's market prices."

Refers to Competitor.

The Butlers operate Butler Brothers, an iron ore producing company at St. Paul, and the letter referred to Elton Hoyt II., president of Pickands, Mather & Co., important buyer and seller of Butlers' ore.

"Did you magnates get together and fix the price of ore?" boomed Leon Henderson, SEC commissioner and committee member.

"That's the first I heard of it," Hoyt replied calmly. He said the letter meant "the magnates and their customers had negotiated a price for the year."

A second letter was from E. B. Greene, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs corporation, to G. M. Humphrey, president of the M. A. Hanna company, Cleveland iron ore concern. Written in September, 1934, it said that Greene was "glad that the iron ore business is so largely in the hands of a small group of men who all work on a close and friendly basis."

Terms Competition Keen.

Earlier Greene had testified that there was "very keen competition" in the sale of iron ore and that the Hanna company was one of several "substantial competitors."

In addition to the Butlers, Hoyt, and Greene, the sextet included George M. Humphrey of M. A. Hanna & Co., and Crispin Oglebay of Oglebay, Norton & Co., also of Cleveland. A. H. Feller, justice department attorney, introduced charts showing that the base price of iron ore was $4.25 a ton from 1925 to 1929. It then rose to $4.50 and remained there for the next eight years, was advanced to $4.95 in 1937, and is now quoted at that figure.

Tells Terms of Contracts.

Hoyt and Humphrey said most ore suppliers had long term contracts with steel companies and that concessions were made by reducing contracted tonnage during depression years to maintain price levels.

"Freight rates changed, volumes changed, prices of finished steel goods changed, and it seems very unusual there was not a jot or tittle of change in iron ore base prices," observed Henderson.

The ore merchants replied that charts of the base price over the depression period failed to reflect concessions or deviations actually made.

TWA SETS NEW MARK DURING OCTOBER FOR AIR PASSENGER TRAVEL

All passenger traffic records for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., were broken in October, when the air line touched the mark of 11,000,000 revenue passenger miles for the first time, J. A. Thomas, central region manager, announced yesterday.

From Oct. 1 to Oct. 30, Thomas said, the air line flew 10,758,008 revenue passenger miles, and those estimated flown on Oct. 31 brought the total to 11,000,000. In the same month a year ago, he said, the line flew 7,582,751 passenger miles, or 32 per cent less than this year.

Setting a new high for passengers carried in a month, Eastern Air Lines transported 22,450 revenue passengers in October, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager, reported. This volume represents an increase of 35 per cent as compared with October last year.

NEW YORK FAIR TRAFFIC IS FAR BELOW ESTIMATE

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—The New York World's Fair railroad carried only 7,066,948 passengers during the fair—54.1 per cent of the 13,072,500 riders expected by the board of transportation on the basis of too optimistic attendance estimates prepared two years ago. The fare was 10 cents, contrasted with 5 cents on other lines to the fair and 5 cents elsewhere on the city owned independent subway system, which operated the world's fair railroad.

The road, a two-mile link between the fair grounds and the Queens' line of the independent system, cost about $1,700,000 to build, operate, and maintain. Operating and maintenance cost was estimated at 2.49 cents a passenger before the line was built. The actual operating cost, including interest and amortization on bonded debt, was computed at 8.97 cents for each rider.

The transportation board originally estimated a deficit of $523,500 the first year and $634,550 the second, assuming that the fair ran during two years. On the basis of this year's experience, the board is revising its estimates sharply upward.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE, BUT HOLD BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Bank clearings for the week ended Nov. 1 exceeded the preceding week's total, but dropped behind the 1938 comparative for the third consecutive week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Clearings for 22 leading cities totaled $5,845,602,000, a drop of 3.1 per cent from last year's $6,034,543,000. The week's volume exceeded by $682,689,000 the total of the preceding week.

New York clearings of $3,597,125,000 for the week were 7.3 per cent less than the $3,881,585,000 for the same 1938 week. Chicago's total was $313,800,000, against $316,800,000 last year.

EXECUTIVES SELL STOCKS OF THEIR OWN COMPANIES

Liquidate in September's Rising Markets.

Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler corporation, disposed of 11,900 shares of Chrysler stock in September, the Securities and Exchange commission reported yesterday. Chrysler's holdings at the end of the month totaled 78,732 shares. He had made smaller reductions in his holdings in the two preceding months, reporting sales of 8,100 shares in August and 10,000 shares in July.

The commission's report on security transactions of corporation officials and major stockholders disclosed reductions in stock ownership were made by a number of other prominent individuals.

Sell in Rising Market.

These sales were made when the security markets were rising sharply and marked a continuation of the trend that has been shown in reports of the commission in recent months.

Harold E. Talbott of New York, a director of Chrysler corporation, reported holdings of 5,000 shares of the corporation's stock at the end of September, 2,500 shares less than he owned at the end of July.

William A. Fisher of Detroit reported he reduced his interest in General Motors corporation common stock by 7,000 shares, retaining a total of 20,416 shares. Included in the 7,000 shares disposed of were 4,000 shares that were given away, the recipient not being named. Fisher is a vice president of the company.

Steel Officials Liquidate.

Officials of several steel companies also cut their ownership in their companies.

Repeated small sales during September by Ralph H. Norton, Chicago, reduced his interest in common stock of the Acme Steel company 1,750 shares to 43,781. He is president of the company.

George R. Fink, Ecorse, Mich., trimmed 2,000 common shares of National Steel corporation from his holdings and kept 25,730 shares. He is president of the company.

Elroy J. Kulas, Cleveland, reported he held 1,700 shares of common stock of the Otis Steel company, of which he is president, after disposing of 2,300 shares.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., New York City, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, cut his direct holdings of the corporation's common stock to one share by selling 325 shares. He also had an indirect interest in 474 shares.

Vauclain Sells Baldwin.

Disposal of 4,000 common voting trust certificates of Baldwin Locomotive Works by Samuel M. Vauclain, Philadelphia, a director, cut his interest to 14,000 shares.

Jesse J. Ricks, New York City, president of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, disposed of 10,000 common shares and held 26,451 at the end of September.

Albert H. Wiggin, New York City, a major stockholder of Armour & Co. of Illinois, sold 3,000 common shares and retained 2,000. He also owned 4,200 shares of the $6 convertible prior preferred and 5,201 shares of the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stocks.

One of the large purchases in September was the acquisition by the Hughes Tool company of Houston, Tex., of 8,600 common shares of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., of which Howard Hughes, noted aviator, is chairman. The tool company has consistently enlarged its equity in the air line and held 156,893 shares at the end of September.

Bensingers Give Stock.

B. Edward Bensinger, Chicago, executive vice president of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, gave away 8,000 common shares and held 25,402 shares directly in addition to indirect interests in three trusts. A gift of 10,000 common shares was made by R. F. Bensinger, president, who owned 40,420 shares at the end of the month.

Dean D. Francis, Cleveland, director of the Borg-Warner corporation, sold 5,600 shares of its common stock and held 5,200.

John F. Gilchrist, Chicago, a vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, reduced his holdings of common stock 1,940 shares to 2,679.

Acquisition of 2,500 common shares of the Container Corporation of America by Walter P. Paepcke, Chicago, president, increased his interest to 3,200 shares.

Thomas B. Freeman, Chicago, director of Butler Brothers, added 2,250 common shares to raise his holdings to 6,325.

Fresh Pork Prices Recede 15 Pct. in Last Ten Days

Fresh pork prices in the wholesale market have declined about 15 per cent in the last ten days, the Institute of American Meat Packers reported yesterday. Prices now prevailing are about the same as a month ago. Wholesale veal is about 12 per cent below a month ago, but lamb and beef prices are mostly higher than at the beginning of October.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The heaviest Thursday hog receipts since January arrived at the Chicago stockyards yesterday as the movement of spring pigs to market increased. The day's average was pulled down 10 cents, to $6.65, the lowest of the week.

One of the sharpest declines in many months hit the market for heifers again yesterday, bringing the majority of medium grade heifers 50 to 75 cents under last week's close. Short fed steers and yearlings lost ground, but top grades of most weights held steady, with some strength evident in prime heavy steers.

Slaughter lambs met broad demand at strong rates, top grades bringing 10 cents more than on the preceding session.

EXPERTS SLASH ESTIMATES ON WINTER WHEAT

View Crop Making Poorest Start on Record.

a month ago and compares with 2,542,000,000 bushels harvested in 1938.

With reserves of 561,000,000 bushels of old corn on Oct. 1, as officially estimated, plus the new crop, there would be 3,116,000,000 bushels of grain available for consumption during the 1939-'40 season, or about 210,000,000 bushels in excess of the amount on hand at the beginning of the 1938-'39 season. The current year's supply is the largest with one exception in more than 14 years.

WHEAT PRICES RALLY

Additional drouth reports from the west and private estimates that the outlook for the new winter wheat crop was the poorest in more than 30 years brought in fairly active short covering in the wheat market yesterday. Prices rallied about 1 cent after a small decline early and came within a fraction of a cent a bushel of the highest level since Sept. 22. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were at gains of ¼ to ½ cent.

Soy beans futures sold at new high prices for the season despite estimates that this year's harvest was the largest on record. The close was 2 to 2¼ cents higher. R. O. Cromwell estimated the yield at 83,000,000 bushels, or 11,000,000 bushels in excess of the department of agriculture's returns a month ago. Last year's crop was 58,000,000 bushels.

Corn held within narrow price limits, being depressed early on selling induced by a bearish construction placed on crop estimates by Chicago statisticians. Part of the loss was recovered later when wheat rallied. The close was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

EGG FUTURES UP ON REPORTS OF FEDERAL BUYING

Chicago Mercantile exchange egg futures climbed 0.20 to .25 cent a dozen yesterday. November closing at 17.35 cents. Brokers said some of the buying was based on rumors that the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation would purchase 200,000 to 500,000 cases of storage eggs for relief distribution. A case contains 30 dozens.

Local FSCC authorities were unable to confirm the report and the Washington offices made no statement. A scarcity of fresh eggs lifted cash prices as much as 2½ cents a dozen in New York.

The agricultural marketing service estimated butter production in the week ended Oct. 28 was 5.8 per cent below the corresponding 1938 week, but 0.5 per cent larger than in the preceding week this year.

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this salary loan service because the great body of employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method.

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers. You may borrow $25 to $300—

On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

Residents of Illinois have benefited by this new "SPECIAL" Loan Plan.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1⅓% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note, or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.

OUST MANTEN
CHIEF IN TYPHO
EPIDEMIC QU

Probe by Grand Ju Is Ordered.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Investigation of the typhoid demic which has taken 53 li the Manteno State hospital m swiftly yesterday. There were major developments:

1. Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, mana officer of the hospital, wa pended from duty by A. L. Bo state director of public welfare, the order of Gov. Horner.

2. State's Attorney Samuel H.
piro of Kankakee county nounced he would seek indictm against Dr. Hinton, Bowen, and lian Williams, hospital dietitian.
piro said he would seek to have indictments charge malfeasance office and possibly manslaughter.

Jury Call Ordered.

Shapiro also said he would a grand jury to determine whether responsibility rested on Dr. A. C. Baxter, head of the state health department, whose many warnings that the Manteno water was unfit for use were ignored by Dr. Hinton and Bowen.

Dr. Ralph T. Hint
Dr. D. L. Steinberg

Circuit Judge Luther B. Bratton of Kankakee said he would call a special grand jury to convene Nov. 13 for the investigation. He approved a petition in which Shapiro requested the jury call. Sheriff Dan Bergen of Kank kee county was directed to select t jurors.

Dr. Hinton's removal was order by the governor in a letter to Bowe
The governor also told Bowen to move any other employés he saw f pending the outcome of the inves gations into the epidemic.

Full Facts Demanded.

Gov. Horner's letter said:

"Certain factors in the situati which has existed at Manteno St hospital necessitate, at this tim my directing you, as director of t department of public welfare, to s pend Dr. Ralph Hinton as managi officer of that institution, and s other employés as in your judgm may be necessary, until such a ti as competent authorities have plac responsibility for conditions at t hospital.

"This action is not intended as reflection upon those employés—a should not be so construed unless f ther investigations show them culp
ble. The public is entitled to t fullest facts, and I feel that th making the investigation will f freer in their action if some one e were in charge of the institution this time."

Dr. Hinton refused to comment
the suspension. Dr. D. L. Steinber assistant managing officer of the ho pital, was placed in temporary charg Bowen said Dr. Steinberg would be charge until Dr. Charles F. R managing officer of the Elgin Sta hospital, could be summoned ho from a western business trip to sume the post of Manteno manag officer.

Freer Reports Expected.

Shapiro said he believed that t suspension of Dr. Hinton might p suade his subordinates to talk mo freely to the grand jury.

Shapiro said he would include t dietitian in his indictment reque because while the food bought raised by the hospital was of t best quality, "much fault was fou with its preparation."

Before leaving his duties to D
Steinberg, Dr. Hinton, a state e ployé for 32 years, said the epidem was on the wane. The death of patient Thursday brought the to to 53, but there have been no ne cases reported in a month. Appro mately 290 persons are in isolati in the hospital as typhoid suspects typhoid cases. Gladys Moody, a p tient, who had been critically ill several weeks, died Thursday.
